Store-door delivery and pick-up of package freight, the Pennsylvania Railroad's answer to truck competition, was authorized yesterday by Federal Railroad Coordinator Eastman.

A major departure in railroad policy, the venture was approved by Mr. Eastman as an experiment, over the protest of F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central lines.

The plan will give package freight virtually the same drayage service now offered by express and truck companies. The service will be launched as soon as new tariff schedules are approved covering pick-up and delivery costs.

Williamson Hits Plan.

Williamson, in a letter to Eastman, said the store-door delivery arrangement on one system would impair the earnings of all the carriers in the Eastern region.

He held, also, that such authorization constituted a violation of the Interstate Commerce act. He previously had rejected suggestion of Coordinator Eastman that the plan be inaugurated simultaneously on both the Pennsylvania and New York Central lines.

In overruling Williamson's objections, Eastman said broad experience with such service in Europe and in isolated regional ventures in this country has demonstrated practicability of the plan.

He also made the point that similar service has been given for some time by the Universal Carloading and Distributing Co. "which the New York Central apparently controls."

Eastman Gathers Data.

Eastman has been gathering data on this and other proposed modifications of railway service for several months.

As a part of his survey of new transportation needs, he sent questionnaires to some 25,000 industrial traffic managers.

The answers, described as a Nation-wide picture of today's shipping needs, still are being tabulated. The preliminary analysis, however, indicates a broad demand for store-door delivery service.

Atterbury Explains Plan.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP).—Plans for establishing "store-door" collection and delivery of less-than-carload merchandise throughout the entire territory of the Pennsylvania Railroad were announced tonight by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president.

Included in the new arrangement will be provisions for shipping goods C. O. D., thus "giving seller and buyer the same convenience in effecting a sale as though delivery were made by the merchant's own truck," the announcement stated.

Up to and including distance of 260 miles, collection and delivery will be performed, on request, at the existing rail rate, with a minimum of 35 cents per 100 pounds or 50 cents per individual shipment.

Beyond 260 miles, a sliding scale of charges, additional to the station-to-station rate, will rule, reaching a maximum at approximately 400 miles at 8 cents per 100 pounds for collection or delivery.

Wounded Man Kills Robber

Stolen Money in Bandit's Hand Shredded by Shots.

Bowling Green, Ohio, Sept. 28 (AP).—Firing as he fell before the bullets of a bank robber, Marshal Ben Stone killed the holdup man as he fled with $300 from the Farmers Savings Bank at Luckey, 12 miles from here, today. Summoned by an undertaker who didn't like the looks of two strangers, Stone came on the run, sawed off shotgun in hand.

He met the robbers at the door of the bank and was greeted with a spray of bullets. As he fell, wounded, Stone fired, the charge lodging in the robber's breast, and tearing to shreds the bank notes he held.

Man Freed for Petting Because 'Twas His Wife

Baltimore, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—If you want to pet your wife in public it's all right to do so in Baltimore.

This question was decided today by Magistrate Edward M. Staylor in traffic court. Charles Milan, 25, arrested for petting in a car in a dark spot, proved the lady was his wife. The charge was dismissed.

Five Frogs, Buried 34 Years, Hop Off Under Own Steam

Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP). Five spotted frogs, unearthed wrecking a building here, have raised the question whether they could have been buried 34 years ago and live.

Prof. James W. Mavory, of Union College biology department, who has been studying one of the frogs, said there were indications the amphibian had spent all of this century hibernating in the foundation.

Workmen recovered the frogs two days ago and tossed them aside, believing they were dead. Scientists investigated. Four of the frogs, however, had other notions and had hopped away.

Riots, Strikes Answer U. S. Plea for Peace

Labor Unrest Spreading in East, Middle West; Battle in Indiana.

Violence flared in strike-torn Pennsylvania coal fields yesterday where 100,000 coal miners were idle while labor unrest spread throughout the East and Middlewest.

Coal miners, steel workers and automobile laborers in various sections continued to ignore the Government's appeal for a holiday on walk-outs. In several instances there was rioting and disorder. The National Guard was called out in Indiana to quell a riot between union and nonunion miners.

At Uniontown, Pa., two employes of the Shamrock Coke Co. were dragged from their automobile and saved from a beating only by arrival of State Police. Two striking miners were arrested.

Rioting in Oakland City.

Most of the Indiana rioting occurred at Oakland City, where "raiding parties" of striking coal diggers visited homes of men employed in the Somerville and Francisco mines, demanding that nonunion men leave town.

NRA officials in Washington planned to treat with Henry Ford in person if necessary to obtain reopening of his strike-bound Chester, Pa., plant and submission of the controversy to arbitration.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, said he believed the differences could be composed. He added the board would seek to persuade the Ford Motor Co. to recede from its decision to close the plant indefinitely as an answer to the strikers.

At the same time, Wagner asserted industrial disputes were an expected companion of the economic transition under the NRA and forecast gradual settling of strikes under guidance of the board.

Workmen in the Ford plant at Richmond, Calif., claimed 500 or more men had been laid off to provide a five-day week for the remainder, but plant officials said only 150 of the 1,000 employes had been released, because of a seasonal slackening. A workman said an effort would be made to organize and demand assurance of a five-day week and a $20 weekly wage.

De Valera Wins First Victory Over Rival Party

Dublin, Sept. 28 (AP).—The De Valera government, with the help of the Labor votes, tonight gained its first victory in the Dail Eireann over the new United Ireland party.

Found Unconscious Three Hours After Robbery.

Slugged into unconsciousness by a colored robber, angered on finding she had only 62 cents in her purse, Miss Trula Kepple, 40, 2316 F street northwest, lay for almost three hours last night near Eighteenth street and New Hampshire avenue northwest before being found by a passing motorist.

After regaining consciousness at Emergency Hospital, the woman told police she was walking alone about 7 o'clock when a young colored man accosted her, and at gun point ordered her to give him her money.

The robber, disappointed and angered by the amount of money she possessed, struck her on the head and in the face several times with the butt of his revolver, she said. She suffered a fracture of the skull, and severe bruises and lacerations to the scalp and face.

Urschel Jury Urged to Find All 10 Guilty

U. S. Prosecutor Asserts Kidnaping Convictions Will Smash Crime.

Defense Lawyers Brand Evidence as False in Bitter Pleas.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 28 (AP).—A decisive blow at crime through conviction of all ten defendants accused in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire oil operator, today was demanded of the jury in the Government's first attempt to invoke the "Lindbergh law."

Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant United States Attorney General, declared in his final argument that "the time has come to decide whether we are to have a government of law and order or abdicate in favor of machine-gun gangsters."

"If this Government can not protect its citizens we had better turn it over to the Kellys, the Bateses, the Baileys and the others of the underworld and pay tribute to them through taxes," he said.

Swiftly Outlines Case.

Keenan swept rapidly into an exposition of the case against Albert Bates, Harvey Bailey and the three Shannons from Wise County, Texas. He touched only lightly upon the five defendants from Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"Kidnaping has become a modern art," he declared. "The plotters lay their vicious plans, bold strong-armed men carry out the abduction, hirelings stand guard and later, when ransom has been paid, the money changers arrange for its dissemination through underworld channels.

"A single State could not control such swift operations. The Federal Government was forced to step in and take a hand."

Face Life in Prison.

Keenan compared the recent wave of kidnapings to the international operations of Tripolitan pirates "when this Nation was very young."

"The cry that rang across the land then was 'millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute,'" said Keenan. "That same defiance is being hurled to our American gangsters today by the Government."

Fever Holding Gen. Johnson

NRA Activity Slowed Up With Chief Still In Hospital.

Because of a slight temperature, Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, will not be able to leave Walter Reed Hospital today.

At the suggestion of his physicians, the administrator decided to remain at least one more day under hospital care to prevent recurrence of the fever which developed yesterday. It is generally believed Johnson taxed his strength holding conferences from his hospital bed. He has been confined eight days.

Meanwhile, activities at the recovery headquarters have been noticeably slowed up by the continued absence of the chief. There are two codes awaiting his attention in addition to the agreement on coal wage scales for western Kentucky and Alabama.

The general NRA reorganization plan is delayed pending his return. Various department heads are awaiting important action until the administrator is able to confer with them, and his staff of assistants has collected an imposing pile of important matters on which Johnson alone is able to make a decision.

Robert W. Lea, recently appointed assistant administrator, is acting administrator and has moved into an office next to the administrator.

Two Argentinians Wounded in Duel

Buenos Aires, Sept. 28 (AP).—A duel over a personal incident ended in reconciliation today, but not until both principles had suffered several wounds.

Dr. Carlos M. Godoy, civil court judge's secretary, was wounded in the forehead and body, and Dr. Carlos D. Rojas, an attorney, on the hand and three times in the chest.

Ashmen Ring Fire Bell; Forget School Started

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 28 (AP).—The ashmen forgot that school was in session. So today, following their summer procedure, they rang the fire alarm at Central High School to announce their arrival to the building superintendent. Two hundred students marched outdoors.

Will He Seek Mayoralty?

JOSEPH V. McKEE,
who served as acting Mayor of New York following James J. Walker's resignation, will announce today whether he will run for mayor as an independent, making a three-corner race.

Fugitive Burns Denied Pardon By Talmadge

Governor of Georgia Will Not Consider Plea While He's Free.

Atlanta, Sept. 28 (AP).—Gov. Talmadge today rejected the clemency application of Robert Elliott Burns, who escaped from a Georgia chain gang and is living in New Jersey, which State had refused extradition for him.

"It is a hard and fast rule with me," the governor said, "that I will not consider a clemency application from a fugitive. Burns can not hope for consideration as long as he remains a fugitive."

Previously Vivian Stalney, member of the State Prison Commission, had expressed doubt that body would recommend executive action.

Lynchburg Youth Slain, Suspect Lodged in Jail

Glasgow, Va., Sept. 28 (AP).—Harry Reed Brown, 20, of Lynchburg, was fatally wounded today at the home of Roy Brown, who was arrested and lodged in jail here on a charge of murder.

Authorities said they were told Harry Brown had entered Roy Brown's house, twirling a pistol on a finger and had refused to leave when ordered out.

4 Ordered Held In Price Murder

Bonds Denied Accused in New Yorker's Death.

Waynesville, N. C., Sept. 28 (AP). Four men were ordered held without bond for trial on first-degree murder charges for the slaying of Thomas Price, retired New York business man and philanthropist, at a hearing here today.

The defendants are Dewey Potter, 34; his son, Wayne, 14; Clarence Potter, 29, Dewey's brother, and Eric Ledford, 22, a cousin.

Insull's Extradition Hearing Begins Oct. 7

Athens, Greece, Sept. 28 (AP).—Extradition hearing for Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator wanted by the United States Government on a charge of violation of bankruptcy laws, was set today for October 7.

Trust Control In Aluminum Code Charged

Independents Open Attack at Hearing; Monopoly Declared Goal.

Charges that a proposed code of fair practice for the aluminum industry was designed to promote a monopoly for the Aluminum Co. of America yesterday enlivened the opening hearing before Deputy Administrator Philip C. Kemp at the Willard Hotel.

The code was submitted by the newly formed Association of Manufacturers in the Aluminum Industry, and its assailant was George D. Haskell, president of the Busach Machine Tool Co., Springfield, Mass. Haskell spoke on behalf of a group of independent fabricating companies.

While A. V. Davis, chairman of the board of the Aluminum company; R. A. Hunt, president, and other officers and directors listened, Haskell launched a vigorous attack upon "monopolistic practice," which, he declared, the company was seeking to have upheld in the code.

Davis Defends Code.

Davis himself took the floor to defend the proposed code which was introduced by Harry W. Holt, vice president of the Manufacturers Association. Two vice presidents of the Aluminum company also spoke.

Objections to the association's code also were raised by labor representatives, who countered a proposed minimum wage of 25 cents an hour for bauxite miners, with a demand for 70 cents an hour and an even higher scale for certain hazardous branches of the industry.

Haskell presented a second code. The hearing was attended by about 75 manufacturers, union spokesmen and NRA observers.

Dr. Edwin C. Eckel, of the Labor Advisory Board, and G. M. Tisdale, of the Consumers Advisory Board, entered objections to both codes.

Two chief points of contention were provisions covering hours and wages, and those dealing with fair practice. In addition to organized labor's objections to the proposal for a maximum 40-hour week, with a minimum of 35 cents for male

Plans to Reveal Aims Today After Holding Many Parleys.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—New Yorkers went to bed again tonight without knowing whether they would have a choice of two or three candidates for mayor in November.

After a day of feverish conferences, Joseph V. McKee, independent Democrat, who had been expected to make known this afternoon whether he would enter the contest, announced late in the evening that he would not state his position until tomorrow morning.

Although close associates said early in the day he had decided to make the race against Mayor John P. O'Brien Tammany candidate, and Fiorello LaGuardia, fusion choice, McKee held later conferences. Some observers believed these may have caused him to change his mind.

Delays Baring Stand.

McKee, who became acting mayor last year after the resignation of James J. Walker, said a statement would be given out during the afternoon. Through Charles F. Keegan, his secretary, he later sent word it would be delayed until evening.

Louis M. M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, has been here for the last two days. There were reports, which could not be verified, he had talked with McKee.

Howe has been represented as opposed to McKee's participation in the mayoralty race, preferring that it be an out-and-out contest between Tammany and its opponents.

Fusion forces expressed the fear McKee's entrance would split the Anti-Tammany vote and assure the reelection of Mayor O'Brien.

Fusion Bloc Confident.

Former United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle declared at a meeting of the county Republican organization tonight that McKee's entry into the contest would not head off a fusion victory.

"The city's government was ruined by wisecracks," he said, "and it can not now be saved by acrobatics. The last-minute efforts of Tammany Hall to divide the fusion ranks will only divide Tammany itself."

Mail Robbers Miss $100,000

Boston, Sept. 28 (AP).—The three robbers who snatched three pouches of registered mail containing valuables worth $3,000 from a moving jitney truck at the South Station today left behind other mail sacks containing approximately $100,000.

Postal officials said the robbers had obtained a sack destined for a Newport, R. I., savings bank containing three negotiable bonds worth $2,000 and other items worth $500 more. A second sack contained 37 pieces of mail for Cape Cod points, valued at $97, and a third contained $50 in pennies for a Taunton, Mass., bank and other mail.

In other sacks on the truck at the time, however, were bags containing money for banks in Newport, R. I., and Plymouth, Mass.

Anti-Nazi Group Bombed in London

Attack Comes as Youths Scatter Pamphlets.

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—A number of chemical bombs were thrown tonight in the Shaftesbury Avenue Theater during an anti-Hitler demonstration as youths scattered pamphlets attacking the Hitler regime.

The demonstration was staged as the curtain was raised on "Before Sunset," an English adaptation of Hauptman's play, in which the German actor, Werner Krauss, was starred.

The pamphlets read: "A message to Hitler through Werner Krauss: we want British actors for British plays and not Nazi actors. Boycott Hitler and buy British."

Doctor at Operation Injured by Live Wire

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP).—Accidentally grasping an electric wire while administering an anesthetic to a patient facing a major operation, Dr. Wayne T. Killian, Hahnemann Medical College professor and noted specialist, today was knocked unconscious.

The unusual accident caused the operation to be delayed until the physician, burned and unconscious, could be carried to another room.

Dollar Status Linked in Debt Talk to British

Appeal of African Mother to King Saves Chief's Job

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—A mother's appeal to King George for release of her son has been granted.

The dominions office announced tonight that Tshekedi, young British-educated African chief, suspended for trying and flogging a white man, is to be reinstated by the king's decision.

Tshekedi, head of the Bamangwato tribe in Bechuanaland, has admitted he did wrong in trying a white man and has promised not to do so again.

(Phineas Mackintosh, a white man, was flogged by natives after he had appeared before a native court. Tshekedi had charged him with "living like a native with a native woman."

Naval Ministry To Rule Japan Warship Plans

New Order Makes Group Responsible Only to Emperor.

Tokyo, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Determination of the naval ministry to maintain a whip hand at the 1933 naval conference and be responsible directly to the emperor rather than the cabinet currently in power was seen in a new naval staff ordinance published tonight.

The ordinance provides that all naval strength plans must originate with the naval staff—meaning the government itself must obtain the staff's consent to any new naval treaty. This proviso was lacking at the time of the London naval treaty in 1930, when government leaders overrode Admiral Kanji Kato, then chief of staff.

This fact was followed by the May 15 outrages and the consequent naval court-martial of cadets charged with seeking to murder government leaders and cause chaos in the government.

Moreover, the ordinance precludes a civilian even temporarily replacing the navy minister, as has happened in the past.

The move was seen as indicating not only that the navy office is determined to keep an upper hand in 1935, when a new world conference is to be held, but is seizing this opportunity to consolidate its position and eliminate possibility of a repetition of the so-called "supreme command" dispute which followed the London conference.

The objective, observers agreed, is strategic rather than political and further indicates that the naval leaders are determined to push Japan's claims for naval parity with the United States and Great Britain or at least to improve the present naval ratios.

Storm-Tossed Vessel Loses Two of Crew

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 28 (AP).—Minus two members of her crew and steering gear disabled, the fishing smack Leo G. today was towed into Mobile Harbor by the Coast Guard cutter Walcott.

A story of a fight with mountainous seas and a hurricane wind was told by Capt. A. Holgerson, master, as he reported John Henry Faircloth, 22, and Andrew Carlson, 50, both of Mobile, lost at sea.

Finance Minister Pani Quits Post in Mexico

Mexico City, Sept. 28 (AP).—It was reported unofficially tonight that Minister of Finance Pani had presented his resignation to President Rodriguez.

Funeral Rites Held For Gov. Seligman

Buried After Services in New Mexico Capitol.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Sept. 28 (AP).—Funeral services were held here today for Gov. Arthur Seligman, who died Monday.

Public rites were conducted in the State capitol following a private service at the executive mansion, attended only by the widow his son, Otis, and a few close relatives and friends.

Burial was here, where he was born.

Thomas Leaves Post With U. S. Oil Board

J. Elmer Thomas, of Forth Worth, Tex., has left his post as technical adviser to the Petroleum Administration board, it was disclosed yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

Secretary Ickes declined to give any explanation, except to confirm that Thomas no longer was with the organization. It was understood a successor to Thomas had not been selected.

Transfer of Parleys to Treasury Hints Stabilization.

Hull Declines to Admit Shift Contemplates Monetary Action.

Secretary of State Hull announced yesterday that forthcoming war debt discussions with the British are to be conducted by the Treasury instead of the State Department.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean Acheson, assisted by Frederick Livesey, economic adviser to the State Department, is to have charge of the negotiations with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, economic adviser to the British government, who sailed from England yesterday with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, and T. W. Bewley, British treasury expert.

They are expected to begin discussions at the Treasury a week from today. President Roosevelt is to be kept advised and final decisions will be up to him.

Dollar Discussion Hinted.

Reversion of debt negotiations to the Treasury gave rise to reports that stabilization of the dollar is to play a prominent part in the discussions.

This assumption arises from the fact that Leith-Ross had a leading role in fruitless attempts to evolve a stabilization agreement during the London economic conference and that the Treasury would be the logical scene of further efforts to control the "dance of the dollar" against the pound.

Secretary Hull, however, explained the shift of negotiations from his department on grounds of procedure alone. He pointed out the Treasury worked out the debt settlement, that it has supervision over them, that Mr. Acheson is exceptionally well qualified to head the new discussions on behalf of this Government and that, in any case, it would not be according to protocol for the President or members of his Cabinet to deal directly with foreign representatives not of Cabinet rank.

Diplomats Surprised.

Even so, the shift of scene from the White House and the State Department, which have wrestled with this burning question of late years, surprised the Diplomatic Corps and lent color to the rumors of impending monetary action that would at least pave the way for steadying exchange.

There is no official sanction for that assumption, however. On the contrary, Prof. James Harvey Rogers, one of the President's most intimate monetary advisers, who has just returned from London and a series of talks with Leith-Ross and other British experts, predicts there will be no halt in the inflationary program that would permit "stabilization."

British authorities, for their part, hold that Leith-Ross will not press for stabilization, since to do so

670 Convicts To Devils Isle

French Penal Ship Will Sail Today Carrying Hopeless Cargo.

St. Martin De Re, France, Sept. 29 (AP).—A shipload of 670 banished convicts will bid farewell to their homeland tomorrow as the steamer La Martiniere sails for the faraway prison colony of French Guiana.

For a month the condemned have been arriving at the concentration camp on Island of Re, off La Rochelle. They were brought from nearly a dozen prisons scattered over France in 25 black trucks fitted with cells.

Another prisoner is Dr. Laget, condemned for a murder by poisoning. He owes his trip to the islands instead of the knife to the assassination of President Paul Doumer. Laget was to have been decapitated the morning after Doumer was shot. His sentence was automatically commuted because in the hours just preceding the time set for his execution the president was unconscious and unable, if he had wished, to exercise executive clemency.

30-Hour Week Urged for All U. S. Workers

Metal Trades Convention Acts After Green Hits Code Provisions.

A five-day 30-hour week for all Federal employes and immediate pressure to force revision of NRA codes toward the same objective for all labor was asked yesterday in resolutions adopted on behalf of 600,000 metal trades unionists.

The action, voted at a metal unionists' convention in the Willard Hotel, is preliminary to a more strenuous fight for the same objective next week when the American Federation of Labor opens its annual convention here.

Sentiment for the drive was being prepared in other A. F. of L. branches meanwhile as speechmakers flaunted the five-day 30-hour week before union label and building workers also meeting here prior to the big session.

Green Arouses Workers.

The unanimous vote of the metal unionists came after William Green, president of the A. F. of L., had whipped his followers into a get-in-there-and-fight frame of mind in a speech in which he said the recovery program is not making proper headway because of long-hour codes.

"The administration is stopping altogether too short of the mark," he asserted. "There is too much bargaining going on. The hours of labor in most of the major codes are too long, the wages too low.

"As a result the slack unemployment is not benig taken up as rapidly as conditions demand. The one remedy that must be employed is a 6-hour day and 5-day week."

Asserting that only 3,000,000 of 11,000,000 unemployed have been sent back to work, Green added that unless the codes are revised labor will appeal to Congress for its objectives and throw around the Capitol the same strong labor lobby which fought last winter and almost succeeded in obtaining enactment of the Black 5-day week bill.

"Unless conditions are bettered," he said, "we shall have a very serious relief problem on our hands this winter. Indeed, the 5-day week and 6-hour day are necessary to take up the slack of unemployment and reach the real objective of the President's recovery campaign."

Assails Industrialists.

Assailing industrialists, Green declared many laboring men are being discharged and "persecuted" because they are "daring" to join unions as authorized by the codes.

Company unions are being formed by industrialists and men "persuaded" to join in an effort to defeat the purpose of the national industrial recovery act, he said.

Falling into line behind their chief, the metal workers went on record as opposed to unions limited to single industries, James Wilson, of the Pattern Makers League, characterizing them as organizations set up by industrialists "because they are easeir to control."

Calling attention to what they asserted were weaknesses in the codes, the metal workers adopted a report demanding revision of them.

Criticizing the codes as covering only minimum wages for common labor, the report added that revision also was needed to "secure satisfactory minimum rates for skilled and semiskilled workmen."

Labor Unrest Gains Despite U. S. Plea

night said they would attempt to organize a motor cavalcade of pickets to "march" on the main plant at Detroit. About 1,200 strikers and others in 200 automobiles motored yesterday to the Edgewater, N. J. They claim to have persuaded 500 to 600 workers there to strike.

Strikers' Terms Studied.

Negotiations for settlement of the strike of 10,000 tool and die workers in Detroit, Flint and Pontiac plants were progressing satisfactorily, it was said. The strike is sponsored by the Independent Mechanics' Educational Society. Strikers ask recognition of the union and a minimum hourly wage of $1 and a 30-hour maximum week. Present wages in the plants vary from 50 to 85 cents an hour, with a work week of 40 to 60 hours.

The strike started in Flint last week and spread to Detroit and Pontiac plants.

In Philadelphia armed detectives patrolled the city, prepared for disorders on Philadelphia's troubled labor front. Bread deliveries were halted by strike of bakery wagon drivers.

One man was injured at a leather factory, picketed by several hundred strikers. The home of one strikebreaker was damaged when a jug of strong chemical was thrown through a window.

Bread deliveries were undertaken by several companies, under police protection. It was reported some of the strikers were prepared to use force in halting deliveries.

2 Air Field Mechanics Injured in Car Crash

Gordon H. Hadlow, 23, and William P. Burke, 29, mechanics at Bolling Field, were severely injured last night when their automobile was in collision with a street car at Eleventh and O streets northwest.

Hadlow suffered a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries, and Burke lacerations and bruises. They were treated at Casualty Hospital and later removed to Walter Reed.

D. C. Orphans Will Be Post's Circus Guests

All in City Will Get Chance to See Performance.

A big week for orphan children of the District of Columbia begins tomorrow morning when the "big top" of the Hunt three-ring circus goes up at Wisconsin avenue and S street northwest. The Washington Post, as it did last year, will be host to children from orphanages—Protestant, Catholic, German and Jewish—at the matinee performances.

A happy day for homeless children from the Jewish Foster Home and the Georgetown Boys Club will begin with "Happy Days," the opening pageant on tomorrow's performance. Each day the circus will be set up in a different section of the city as The Post provides entertainment for children from various orphanages.

With four generations represented by 14 members of the family, the Hunt organization is the only circus in the United States which has not changed its name or ownership in 40 years. Although the show emphasizes the spirit of youth, one of the performers, John Lancaster, the clown, is 77 years old.

The first appearance of the Hunt circus in Washington was last year after the President signed a special bill permitting it to show in several locations here.

labor in the North and 30 cents in the South, the Haskell group's code for the fabricating industry proposed a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour for a 35-hour week.

For the bauxite mining industry, whereby raw material for aluminum is obtained, spokesmen for the Aluminum Co. "earnestly prayed" for a reduction of the present minimum wage of 30 cents to 25 cents an hour.

"This code promotes monopolies, and the Aluminum Co. of America is a monopoly," cried Haskell. "It doesn't sell raw material to its subsidiaries at a lower rate than to others, because the law forbids, but the Aluminum Co. retains title in ingots and has its subsidiaries charge it a toll price, which, of course, never is paid."

Haskell said it was impossible to buy aluminum anywhere in the world, "except possibly in Russia," at a price lower than that of the Aluminum Co. The latter, he said, "dominates the industry throughout the civilized world with a trust price for ingots that can not be broken."

Gov. Murray Carries Pay Fight Into Court

Oklahoma City, Sept. 28 (AP).—Gov. W. H. Murray's fight with the State Supreme Court over the Legislature's authority to reduce salaries of justices by making only partial appropriations was taken to district court here today.

"Alfalfa Bill" asked an injunction to restrain State Auditor Frank Carter and State Treasurer Ray O. Weems from paying elected State officials more than the Legislature appropriated.

Oil Production Slash Ordered To Raise Prices

(Associated Press.)

A cut into the National daily oil production was ordered yesterday by Secretary Ickes, in line with Government efforts to bolster petroleum prices through controlling the output.

Ickes, it was understood officially, has been given authority by President Roosevelt to fix prices, if production control fails to bring stability.

The production allocation which Ickes ordered yesterday, reduces the daily total from 2,409,700 barrels to 2,337,500, but provided for an even sharper cut into actual production by wells.

Excess Charged Up.

His order permits withdrawal of 95,000 barrels from storage in five States, which must be deducted from the total allowable in those States. It also stipulated that excess production in September must be charged against the October total.

The production this month in excess of the total allocation was 77,000 barrels, which, with the 72,200 total allocation reduction and the 95,000 allowed for withdrawals from storage, would cut the total flow from wells by 244,200 barrels daily.

Large Producers Cut.

California, Oklahoma and Texas production allocations were reduced from current allotments. Those of Kansas and Arkansas were increased slightly. Amounts in the other States and areas remained the same.

New allocations follow:

Arkansas, 33,000 barrels; California, 455,000; Kansas, 116,000; Louisiana, 70,000; Texas, 965,000; Oklahoma, 495,000; New Mexico, 41,400; Rocky Mountain States, 38,900; Appalachian States, 94,200; Michigan, 30,000.

Mrs. L. J. Miln, Chinese Writer, Dies in France

Word was received yesterday in Washington of the death of Mrs. Louis Jordan Miln, 69, author of several novels on Chinese life and customs, in Janot Lapin, Pas-de-Calais, France, last Friday.

A native of Illinois, Mrs. Miln attended school in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and later at Vassar, but left before graduating to join a dramatic company touring China and the Far East. During the tour she became interested in China and gathered information for her writings.

She married George Miln, an actor with the company, and they later moved to London, where she lived until about two years ago, when she went to France. Her husband died several years ago.

Mrs. Miln was credited with understanding Oriental life better than any living Occidental author.

Her most popular novels probably are "The Green Goddess," and "M. Wu," which were filmed.

Chair Urged In Kidnap Trial

Fate of Six Charged With Abducting Luer Rests in Jury's Hands.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 28 (U.P.). The fate of five men and a woman, charged with kidnaping August Luer, aged Alton bank president, was placed in the hands of the jury tonight.

Three prosecutors asked the death penalty for all six defendants—Mrs. Lillian Chessen, her husband, Charles, Mike Musiala, Percy Michael Fitzgerald, Randol Eugene Norvell and Christ Nicola Gitcho.

Attorneys for Mrs. Chessen and her husband pleaded the couple was "forced to participate" in the kidnaping.

Luer, who was held in a dugout on Musiala's farm, was released without payment of the demanded $100,000 ransom.

Cummings Acts to Protect Witnesses From Gangsters

Federal Indictments Today Will Not Bear Names of Complainants.

Moving to halt intimidation of witnesses, Attorney General Cummings yesterday ordered deletion of their names from Federal grand jury indictments.

Cummings acted, it was reported, upon learning George ("Machine Gun") Kelly and other gangsters obtained a list of witnesses when they were indicted in a Western court in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma capitalist.

It has been the practice for clerks to write on the back of Federal indictments names of persons appearing before the grand jury.

The order will be observed today when the District grand jury returns about 85 indictments. The Attorney General's action was interpreted by lawyers as meaning defendants in criminal cases often would be unaware of the identity of prosecution witnesses until start of the trial.

In official quarters the innovation was expected to remove witnesses from danger of bodily harm from persons against whom they may be summoned.

Return of today's indictments will be the last official act of the present grand jury before expiration of its term. The body has investigated several hundred cases since it convened in July.

Driver of Hearse Killing Boy Freed

Chestertown Man Is Held Blameless in Death.

Chester, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP).—William Blakeley, of Chestertown, Md., was exonerated today of responsibility in the death of 19-year-old Donald J. McCormick struck by a hearse Blakeley was driving.

The Chester boy, son of Dr. Harry J. McCormick, was killed near his home September 21.

James Collier, Tariff Board Member, Dies

Mississippi Congressman Served in House From 1909 to 1933.

James W. Collier, member of the Tariff Commission and for 24 years Democratic representative from Mississippi, died unexpectedly yesterday, his sixty-first birthday, from heart trouble, at his home in George Washington Inn.

Collier was one of the best known Democrats in the House, having devoted the last 36 years of his life to State and National affairs. Long a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, he became chairmno of it when Vice President Garner was elected Speaker of the House.

Collier served the Eighth Mississippi District in Congress continuously from 1909 until last March. Under the theory that the Mississippi reapportionment act was invalid, Collier refused to run in the primaries, his district having been consolidated with the Seventh. The reapportionment subsequently was upheld by the Supreme Court and Collier withdrew, throwing his support to Russell Ellzey, nominated from the consolidated Seventh and Eighth Districts.

Roosevelt Appointee.

He was appointed to the Tariff Commission by President Roosevelt, taking office March 28.

Born on a plantation near Vicksburg, September 28, 1872, Mr. Collier was educated in public schools, graduating from the University of Mississippi law department in 1894. He was elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives in 1895, and in 1899 became circuit clerk of Warren County.

He was first elected to Congress from Vicksburg in 1909, serving 12 successive terms. Advancing steadily in his party's favor, he was assigned to the Ways and Means Committee. At the time he assumed its chairmanship, he ranked next to Mr. Garner in seniority.

Body to Vicksburg.

When he suffered collapse the active duties of chairman were taken over by Representative Crisp of Georgia. By coincidence, when Collier was appointed to the Tariff Commission, it was Crisp's place he took.

Members of his family will leave tomorrow night for Vicksburg with the body. Funeral services will be conducted at Trinity Church, Vicksburg, Sunday at 3 p. m. Burial will be in Vicksburg.

Mr. Collier is survived by his widow, Emma Klein Collier, and two daughters, Mrs. Allen T. Akin and Laura D. Collier.

Garner Honors Collier.

Uvalde, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP).—Vice President John M. Garner said tonight the country "has lost a real serviceable man" in James W. Collier, of Mississippi, who died in Washington today. Garner served in Congress with him for 20 years.

"He was as fine a type of man as I ever knew," said Garner.

Elmore Tower, 55, Builder, Is Dead

Funeral services for Elmore Tower, 55, real estate pioneer of College Park, Md., will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., from his home on Arundel avenue. Burial at St. John's Episcopal Church Cemetery at Beltsville, Md., will be in charge of Mount Hermon Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Tower began building and real estate operations in College Park in 1913. He was a member of the Prince Georges County Exchange Club, and former president of the College Park Home and School Association.

Surviving are his widow, who was Mary Mowatt, of College Park; four sisters, Mrs. Charles Boehman, of College Park; Mrs. Thomas Briggs, of Germantown, Md.; Mrs. Mary C. Lamore, and Mrs. Pearl C. Collins, of Washington; and one brother, Monroe Tower, of Derwood, Md.

Walter Neale, Writer, Dies

Operated Publishing House Here 20 Years Ago.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP). — The death of Walter Neale, 61, author and publisher, was announced today. He died suddenly last night.

Prior to coming to New York 20 years ago, he operated a publishing business in Washington, specializing in books on the Civil War. Since 1910 he engaged in writing short stories, poems and biographical works.

He was born in Eastville, Va., Jan. 21, 1873.

One of Neale's greatest publishing ventures was the production of an edition of the works of Ambrose Bierce in 12 huge volumes, several years being devoted to this task.

Father Hurney Will Be Buried In Mount Olivet

Solemn Pontifical Mass to Precede Funeral Tomorrow.

Solemn pontifical mass for the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, who died Wednesday, will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the church. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Bishop J. M. McNamara, assisted by the Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., will celebrate the mass. Archbishop Michael J. Curley will give absolution. The Rev. John I. Barrett will be deacon, and the Rev. S. A. Czyz, subdeacon.

Prominent Catholic laymen will be among the honorary pallbearers. Members of the Holy Name Society will act as a guard of honor at the funeral.

A requiem mass was held at the church at 9 a. m. yesterday, with the Rev. Father Czyz as celebrant. The Boys Sanctuary Choir sang the mass.

A solemn high mass, to be attended by all children in Immaculate Conception School, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The Rev. Father Barrett will celebrate the mass. The Rev. Lawrence J. Shehar will act as deacon, and the Rev. F. P. Harrity, subdeacon.

The office of the dead will be recited by the clergymen of the diocese tonight. The public may attend the service.

Urschel Kidnaping Convictions Urged

cused as one of the actual kidnappers, ridiculed the testimony of many witnesses that they recognized Bates or overheard him plotting the abduction.

"Urschel said when first he returned to Oklahoma City, that he could not recognize any of his captors," he concluded, "yet he walks in here and points to my client, Bates. Piffle!"

James H. Mathers, Bailey's counsel, declared it was only a coincidence that Bailey was found on the Shannon farm, where Urschel was imprisoned, with part of the ransom in his trousers and a machine gun near his hand.

Sam Sayers, Fort Worth counsel for the Shannons—R. G. (Boss) Shannon, Ora, his wife, and Armon, his son—told anew their story of good intentions subdued by fear of death.

"Federal agents say Shannon made three or four conflicting statements and they make much of it," he contended.

"So did Urschel. And the court said that was all right, that he had a right to. What's fair for one is fair for another. Fear made Urschel change his statements."

He pictured Urschel as "shutting up like a clam," the same as the Shannons, through fear of personal harm.

Lawyers Try To Unravel Liquor Laws

(Associated Press.)

Justice Department experts are engaged in a thorough study of the legal aspects of repeal in an effort to determine what new legislation will be needed if the eighteenth amendment is removed from the Constitution.

This study is supplementary to one conducted by a special committee in the Treasury in preparation for revision for taxes, tariffs and regulatory laws in the event the repeal amendment is ratified.

Without expressing an opinion on whether the Webb-Kenyon law, prohibiting the transportation of liquor from wet to dry States, would become operative with repeal, Attorney General Cummings said yesterday he believed a reduction might be made in the number of prohibition investigators now on duty.

If it should be decided that this statute is effective after repeal, it would be the duty of the Federal Government to enforce it. The number of prohibition agents has been cut to 1,200. Cummings said he felt, at least, that there would be no increase.

In the Treasury, officials of the Internal Revenue and Customs Bureaus and the division of industrial alcohol are making studies at President Roosevelt's direction in preparation for what might happen if repeal should come. They have determined that the tax on distilled spirits, lacking further legislation, would be $1.10 a gallon, and the tariff $5 a gallon.

The tax figure officials believe too low to supply the Government with the revenue it should get from the liquor industry, and legislation increasing it probably would be recommended at the next session of Congress.

George H. Buttles Dies At Alexandria Home

George H. Buttles, 67, died yesterday at his home in Alexandria. Besides his widow, Mrs. Alice Buttles, he is survived by four sons, Archie C., Ernest T., Merrill C. and Charles L. Buttles.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. today at the residence, by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Nurse Study League Plans Fall Program

The first meeting this season of the League of Nursing Education was held yesterday in the headquarters of the newly established School of Nursing at Catholic University. Plans for the season were discussed.

Sleuths Seize Trio In Huge Swindles

Confidence-Game Suspects Trapped in 5-Day Hunt.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP).—Three alleged confidence men were held at detective headquarters today, after a chase of five days.

The men, arrested at a hotel, were Frank Henderson, 54; Edward Hale, 49, and John Moore.

Sergt. Thomas Alcock said Henderson once served five years in Leavenworth for mail frauds; that Hale is wanted at Windsor, Canada, for mulcting a man of $100,000, and that Moore was charged in Los Angeles with a $21,000 swindle.

Value of Dollar Is Debt Corollary

would align all the inflationist forces on this side against him and prejudice his case.

If the Treasury raises the question, however, the British experts will be more than interested. They feel that it is neither politic nor necessary for them to stress the added complications involved in trying to work out dollar contracts without knowing what the dollars are going to be worth in pounds.

Rogers, Acheson Confer.

As for guesses about the course of the debt negotiations, the one regarded here as most plausible is that the British will propose to pay about $450,000,000 over a 10-year period, this being about 10 per cent of their remaining debt and in line with the 90 per cent write-off of reparations under the Lausanne agreement.

There is some reason to believe the proposal would call for immediate "commercialization" of that sum so British bonds or notes would be sold to the public and full sum would thus be made available to the United States for relief or similar extraordinary outlays in the recovery program.

The British instalment due December 15 amounts to $117,670,000, of which about $32,000,000 is principal, $75,000,000 interest, and the rest both principal and interest due on the amount suspended during the so-called Hoover moratorium.

Modern Printing Plant Replaces Historic Old Shenandoah Shop at New Market

On the Effects of
PART III.
WE come now to the third part of this inquiry, that is, to mention the remedies for the evils which are brought on by the excessive use of distilled spirits.
1. The first thing to be done to cure a fit of drunkenness, is to open the collar, if in a man, and remove all tight ligatures from every other part of the body. The head and shoulders should at the same time be elevated, so as to favour a more feeble determination of the blood to the brain.
2. The contents of the stomach should be discharged, by thrusting a feather down the throat. It often restores the patient immediately to his senses and feet.
3. A napkin should be wrapped round the head, and wetted for an hour or two with cold water, or cold water should be poured in upon the head. In the latter way, Back in 1806 Ambrose Henkel (circle inset) returned to New Market after an apprenticeship under Herr Gruber in Hagerstown, Md., and set up the Henkel Press in the little house (upper left) shown above. He used a hand-made press, the parts for which he hauled from Hagerstown in a cart. The press (lower left) has been moved to Duke University at Durham, N. C., and placed in its historic museum. Today the Henkel Press, now 127 years old, occupies a new building (upper right) and publishes the Shenandoah Valley, a weekly newspaper, as well as books and advertising printing. Elon Henkel, 78, sole survivor of the family, is shown (center) seated at one of the modern linotypes in the new plant, holding some of the woodcuts his grandfather carved for use a century and a quarter ago. The new plant is managed by another member of the Henkel family, a cousin named Miller.

Panama Seeks To Shift Canal Jobless Tide

President Arias Will Come to Discuss Overflow From U. S. Zone.

President Arias, of Panama, will come to Washington next month to discuss Panama's crucial unemployment situation with President Roosevelt, it was learned last night at the State Department.

Although the State Department announced the discussions will deal with the "general question of Panamanian-American relations," it was learned that migration of unemployed workers from the Panama Canal Zone to the Panama Republic is the principal reason for his visit.

Treaty negotiations involving jurisdiction over New Colon, an American settlement in Panama territory, also might be reopened during the visit, it was said on good authority.

Unemployment conditions in Panama, already very bad, have been accentuated in recent months by a let-down in United States Canal Zone operations, a direct outgrowth of decreased congressional appropriations, it was learned.

Under zone regulations, only those who work for the United States Government are allowed to reside in the area. Although the United States offers repatriation to all foreigners who come to the Canal Zone to work, a number of the jobless, principally West Indians and natives of Jamaica, have gone to Panama as operations have been cut down.

Since June, Panama has undertaken to send back to their native countries about 100 of these unemployed. As the United States is indirectly responsible for the movement into Panama, this Government may be asked to share in the cost of additional repatriation.

Effort to Rule Labor Assailed

Building Trades Convention Demands Finish Fight on "Certain Group."

Organized labor was urged to wage a finish fight against "certain office holders who are attempting to gain control over unions," in a resolution presented yesterday at the building trades convention.

Charging that in some large cities unionists meeting to formulate NRA plans have been raided under the pretext of antiracketeering campaigns, the resolution alleged member organizations of the American Federation of Labor are in danger of disruption.

Contractors are being coerced into "the discharge of bona fide union members when the nefarious schemes of these office holders fail of accomplishment because of use of the economic strenghth and influence of local unions," it was alleged.

The union label trades opened their annual meeting yesterday, with 75 delegates representing 44 unions. Charles F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, spoke, and G. W. Perkins presided.

Fourth of July Snow Saved Printer's Job And Reputation of Hagerstown Almanac

Compositor's Prediction of Weather Fulfilled by "Act of God."

It snowed in the Shenandoah Valley on the Fourth of July one year, a century and a quarter ago, and saved the reputation of Gruber's old Hagerstown Almanac.

This same act of Providence likewise saved the reputation and job of a printer's devil — Ambrose Henkel, of New Market, Va. And thereon hangs a tale.

About the time the last straggling Indian tribes were leaving the Shenandoah Valley, Henkel, son of a German Lutheran minister, set out afoot along the Old Indian Bear trail from New Market to Hagerstown to become an apprentice in the printing plant of Herr Gruber, who published the now famous almanac.

After four years of apprenticeship he returned to New Market and established the Henkel Press, an institution which still serves the Shenandoah Valley.

But, according to Elon O. Henkel, 78, grandson of Ambrose, and until a few years ago proprietor of the Henkel Press, only an act of God kept the elder Henkel a printer.

"Old Herr Gruber left his plant one time for a short stay," Henkel said. "When he was ready to leave he prepared copy on his famous almanac for his compositors to set in his absence.

"When he was gone it was discovered that the weather forecasts had been omitted. One of the printers suggested that they each make the necessary forecasts and include them in the forms in order that the printing of the almanac might not be delayed.

"The page dated the Fourth of July fell to young Ambrose to set and he forecast 'snow.' The almanac was printed before Herr Gruber noticed the apparent error. Then there was trouble. He told Ambrose that unless there was snow on the Fourth of July, as predicted, the almanac would get along without his services.

Snow Saves Job.

"To make a long story short, the first three or four days of July that year were exceedingly cold, after a long hot spell in the Valley and, sure enough, on the Fourth there were slight snow flurries in the hills."

Henkel chuckled at the thought and then added, "You know, there are a lot of people in this country right now that consult the Hagerstown Almanac before they make any plans in which the weather figures."

His apprenticeship over, Ambrose Henkel returned afoot to New Market and established the first German language printing office south of the Mason and Dixon line. That was in 1806. In about a year he began publication of the first German newspaper below the line, a sheet 10 by 15 inches in size and carrying the title The Virginia and New Market Popular Instructor and Weekly News. The paper was printed on a press parts of which

Henkel got in Hagerstown and brought to New Market with a horse and cart.

Henkel hewed out the press frame from mahogany and cottonwood logs and in it set a bed of granite 21 by 26 inches. On this bed the type was set and locked. The platen of the press was but 14 by 21 inches, two impressions being necessary before the whole form could be covered. It was a primitive machine similar to the original press used by Gutenberg. The press is now at Duke University, at Durham, N. C., where it was taken several years ago with several volumes of Henkel's paper.

Used Onions in Ink.

Using wood cuts, which he carved himself, and ink made from lampblack, linseed oil and boiled onions, Henkel printed his paper and numerous illustrated books for children—all in German. Many of these volumes still exist and some bear the imprint of the Lutheran Church and the copyright obtained from the recorder of the State of Virginia before the Federal Government issued copyrights.

Back in 1814 prohibition was a topic of considerable interest among the New Market people, with about the same effect produced by the present controversies. Henkel got Benjamin Rush, professor of medicine and clinical practice at the University of Pennsylvania, to write a book, entitled "The Drunkard's Emblem, or An Inquiry Into the Effects of Ardent Spirits Upon the Human Mind and Body, With an Account of the Means of Preventing and of Remedies for Curing Them." This book he published and bound in scraps of wall paper.

"The first thing to do to cure a fit of drunkenness," says this volume by Dr. Rush, "is to open the collar, if in a man, and remove all the tight ligatures from every other part of the body. The head and shoulders should at the same time be elevated so as to favor a more feeble determination of the blood to the brain."

Newspaper Widely Quoted.

Methods to determine when a person is drunk are described at length. No. 10 in the list of symptoms is "Fighting; a black eye or a swelled nose often marks * * * drunkenness."

When Henkel died other members of the family kept the shop running and later added new equipment. Always, however, the old press retained.

In 1925 Elon Henkel, the last of the family who still lives in New Market sold the business to another member of the family, a cousin by the name of Miller, who still operates it and prints the newspaper, The Shenandoah Valley, a sheet widely copied owing to its terse and homely editorial content.

New linotypes, new presses and equipment have replaced the old hand press and wood cuts. The old press is a curiosity viewed each year by thousands who visit Duke. Yet, the tradition and standards of quality and service established by Ambrose Henkel remain an institution which has had much to do with building the Shenandoah Valley from a frontier wilderness to one of the richest and most beautiful spots in the world.

Grain Growers Urged to Sign

Wallace Tells Them Even With Planned Cut, Surplus Probable.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace yesterday requested wheat growers of 11 States to join in the wheat acreage reduction program, warning that even if the plan succeeds the Nation is likely to produce a surplus of the grain next year.

He said that 96 per cent of Kansas farmers already have signed applications to take part in the program for cutting plantings 15 per cent next year in return for cash benefits and that 97 per cent of Nebraska's farmers will sign.

Pointing to these States as "splendid examples of the reception of the plan," Wallace said that "there is urgent need for such acceptance in other States—we can not expect to solve our National wheat problem with another crop disaster such as we had this year.

"Even if we got a 100 per cent sign-up and took 9,000,000 acres out of production, normal yields on the reduced acreage would give us more than 700,000,000 bushels of wheat next year," Wallace said.

Unions Plan to Hit City Official 'Racket'

Resolutions to deal harshly with "racketeering" city officials said to be seeking control of labor unions to advance their own fortunes are expected to be adopted today by unions meeting here preparatory to the American Federation of Labor convention.

The conditions complained of are particularly bad in Chicago and southern Illinois, New York City, Jersey City and Newark, according to John Possehl, of the Hamilton Hotel, president of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

U. S. Will Finance Only Cheap Berths

Employes Must Pay for Any Other Kind Used.

Government employes, traveling on official business, can be reimbursed for only the cheapest first-class accommodations, even though they can not secure them and must pay more, Comptroller General McCarl has ruled.

The same ruling, requested by the Attorney General, decided that inside staterooms on the Norfolk boat are not first-class accommodations under the meaning of Government travel regulations.

"The act makes no exception to the lowest first-class rate by the facility used, and it can not be said that there is more than one lowest first-class rate on any vessel," McCarl wrote.

France Vetoes German Arms

Will Not Sponsor Reich Actions, Says Answer of Paul-Boncour.

Geneva, Sept. 28 (AP).—France can not sponsor any rearmament of Germany, Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, made plain today after a Reich official had told correspondents his country should be treated as an honest partner in the reconstruction of a peaceful Europe.

The French stand was set out in a conference between M. Paul-Boncour with Konstantin von Nedrath, the German foreign minister. The latter will go to Berlin tomorrow to submit the French, British and Italian disarmament plan to his chief, Chancellor Hitler.

Germany's desire for peace was made known by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich minister of public enlightenment and propaganda, who said:

"To infer that Germany desires war is short-sighted and discouraging, in view of the fact that everywhere else there is no disarmament, but rearmament."

Dr. Goebbels denied the Nazis were exercising "cheap revenge" in their antisemitic campaign, protested against the circulation of atrocity stories and declared any nation would take similar steps in dealing with the Jewish question.

Commissioners Weigh Prison Fund Shortage

The Distric Commissioners have taken under advisement the report of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride regarding the alleged $750 shortage in prisoner welfare funds at District Reformatory, Lorton, Va. They may act today.

The report is understood to recommend the matter be referred to the Department of Justice as the shortage occurred in Virginia. Meanwhile, a retirement allowance due A. C. Tawse, former superintendent, is withheld.

Hitler Agrees To Give Jews More Liberty

Decree Relaxing Boycott Issued With Approval of Dictator.

Berlin, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler approves the decree issued by the Minister of Economics yesterday against discrimination between Jewish and non-Jewish business firms in Germany, the United Press was informed today by an unimpeachable source.

Reich's Minister of Economics Kurt Schmitt, who issued the revolutionary decree yesterday, acted after lengthy conferences with Hitler, it was said.

They considered the effect of the anti-Jewish boycott and other discriminatory measures against Jewish business houses.

Schmitt outlined the damage the campaign was doing to the Reich's economic structure and counselled a move to make the lot of the great Jewish commercial houses less intolerable.

Hitler, slow to give up an inch in his campaign to eliminate the Jewish influence in Germany, finally gave approval and the decree was forthcoming.

While Nazi leaders still refuse to admit that the decree represents any radical departure from its past policy toward Jews, it is generally known that the move constitutes tacit recognition of the lessening of anti-German propaganda abroad, which centered at the outset in stories of alleged cruelty to Jewish families.

A Nazi spokesman told the United Press:

"The Nazis know there is no such thing as 'Jewish grandmother' rule in business. Dr. Schmitt clearly indicated that he considers it unfeasible to enforce racial dogmas along business lines.

"With due respect to the needs of modern business, he also understands the Nazi viewpoint. The Nazi one-day Jewish boycott was purely for the purpose of urging foreign governments to restore the normal course of business in order to facilitate a return to normal conditions generally in Germany. It achieved that aim."

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)
By Morgan Baker

THE most exclusive club in all the land is being formed. It will be known as the Federal Diary Bunion Club, incorporated under the laws of North Dakota.

BAKER.

While the constitution and by-laws of this de luxe organization are not yet complete, some of the features have passed the embryonic or blister stage. Membership will be restricted to Federal employes who walk more than two blocks daily. This may consist of from home to work, from work to the theater, from the theater to a speak, (at this point one is allowed transportation home, but must walk unassisted from the curb to the living room).

The first 5,000 to send in applications will be placed on the roll as charter members. They will enjoy special privileges such as removing shoes while playing bridge, etc.

Professional hoofers, excepting adagio dancers (they are referred to the Federal Diary Wrestling Club), are eligible for honorary membership.

The official club colors will be black and blue; the song, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," or the plod song from the opera "Ne Stationnez Pas." The official motto, cheer, &c., have not yet been selected.

Flat-footed men and pigeon-toed woman may obtain membership at half price.

To Willis F. Roe (*), Q. M. General's Office, War, goes the honor of being the first name placed on The Federal Diary Bunion Club roster. Mr. Roe pounds the pavement both ways daily between his home in Adams Mill road and his office in the Munitions Building—a generous 5 miles.

Post Gets 100 Opera Tickets To Distribute

Music Lovers to Hear Sunday Event, Guests of Miss Verdi.

One hundred music lovers who may have missed the season's first opera will have another happy experience instead. They will attend the opera, "Forza del Destina," Sunday as the guests of Maria Verdi and The Washington Post.

Miss Verdi, who is bringing the opera here, last night turned over to The Post 100 tickets to be distributed to music lovers unable to afford seats.

In a telegram to The Post, Miss Verdi said:

"In recognition of your hearty cooperation in the cause of better music for the masses, permit me, please, to dispose of 100 complimentary seats for the performance of the opera, "Forza del Destino," Sunday evening, at the Washington Auditorium, to be offered by your newspaper to friends of music who can not afford to buy tickets."

Through cooperation of the National Federation of Music Clubs, the tickets were distributed thus:

Ten tickets each to the Chaminayde Glee Club, the Wilson Teachers College, the Chadwick Orchestra, the Capital City Choristers, Noel House, Friendship House and Neighborhood House; six tickets each to the music departments of Central, Western, Roosevelt, McKinley and Eastern high schools.

Representatives of these institutions may obtain the tickets today from Miss Elizabeth Poe, The Post's music critic, on the third floor of The Post building. The tickets are to be distributed as the representatives judge best, to those who would enjoy the opera but would be unable to buy seats.

Ford Resumes 40-Hour Week At All Plants

Orders 5-Day Work to Give Unskilled Employes Living Wage.

Detroit, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Henry Ford is returning his gigantic industrial empire to a five-day, 40-hour work-week to insure a living wage for his employes, the United Press learned today.

He had abandoned the 40-hour week temporarily for a 32-hour week to conform with the NRA automobile code.

With the 32-hour schedule in effect this week, Ford discovered that a number of his unskilled laborers, working for 30 cents an hour, would receive only $16 weekly. Most Ford employes get $4.80 a day minimum.

Convinced that $16 is not a living wage, he ordered the managers of his plants to return to the 40-hour schedule immediately.

Code Will Guide Him.

Although refusing to sign the automobile code, Ford intends to comply with its wage and hour terms. He plans future adjustments to conform with the 35-hour maximum, possibly a two or three day "vacation" every four months.

At the Ford plant here it was learned the manufacturer gave increasing living costs as one reason for putting his workers back on the longer working week, believing no worker can be expected to live on $16 a week, even for a six-week period.

The strike of 200 workers at the Chester (Pa.) plant had nothing to do with Ford's decision, it was said.

Lays Strike to Fear.

He has ordered the plant closed and is transferring its production quota to other Eastern factories. The walkout was a nonunion affair and Ford does not believe the strike fever will spread to other plants. He feels the walkout was led by workers who heard he was returning to the 40-hour week and feared they would lose their jobs.

In closing the plant, Ford had no intention of blocking NRA mediation attempts, as has been reported, it is claimed here. He had planned to close the plant anyway, it was said, until production conditions warrant resumption.

Horse Thievery Back After All These Years

Louis Costello, the owner, told police neighbors saw two unidentified colored men lead the animal away. The gray mare stands 16 hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds.

The owner paid $15 for the horse Wednesday in Frederick, Md. He forgot to lock the stable door until—true to the adage—the horse was gone.

N. Y. Tax Program Pushed Through

Threat of Payless Pay Day Speeds Action.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Awed by the spectre of a payless pay day for the city's 143,000 employes the Municipal Assembly was "whipped" into line tonight behind the tax program drawn up by city officials, bankers and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

One of the outstanding features of the program, passed over the protests of assembly members that they had not had time to study it, calls for an increase in the penalty for nonpayment of taxes from 7 to 10 per cent, effective January 1.

Terre Haute Loses Dead Hero But Gains Live Old Town Boy

R. L. Smith, Former Flier Mourned Since War, Going Back.

Mourned for years as a dead war hero, Ross Landae Smith, famed flying instructor, is preparing to fly back to Terre Haute, Ind., to have his name taken off several bronze tablets.

Services for Smith are held each year at the Elks and the Aero Clubs of Terre Haute, memorials to the first aviator produced by the Hoosier State.

Twenty-three years ago Smith won fame as the first man ever to fly over Terre Haute.

Planned Monument.

Because of his pioneering in aviation, enthusiasts in Indiana were planning to erect a monument to the memory of Ross L. Smith.

Now, having heard of this, Smith yesterday went to see the Chief of the Army Air Corps, Gen. Benjamin Foulois, asking permission to fly a plane out to Terre Haut.

"Just how they ever got me among the dead, I don't know," Smith said yesterday.

At the close of the World War there was a Sir Ross Smith killed in action on the western front. Ross L. Smith, the aviator, believes this accounts for the mistake made by his friends in Terre Haute.

After the war, Smith never went back to his old home town—which is another reason they mourned him for dead.

"Very Much Alive."

Word has gone forth to Terre Haute that Ross L. Smith, pioneer aviator, is a very much alive man; that he is in the advertising business in Washington, and is on his way back for a big reunion in Terre Haute.

Over at the Elks Club in Terre Haute they are going to take the gold star from in front of Ross L. Smith's name. At the Aero Club, where a picture draped in black hangs on the clubroom walls, all ceremones have been cancelled.

Instead of the annual memorial services to Ross L. Smith, fellow townsman are now planning a banquet—to take place on the night Smith flies an Army plane into the town of his birth.

In the course of his flying career, covering a period of a quarter of a century, Smith is credited with instructing nearly 1,000 aviators, many of whom were heroes in the World War.

ROSS L. SMITH.

Shakespeare Society to Hear American Dean

Lecture on Ben Jonson to Follow Presentation of One of His Plays.

Dean George D. Woods, of American University, will speak on the life and plays of Ben Jonson Monday evening at the Corcoran Art Gallery at the opening session of the seventeenth season of the Shakespeare Society of Washington.

The lecture will follow presentation of the "Silent Woman" one of Jonson's best comedies. Two other Elizabethan plays will be staged before the society this season.

Five sessions will be devoted to the Shakespeare plays "Measure for Measure," "Twelfth Night," "Romeo and Juliet," "Much Ado About Nothing," and scenes to illustrate feminine characterizations by boys in Shakespeare's days.

Features of Shakespeare's life will be discussed in lectures. Small reading groups will be formed for detailed study of his works.

Officers of the society are: E. V. Wilcox, president; A. Ueland, vice president; Miss Emma-Eva Skrivanek, secretary; Homer G. Jordan, treasurer; Mabel Owens Wilcox, dramatic editor; Arthur J. Rhodes, stage director, and Dell Floyd, publicity secretary.

Secretaries' President Here.

Davis Defense Fights Lottery Profit Charges

Attempt Made to Show Senator Never Received $40,000 Alleged.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Government's charge that U. S. Senator James J. Davis received $40,000 from an alleged lottery conducted under auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose in 1931, was opposed today by defense counsel who, through bank accounts and canceled checks, sought to show the money did not go to the Pennsylvania legislator.

Senator Davis, director general of the Moose, and Theodore G. Miller, chief fund-raising officer, are on trial charged with violating the Federal law against interstate shipment of lottery tickets.

With Melvin N. Carnihan, auditor of the Fidelity Trust Co., of Pittsburgh, on the stand as a Government witness, Charles J. Margiotti, of defense counsel, brought out that $37,500 of the $40,000 turned over to the organization department account of the Moose was paid out January 6, 1932, to Joseph A. Jenkins, director of the department, and the latter's secretary, David E. Nichols.

The remaining $2,500 was transferred to another department account in another bank several months later.

Previously Carnihan had testified about a note for $150,000 made by Jenkins and Fred W. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the department, and guaranteed by Senator Davis, on October 1, 1930. Collateral for the note was furnished, the witness said, by the Senator and Mrs. Davis, and $127,000 of the proceeds was immediately transferred from the department account to Mrs. Davis' account in the same bank.

Farmers Charged With Hiding Kelly

$73,250 Ransom Money Found on Land.

Abilene, Tex., Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Charges of conspiracy to harbor a criminal were filed in Federal court here today against Cass Coleman and Will Casey, Coleman County farmers.

It was on Coleman's farm that Federal agents yesterday found $73,250 of the Charles F. Urschel ransom money. Casey lives on a farm 15 miles away. Both are alleged to have provided a hideout for (Machine Gun) Kelly.

The complaints were signed by C. B. Winstead, Justice Department agent. Coleman and Casey will be arraigned tomorrow before United States Commissioner Ida M. James.

Clothing Stolen from Auto.

Clothing valued at $91.50 was stolen yesterday from the car of Charles J. McLaughlin, Brooklyn, N. Y., salesman, it was reported to police.

Shouse Wants Best Citizens On Rum Boards

At Alexandria Rally, He Urges Full Authority for Control Units.

Creation of "high class control boards," vested with final authority to administer State liquor laws after repeal, was urged last night by Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Mr. Shouse addressed the repeal rally staged by the Young Democrats Club and State repeal organizations at Alexandria.

A telegram from Postmaster General Farley, predicting a wet triumph in the repeal referendum Tuesday, was read to the meeting. His message expressed confidence in an "overwhelming victory."

Urges Power for Boards.

"If a high class control board is created in each State," said Shouse, "composed of outstanding citizens and vested with the final authority of revocation of licenses without court action, no matter what the plan of retail distribution, more can be done to prevent abuse than through the writing of any laws that the wit of man can devise."

The rally was preceded by a tumultous torchlight parade through Alexandria. The armory, where the meeting was conducted, was jammed, with an overflow crowd of nearly 1,000 persons listening to the speeches outside through amplifiers.

Urges Temperance.

Flaying the "unworkable experiment of the last 15 years." Shouse made a plea for "temperance," saying:

"Forcefully, it has been demonstrated that the sale of liquor and the consumption of liquor can not be prevented by national prohibition. It should be apparent to all that if we would save our children and our children's children from the abuse of liquor we must reinstate the teaching of temperance throughout the country—temperance rather than prohibition.

Hopes "Unrealizable."

"If the good people who had hoped for unrealizable benefits from the eighteenth amendment will band themselves together in the effort to make America a temperate rather than a prohibition country, they can accomplish a vast deal of good for their fellows.

"Restrictions on legal liquor must not be made so difficult as to encourage illicit buying, and prohibitive taxes must be guarded against after repeal."

Actor's Son Freed In Traffic Death

Hollywood, Sept. 28 (AP).—John Huston, 26, son of Walter Huston, motion picture actor, was exonerated today in the motor accident which claimed the life of Mrs. Tosca Roulien, wife of Raul Roulien, star of Spanish films.

Mrs. Roulien was killed by Huston's car at an intersection, but officers who investigated said he was driving with the traffic signal.

Sea Flight "Crash" Only Charity Hoax

Glasgow Students Decieve London Paper With Yarn

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—Glasgow students who devised a hoax to collect money for charity, deceived one leading London afternoon newspaper today.

They inserted a paragraph in the newspaper saying a fictitious Miss N. Tynne, on a secret flight from Vancouver, B. C., to the British Isles, crashed near Port Glasgow. They added "Miss Tynne," who was said to be accompanied by L. S. Dee (meaning pounds, shillings and pence), was going to make a statement about her flight at Grennock Station tonight.

Port Glasgow police, after innumerable inquiries, discovered it was all a hoax.

Lamson's Mother Delays Transfer

Tears Lead Sheriff to Halt Journey to Prison.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 28 (AP).—A tearful plea by Mrs. Genevieve Lamson today led Sheriff William J. Emig to postpone until Wednesday the taking of her son, David, to San Quentin Prison, where he is to be hanged December 15 for murdering his wife.

"Please, please let my boy stay here as long as you can," Mrs. Lamson begged. "If he goes to San Quentin I may never see him again."

The sheriff agreed to keep Lamson in the county jail until expiration of the time limit allowed by law.

50 Long-Termers On Hunger Strike

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP).—More than 50 "long-term" convicts were on a hunger strike tonight at the Eastern Penitentiary, scene of recent rioting.

The strike began Wednesday night, with more than 100 felons involved, but by breakfast time about half had capitulated.

"We are just going to let them alone," said Capt. Herbert (Hard-Boiled) Smith, prison warden. "If they won't eat, that's their look-out."

Ritchie to Push Maryland Law On Rum Rule

Legislature to Be Called About Nov. 1, Letter to Clark Says.

Speedy framing of laws to deal with the post-repeal liquor traffic in Maryland was forecast last night when Gov. Alfred C. Ritchie made known he intends calling his special session of the legislature about November 1 to deal with the problem.

The Governor gave the information in a letter to Frank Clark, president of the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers, who had told the executive the association's views on liquor control.

"I am particularly glad to have the views of your association," Ritchie wrote, indicating he would consider them in recommending legislation.

Simultaneously, Clark revealed Gov. J. M. Futrell of Arkansas believes his State will remain legally dry although it ratified the repeal amendment by a 2-to-1 vote.

"The people of this State will not consent to whisky being sold openly anywhere except for medicinal purposes," the Governor wrote. "In my judgment your association should stand for full cooperation by the Federal Government with the several States in enforcing their local law. Where a State prohibits the sale of liquor the Government should prohibit shipment of such liquors in interstate Commerce.

Broadway Tribute Paid to Silverman

Show Folk Attend Rites for Variety Editor.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Show world folk paid tribute to Sime Silverman, founder of the theatrical magazine Variety, who died in Los Angeles September 21, at funeral services today.

Actors, singers, dancers and producers, mingled with writers and other Broadway figures in the crowd of 3,600 persons who attended the rites in Temple Emanu-El.

Huge U. S. Order Aids Lumber Trade

250 Million Feet Needed for Forest Camps.

Purchase of 250,000,000 feet of lumber for 1,466 winter camps for the Civilian Conservation Corps will be made within 30 days, Robert Fechner, conservation director, said last night.

Mr. Fechner said it is "one of the largest single orders ever placed for lumber in the history of the country. It will give active stimulus to the lumber industry.

Bids will be asked by commanding officers in the nine corps areas, specifications having been drawn in collaboration with the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. In the South 50,000 corps members will continue to live in tents.

Chauffeur Accused Of Assaulting Boss

Forced Couple Out of Car in Rain.

Wayne, Pa., Sept. 28 (AP).—Charged with assault with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons, a chauffeur was arrested today on complaint of his socially prominent employers.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huddleston Rogers, jr., of Downington, son and daughter-in-law of Col. H. H. Rogers, oil millionaire, told police the chauffeur, John Spinks, 40, left them in the rain on a lonely road last night and drove off in their car, after threatening them with a pistol.

Slaying Suspect Jailed.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 28 (AP).—Jess Dawson, 23, a former convict, wanted by Hammond police for the slaying of a filling station operator last week, was arrested at Momence, Ill., today.

Country Squire Role Assumed By Roosevelt

By Staff Correspondent.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 28—President Roosevelt today assumed the role of "country squire." He seemed disposed to make the most of the opportunity to lay aside the cares of office for a few days.

He did take time to act as godfather to the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Looker, at a christening in quaint old St. James Episcopal Church at Hyde Park, of which he is senior warden.

Known as an author, Looker is an old friend of the President. In attending the christening, the President kept a promise of six months ago. His godchild, Katherine Earl Looker, is nine months old. The Rev. Dr. Frank W. Wilson officiated at the ceremony.

The President also devoted part of the day to correspondence and to preparing an address he will deliver next week to the National Catholic Charities in New York City.

Mr. Roosevelt will motor to the Hyde Park Methodist Church tomorrow night for special exercises commemorating its founding. He will speak briefly.

Rainey Assails Watson Speech

Criticism of Roosevelt Is Near Treason, He Says.

St. Louis, Sept. 28 (AP).—Speaker Henry T. Rainey, of the House of Representatives, said in a speech here today that criticism of the Roosevelt administration by James E. Watson, former Republican Senator from Indiana, "grazes the very edge of treason."

A speech by another Republican, Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, in support of the NRA, he called "a statesman-like utterance, the kind of speech to be made in these days."

Addressing the Chamber of Commerce, Rainey said he did not believe it ever would be necessary to inflate the currency if the recovery program goes forward so as to restore purchasing power.

Bayonne, N. J., Sept. 28 (AP).—The Bear, supply ship of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition, tied up at the dock of an oil company here today and began taking on fuel supplies.

The next stop in its long journey will be Norfolk, Va., where the Bear will be equipped with sails and additional supplies taken aboard. The ship probably will leave here this afternoon.

Buying Public To Be Taught "Right Prices"

Consumer Board of NRA Launches Campaign of Education.

Plans for a Nation-wide campaign to teach the buying public what prices it should pay for commodities is to be undertaken by the Consumers Advisory Board of the NRA, it was announced yesterday by Dexter M. Keezer, executive secretary.

Details of the educational program and necessary administrative machinery have not been completed. Members of the board are working on plans within their own specialized field.

The first steps will be a canvass of all standard-setting agencies to unify their work, and an attempt to obtain for these uniform standards general acceptance in all manufacturing industries.

Ask Recommendations.

Such agencies as the Bureau of Standards and the Bureau of Home Economics will be asked to make recommendations for dissemination to the public. Such recommendations will attempt to show the housewife why a cotton stocking costing $1 is, according to its quality, worth exactly 25 cents more to her than one that sells for 75 cents.

Officials of the NRA agree that fair regulation of consumption is, perhaps, the greatest single factor in the success of the general recovery program. It will be included in the general reorganization of the NRA to change it from an emergency organization to a permanent body.

Board members appreciate that they have a delicate balance to find in their new program. The consumer must not be advised to pay prices that are too high, nor must he be told that the low depression prices of the last two years are fair. In the former case, profiteering would result, in the latter a sales resistance on the part of the buying public.

Position of Consumer.

Another factor that members of the board will attempt to bring home to everybody who buys anything is that the consumer is not a person apart from the employer and the worker. The fact that there are three advisory boards represented at all the code hearings, the Industrial, the Labor and the Consumers' Advisory Boards, does not mean there are three individuals represented, an employer, a worker and a consumer, it is pointed out. The consumer is either or both an employer and a worker, and his interests are inseparable from those of both great classes.

Alleged Attacker Slain By Husband of Victim

Redlands, Calif., Sept. 28 (AP).—Accompanied by his wife, Elmer Gates, 28, walked into the police station here today and said he had just shot Emil Jure, 50, Redlands dance hall proprietor, who died later in a hospital.

Mrs. Ruth Lee Gates, employed as housekeeper at the Jure home, told police Jure assaulted her yesterday.

NRA Plan Praised By Chinese Savant

Dr. Hu Shih, Visiting Here, Hopes it Will Succeed.

Enthusiastic praise for the NRA was voiced by Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese philosopher yesterday, during his visit at the Chinese Embassy.

"The action of the American people in throwing aside the time-worn formulas," he said, "is the great movement in the world today. It is unprecedented and I hope it is successful."

Educated at Cornell University, Dr. Shih has been lecturing at the University of Chicago. He is returning to Peiping to finish a book on the History of Philosophy.

The Retail Code.

During the early part of July a master retail code was submitted to the N. R. A. for consideration. The code was discussed at a public hearing during the latter part of August and later was modified in certain respects, the revised code having been made public by the N. R. A. on September 20.

So far it has been impossible to reach an agreement regarding the terms of the code, and the business interests affected are concerned about the delay. Merchants are now in the midst of the fall season and find themselves greatly hampered by their inability to make the adjustments that they know will be necessary when the code becomes operative.

The groups embraced by the master code comprise a large proportion of all those engaged in the business of selling at retail. The annual volume of retail sales reaches a tremendous figure, and continued uncertainty regarding the final provisions of the code is bound to have an unsettling effect not only upon those directly affected but upon general business as well.

It is important that this uncertainty be eliminated and the terms of the final agreement announced as promptly as possible.

Austria and the Hapsburgs.

Prince Franz Josef Otto's bid for recognition as a leader in Austria may be nothing more than a flash in the pan, yet it serves as a reminder that the Hapsburg family is still seeking an opportunity to regain its power. The young prince and his ambitious mother, the former Empress Zita, see in the transformation of the Austrian government an opening for renewed efforts toward restoration of the monarchy.

Chancellor Dollfuss has supplanted parliamentary government by a dictatorship. Efforts have been made to disguise the real nature of the new regime, but it comes very near to being a one-man government. Five portfolios have been taken over by the chancellor, and the other ministers are responsible to him. Austria is trying out a dictatorial regime that is akin to Fascism, in spite of the chancellor's dislike for that term.

If Austria is reverting to one-man rule, may there not be an opportunity to restore the Hapsburgs to power? That question is undoubtedly in the mind of the young Prince Otto as he accepts honorary citizenship in one Austrian town after another from his exile. The monarchists have been greatly encouraged by the turn of events. The most optimistic of them seem to view the Dollfuss regime as paving the way for the Hapsburgs' return.

There is no indication that Chancellor Dollfuss has any such thought in mind. His attention is concentrated on the Austro-German situation, and his government seems to have been organized with the view of meeting this issue expeditiously. A demonstration planned in connection with Prince Otto's announcement of policy is reported to have been suppressed on instructions from the chancellor, who is in Geneva.

Young Otto is making a popular appeal to Austrians by taking a stand against Nazi influences and by intimating restoration of Austria's former prestige. The result is to complicate Chancellor Dollfuss' task of working out a new government for Austria. If Prince Otto should be able to make a favorable impression on the distressed Austrian people, the League of Nations would have another dilemma on its hands.

French Deflationists.

A curious reversal of conditions in comparison with the United States is seen in France, where spokesmen of the government and representatives of industry are demanding deflation. Lower prices are sought in order that the cost of living may be reduced.

Government officials represent that such action is the only resort by which the budget can be balanced. If living is made cheaper, government salaries, they say, can be proportionately reduced. The manufacturing exporters likewise see similar possibilities of cutting costs and the hope of recovering some of their rapidly dwindling foreign trade.

Paris dispatches tell of an appeal made to Premier Daladier by a group of organizations representing virtually all the exporters of France. This group declares that the exporting industries have reached the limit of their resistance and soon will have to shut down unless relief is granted.

The situation is described as alarming, since the exporting industries were the first and hardest hit by the crisis. In support of this contention figures are quoted to show that French exports, which amounted to 50,000,000,000 francs in 1929, had dropped to 19,600,000,000 francs in 1932.

The exporters, while recognizing the prestige enjoyed by French currency due to the instability of American and British currencies, call attention to the danger that devaluation and stabilization of the dollar and the pound would make apparent in connection with France's unfavorable trade balance of 10,000,000,000 francs. From a social viewpoint it is held that the closing of factories would put 2,000,000 persons out of work and bring on serious underconsumption of agricultural and industrial products.

The government is asked frankly to reduce the cost of living so as to permit a reduction of production costs to facilitate the access of French exporters to foreign markets. The campaign to increase exports is not being aided by the simultaneous efforts of agricultural interests. They demand a reduction of import quotas and higher import duties, a position which appears to be favored by growing support of the contention that France's salvation lies in a policy of economic nationalism.

Strikes and Wages.

Industrial strikes are occurring in many sections of the country, with indications that the number of strikes and strikers will increase. These disturbances obviously are an impediment to the smooth working of the codes adopted under the auspices of the Recovery Administration. But it does not appear that all of the strikes are a consequence of misunderstanding of codes, or of disputes arising between employers and employees because of changed conditions under the codes. Some of the most important strikes now occurring seem to be based upon the demands of workers for shorter hours and better pay—demands that existed long before industrial codes were thought of.

In one instance a strike has resulted from a controversy between a company union and a regularly organized union which insisted upon installing its own system in the plant. This strike may be the forerunner of other similar disturbances consequent upon disputes over the question whether industrial plants can be unionized by their own workers or whether they must belong to an outside union.

The shutting down of plants because of labor disputes is an unfavorable symptom. In one instance, when 300 workers went on strike, the entire plant, employing 8,000 men, was shut down. The recovery act does not, of course, presume to deny the right of a concern to cease operations if it chooses to do so. Mediation agencies, however, may succeed in smoothing out the controversies which lead to shutdowns.

The increase of industrial employment in August was greater than in any month since March. The Federation of Labor reports that 815,000 men were re-employed last month. But the number of unemployed, according to the Federation, is 11,000,000, and President Green observes that the re-employment process "seems slow indeed."

The Industrial Conference Board finds that hourly earnings of wage-earners in 25 manufacturing industries rose from 45.5 cents in July to 49.7 cents in August, or 9.2 per cent, while average hours of work per week fell from 42.6 to 38.8, or 8.9 per cent. The net result of better pay per hour and the shorter work week was an average increase of 10 cents in weekly earnings, which did not keep pace with the rising cost of living. The Conference Board estimates that average real weekly earnings—that is, the purchasing power of those earnings—declined 1.8 per cent.

Women in industry seem to have profited relatively more than men by the new industrial plan affecting minimum wages. The average hourly earnings of women rose 19.5 per cent in August, from 30.3 cents in July to 36.2 last month. Although the average hours of work per week were reduced from 42.8 hours to 38.1, or 11 per cent, women received 7 per cent more pay weekly, the scale rising from $12.93 in July to $13.83 in August.

By the reduction of work hours per week, unskilled labor averaged smaller earnings in August than in July, the reduction amounting to 37 cents. Against this it is pointed out that many additional men were afforded an opportunity to work. The average weekly earnings of semi-skilled and skilled workers increased from $21.99 to $22.16 last month, despite curtailment of hours from 43.4 to 39.7 per week.

Close study of the underlying causes of strikes may reveal in some cases that wage-earners are dissatisfied with conditions which prevent them from earning more per week.

Postponing Foreclosures.

The mortgage moratorium law passed by the recent special session of the New York Legislature has been held to be a constitutional exercise of the police power of the State in a decision rendered by Justice Untermyer of the Supreme Court of New York. The case in question presented a severe test of the validity of the new act, the intention of which evidently was to postpone actions for mortgage foreclosure, where interest and taxes had been paid and default consisted in failure to pay all or a portion of the principal.

The case before Justice Untermyer was one asking for summary judgment for payment in full on real estate mortgage bonds which matured last year. The defendant offered to pay the interest due and asked dismissal of the suit under the provisions of the new law. In sustaining the constitutionality of the act Justice Untermyer placed reliance upon the authority of the Legislature to enact drastic measures in times of emergency, citing the similar decision of Justice Wagner, now United States Senator, upholding the emergency rent laws in force after the war.

The New York Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court sustained those statutes. They were enacted on account of a shortage in housing facilities. Tenants were permitted to retain possession of premises after leases had expired, upon payment of reasonable rent, regardless of express covenants to surrender possession when the rental term had expired. Justice Untermyer said that the rights of the landlord were then held to be subject to the police power of the State when circumstances had clothed the renting of dwellings with a public interest.

It had been argued that, so far as the moratorium affects foreclosure actions, the statute is merely a statement of the traditional power of equity, but that there is no such tradition denying the right to sue for a debt as represented by a bond. On this point the court opinion holds: "That which is true of land, when there is a scarcity of shelter, is true of money in a critical period of financial disturbance. * * * The emergency produces the necessity for legislation and the necessity justifies the exercise of the police power over property and contracts alike."

Under the decision the defendant was entitled to have the action dismissed upon payment of accrued interest on the bonds and taxable costs in connection with the court proceedings.

Matter From Energy.

A report comes from the California Institute of Technology, indicating that matter has been created from energy in the laboratory. The scientists who are making experiments in this field have not made any bold claims. No one has assumed the role of an actual creator of matter. But experiments in the transformation of energy into substance have yielded astonishing results.

A number of research scientists discovered that when the metal lithium is bombarded with alpha particles the process yields a baron-neutron product. Experimenters have weighed the baron-neutron product and concluded that it weighs more than all the materials of which it is made. This finding led Dr. Kenneth Bainbridge, of the Bartol Research Foundation, at Philadelphia, to ask in a recent report: "Can this be a case in which the energy of motion of the alpha particles is transformed into mass, a creation of matter from energy?"

Further data along this line have grown out of the discovery of the positron. Experimenters at the University of California found that when a positron traveling at a high rate of speed hits the strong electric field surrounding the nucleus of an atom, two particles are ejected. One is negative and the other positive—the necessary combination, scientists believe, for the formation of matter. Yet the experimenters have been unable to find any change in the substance of the bombarded atoms after this operation has taken place.

Thus some men who are tearing the atom apart to see how the world is made are led to the belief that energy is transformed into matter.

Pictures showing trails of vapor made by the positive and negative electrical particles have been obtained. Some experimenters are of the opinion that the transformation is recorded in these views.

The fundamental question seems to be whether the scientists are actually creating particles of new matter or whether they are merely changing the form of matter already in existence without being able to recognize all of the original substance. The most astute men of research will be slow to formulate definite conclusions. No doubt there will be general agreement with Dr. Karl K. Darrow, associate editor of the American Institute of Physics' publications, when he says: "The evidence thus favors the revolutionary idea of the direct conversion of light into electricity, but, of course, it is essential to have a much greater number of data."

The country's crime bill is $13,000,000,000 a year, so nobody will begrudge an extra appropriation for the expenses of Uncle Sam's crime detectors.

Soviet Russia doesn't exactly understand how Japan can make a gift to Manchukuo of Russia's share in the Chinese Eastern Railway—but Japan does.

It is safe now to propound the query, After repeal—what? But early in December it may be considered an invitation.

If the cost-of-living quiz doesn't include the cost of gas for the old bus, there's no justice in the Federal system.

Japan and the Open Door.

By William Martin, in October Current History.

Japanese supremacy in Manchuria means the more or less rapid, but eventually complete, elimination of foreign powers from this market. Even if the powers were not agreed among themselves to withhold recognition from the new Manchu state, it must be remembered that the invariable practice of Japan in the lands where she has gained a foothold has been to push out her competitors and to possess herself of the entire trade. The open door is of no consequence in such regions; it is a theoretical principle, capable of many convenient interpretations in practice, and without violating it the Japanese know very well how to make life impossible for foreigners.

The present dispute between Manchukuo and the Soviet Union over the Chinese Eastern Railway is significant from this point of view. If the Soviet Union is willing to sell its rights in the railway for a mess of pottage it is not merely because it needs the money or because it feels weak and keenly desires peace everywhere and above all in the Far East; it is primarily because the Russians know that the Japanese are able to ruin the railway, destroy its whole economic and political value and thus deprive them of all bargaining power.

What is true of the Chinese Eastern Railway applies to all Western economic interests in Manchuria, and there are no illusions on this point. The conquest of Manchuria by Japan means the loss to the Occident of a market of more than 40,000,000 inhabitants, rich in natural resources and capable of enormous development. This is the leading fact that the Western countries must take into account. But it would be quite wrong to conclude that the principle of nonrecognition must be renounced. To recognize Manchukuo would in no wise change anything essential in the present situation and would only prejudice future interests of much greater importance.

MUSSOLINI AND THE SOCIETY NEWS.

Mussolini is still pursuing the policy that an idea a day keeps the newspaper men from going away.

* * * * *

A few weeks ago he went after the light-reading-matter public by giving out a story that he had barred silk hats on the ground they were a symbol of class distinction.

* * * * *

Now he has issued a ban on "among those present" lists in the newspaper society columns. He thinks it annoys the rank and file to pick up a paper and read the names of people who were lucky enough to go to a party where a butler answered the door.

* * * * *

Il Duce thinks that nobody should get mentioned in a newspaper just because he or she went to a function in evening clothes and had a choice of wines with the fish course.

* * * * *

The edict is said to have upset Italian society no end and caused hundreds of Italy's upper setters to threaten to eat at home regularly and spend their evenings in their pajamas listening to the radio.

* * * * *

But Benito is all wrong in his theory that the society news is resented by the working classes.

* * * * *

The society columns, believe it or not, are largely read by people four flights down. The Iron Man of the Roman Empire would be surprised if he were told that keeping society news from the workers is like keeping Cinderella stories from the children.

* * * * *

* * * * *

And any scrubwoman will tell you that it rests her aching body and takes her mind off her work to read all about the swells who were at Aladdin P. Cutbill's villa warming.

* * * * *

Most people like to see their names in print. Is there a boilermaker with a soul so dead he never to himself hath said, "Boy, what I'd give to get my picture in the Easter parade!"

* * * * *

"Merit does not come from mention in the press," says Mussolini. No; but it's a great way to get vaudeville bookings, fan mail and prompt service from the butcher market.

Daily Talks About Books and Authors

ON TALKING WITH BERNARD SHAW.

Any journalist will tell you that George Bernard Shaw is Number One; that is, he has more news value than any other person now living. Anything he says on any subject immediately becomes first-page news.

I met him only once, but that was at a small dinner party in London, when we had him to ourselves the entire evening. Although over 70, he gives the impression of prodigious vitality. His body is as alert as his mind. He stands well over 6 feet, he has the slender figure of a youthful athlete, he moves with the easy grace of a panther.

He has never taken any alcohol, he has never smoked, he has never eaten meat, and the only time he ever wore evening clothes was to please Charlie Chaplin. On the occasion of our party, although everybody else was clad in evening finery, Shaw wore the habiliments of daylight, a blue business suit; at his plate was a small vegetable something or other; it took him only a moment to devour this, which fortunately for us left him free to devote the time to conversation.

Copious beards often look either unclean or inhabited; Mr. Shaw's beard is so evenely white and so clean that it looks positively antiseptic. He seemed to me the happiest man I had ever met. I think he enjoys fame. He was exuberant, ebullient, full of fun and laughter; and as he rose to give an imitation of Henry Irving, he did it with almost boyish delight. He speaks the English language as accurately as any man in the world; and he told us how he enjoyed speaking in the "talkies." He gave also the impression of extreme kindness of heart.

A Poor Man Who Is Honest Doesn't Feel Inferior to Rich Thieves.

By Robert Quillen

There is no other bitterness like the inferior's envy of a superior.

In other lands, where class lines are clearly defined and permanent, the inferior is reconciled to his state and scarcely conscious of it.

But in a land of theoretical equality, where the humblest may hope to climb to a higher level, those who are conscious of inferiority are embittered by the baffling and undefined something that keeps them from feeling equal to the best.

Their state would be unendurable if they were doomed from birth to feel inferior, but they are not.

The feeling of inferiority does not indicate that one is inferior in fact. It is merely a state of mind.

In every community there are people, inferior to the best by almost every standard used to measure men, who yet feel superior because they have money or education of illustrious ancestors.

And there are people of uncommon excellence who feel inferior for want of these or other things.

The finest of men, born of humble parents, may handicap himself by assuming that he can never be a gentleman. Or he may feel that he is forever barred from the ranks of the elect because he missed a college education.

Fortunately there is a way by which the humblest can avoid the consciousness of inferiority.

He can not change his birth; he may not be able to acquire wealth or a college diploma. But he can develop and maintain a feeling of self-respect that will enable him to face the highest as an equal.

There is no snobbishness or conceit or complacency equal to that of the shallow person who feels morally superior.

Here, then, is the remedy for the too sensitive and introspective youth who is in danger of feeling inferior.

Let him live above reproach. Let him refuse to indulge, openly or secretly, in any weakness or immorality. Let him develop a decent pride in decency.

If he is sensible and manly, he will not assume the holier-than-thou attitude of the moral snob. But he will have nothing wherewith to reproach himself, and it isn't possible for a clear conscience to feel inferior.

Political Comment

Income Tax Well Dries Up.
San Francisco Chronicle.

Further evidence of the independability of the income tax as a revenue producer is provided by the Federal Treasury. In spite of lowered exemptions for the last half of the year and the fact that the rates had been jacked up over the previous ones, income tax payments for the 1932-33 fiscal year were $309,965,293 less than the 1932 income tax payments. That represents a fall of 30 per cent.

With incomes falling off we see the reverse of what happened when incomes were climbing. The income tax is a prolific producer when times are good. It falls down most when the Government needs additional revenue most.

Col. Randolph and the Seaway.
Detroit News.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph walked out of an interview with President Roosevelt last week and declared: "I am for the St. Lawrence Waterway." This may appear to the credulous a highly significant statement, for Col. Randolph is president of the Mississippi Valley Association, which claims to have in its pocket the votes of both Illinois senators and those of other Mississippi Valley States against ratification of the seaway treaty with Canada. Nevertheless, Col. Randolph said to a New York newspaperman on the White House steps: "I am for the St. Lawrence Waterway. It is an essential part of a national system of waterway transportation."

The Inflation Clamor.
Los Angeles Times.

Behind the news from Washington and elsewhere there is to be discerned an increasing effort on the part of radical Democrats, in coalition with a few radical Republicans, to take the recovery program out of the hands of President Roosevelt and turn it in the direction of uncontrolled inflation.

It is time the public woke to this situation and rallied to the support of a President who was its overwhelming choice at the 1932 Presidential election and who, by popular demand, was granted by Congress unprecedented power in leading the Nation out of depression.

IT is hard to contemplate, in the light of Tammany Boss Curry's experience, the Young Democrats about whom we are hearing so much just now as they embark upon ambitious political careers, without wishing they would change their minds and become doctors, lawyers, or something else. There would be no need of apprehension about them were they not going into the political business seriously.

Bob Lucas did not get very far with his Young Republican movement in 1932 but the Young Democrats have effected an organization and are taking such an interest in it as to give the older heads of the party some concern. They have a national headquarters here, they are insistent in their demands and in many other ways have shown their serious intent in the political business.

* * * *

HANDSOME and clean-cut fellows and pretty girls, too—it is that which gives one pause when he considers the bitter course of life they have decided to pursue. It is just about the bitterest pursuit they can undertake, in fact.

If there was the slightest doubt about the adage that there is no such thing as friendship in politics, Boss Curry's present predicament would seem completely to dissipate it.

Boss Curry is being punished because he guessed wrong at Chicago which is usually what happens to wrong guessers, of course. But when the circumstances about him are considered his pill tastes unusually bitter.

* * * *

THE boss is in trouble because he voted for Al Smith. Yet it is generally known in political circles that he was not for Al at all, that instead, he had told Al only a few weeks before the convention, meeting him casually at a funeral, that he thought he, Al, had a crust to run again, or words to that effect. Furthermore, it is known he did feel most sympathetically toward Mr. Roosevelt; that until the Jimmy Walker case came along he and Mr. Roosevelt were hitting it off very nicely, indeed.

This may have changed his attitude—undoubtedly it did. But it is extremely unlikely that it was a governing influence in his support of Smith. Al, himself, was the determining influence there. There was nothing else Curry could have done. I mean to say Curry could not have kept Tammany from Al had he tried to.

* * * *

YET when the convention was over no one went down the line for the ticket more than Tammany. It gave Mr. Roosevelt the largest majority a man ever got in New York City and made it possible for him to carry the State by an unprecedented vote.

Curry's treatment since the election, with that of other party influences who were against Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago, but who went down the line for him afterward, would seem to argue that the thing for a political leader playing the wrong horse in the nominating convention to do, would be to bolt to the opposite party and do everything possible against his party's victory. Party victory, in the case of Mr. Roosevelt at least, seems to mean ruin for such a leader.

Oh, other Presidents have tried to wreak punishment on those who were against them in the convention, of course. But Mr. Roosevelt is proving successful at it. It doesn't make for a very united party.

* * * *

AND, to add to the irony of Boss Curry's case, the word is that Al, support of whom got Curry in all the trouble, is to go along in the fight against him. There is your friendship in politics. Indeed, I read somewhere that Al would be among those appearing officially to notify Mr. McKee, who seems to be at the present writing, the administration's choice.

It goes without saying, too, that nothing could be more distasteful to Al than to go along with the administration on anything. It can't be that he is influenced by any hatred of Tammany, either, because Tammany reared him. Al just probably figures that not to go along would be an unpopular thing.

This is no brief for Boss Curry's administration of New York, of course. It is simply a treatise on what nice, tender-hearted fellows make up politics.

Just Folks.

The Tramp

There came to town a ragged tramp.
The well-dressed people called him scamp,
And scamp he might have been.
He looked like one who did not care
The burdens of his life to bear
And, ragged and unclean,
Was quite content to drift along
Indifferent to right or wrong.
To all who stopped him questioning
He always said the self-same thing:
"I've neither home nor name.
And none will know and none will sigh
Or shed a tear the day I die,
Or my cold body claim.
I choose to be a tramp and so
To Potter's Field a tramp I'll go."
Now such a man as that would seem
To have no part in God's great scheme,
Yet just before he died
A woman stooped and kissed his face
And prayed for mercy and for grace
And at his passing cried.
For he had plunged beneath a truck

Terrified Laborer Denies Inciting Incindiarism in Berlin.

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 28 (AP). A squad of storm troopers waited in the marble lobby below the supreme court room today as Paul Zachow, a laborer, made a terrified denial that he ever incited Marinus Van Lubbe to set the series of fire culminating in the Reichstag blaze, for which the Dutchman and four others are on trial here.

The storm troopers escorted 14 witnesses here from Berlin to testify in the court's attempt to probe an alleged Communist plot behind the Reichstag fire. Van Der Lubbe begrudgingly admitted earlier this week that he had soaked rags in gasoline and fired three places in Berlin before the parliament building blaze.

Zachow, apparently scared, told the court: "I am a good German. I have suffered enough."

The laborer had been accused by Ernst Panknin, a Nationalist laborer. Panknin was held in protective custody.

One witness, Eugene Pfeiffer, testified he had heard Van Der Lubbe claim to be a Communist and express the opinion something should be done to curb the Nazis.

N. B. C. will be out in Chicago with a lot of microphones next week to cover the American Legion convention. Sunday a nation-wide hookup will carry Board of Trade President Peter Carey welcoming Commander Louis Johnson and the playing of the legion's best music unit, the Board of Trade Post band.

Convention airing will continue with announcement of commander election results Thursday evening.

First appeal for contributions will be made Sunday night at 8:45 by Dr. Frank Leech, chairman of the hospital medical staff. On the same program, Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the District Commissioners, will indorse the campaign.

New heating equipment must be installed in the hospital if the children are to be kept warm this winter, officials report. The present plant has been condemned. It's obsolescence makes repair uneconomic.

More money appeals will be broadcast from the Columbia station each night during the week.

Lawyer Pleads Not Guilty to Hoarding Gold

U. S. Court Refuses Delay Asked by Defense in Test Case.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Frederick B. Campbell, New York lawyer, entered a plea of not guilty of violating the antigold hoarding regulations today in United States District Court and was given one week in which to set forth his contention that the emergency antihoarding laws and Executive orders are unconstitutional.

Campbell, first man indicted under the President's proclamation and act of Congress, was given until next Thursday to file a demurrer or necessary motion on the indictment. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

Two weeks for this action was asked by Campbell's lawyer, Ernest E. Baldwin, but United States Attorney George Z. Medalie objected, saying:

"We have concluded that the law and the presidential order under it are constitutinoal, legal, and accordingly binding. If we should happen to be wrong we should know the fact as speedily as possible. This defendant is an exceedingly able lawyer."

Campbell began suit Monday against the Chase National Bank, seeking to have it return to him 27 bars of gold bullion valued at $200,574.34 entrusted to it as custodian. Campbell allegedly failed to report possession of this gold to the Government by the September 18 deadline.

Women's Exposition Hears Mrs. Roosevelt

First Lady Goes From New York to Hyde Park Today to Join President; They Will Attend Walker-Robinson Wedding Tomorrow.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been at her home in New York since returning from Boston, where she went to oversee arranging of the rooms of Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, jr., at Harvard University. She was the guest of honor and speaker last evening at the Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries in the Astor Hotel, New York.

The First Lady is more than ordinarily interested in the work displayed at the exposition, owing to her own successful furniture venture at the Val-Kyli furniture factory.

Early this morning, Mrs. Roosevelt will motor to Hyde Park to join the President, and to remain with him until they return to Washington early next week. They will attend the wedding of Miss Alida Douglas Robinson, daughter of the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson, to Mr. Kenneth S. Walker, which will take place tomorrow at the home of the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Little Sarah Delano Roosevelt, granddaughter of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, sailed for Europe Tuesday for a several weeks' stay abroad, is the only member of the President's family now at the White House. She will remain there until her parents return.

The Minister of Haiti, Mr. Dantes Bellegarde, will arrive in New York Monday, aboard the Colombia, coming from his home in Port-au-Prince, where he spent two weeks.

The Minister of China and Mme. Sze are expected to return to Washington the middle of next month from England, and will be accompanied by their daughter, Alice Sze, who recently celebrated her ninth birthday anniversary. The other children of the Minister and Mme. Sze will remain in school abroad.

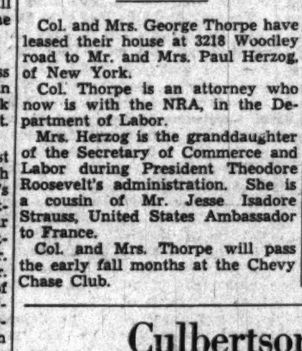
A Shift in Time.

The Opening lead against a no-trump contract is always rather blind—particularly when there has been no opposition bidding. The player making the first move is forced to pick a particular suit without any real knowledge that this lead is the best. This means that he may discover immediately after the lead is made that some other play would have been superior. However, it is not always too late—by proper application of the time factor he may still be able to save a hand which looks absolutely hopeless.

The following hand is extremely interesting not only because of the shift, but also because of the particular card chosen in the suit which was shifted to.

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	North
1♠	1◇
3NT	Pass

The bidding was quite logical and West's Opening lead is quite obvious. He led the Queen of spades, which was won in the closed hand with the King. Declarer now immediately went after the diamond suit and West won the second round. It was at this point that he decided that a shift was marked. If he led another spade, Declarer would win in the Dummy, run down his diamond suit and probably wind up with 2 certain club tricks left in his own hand. Clubs had been bid originally, so it seemed the Declarer must certainly have Ace-King or Ace-Queen.

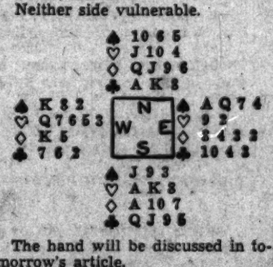
Of course, the only suit remaining was hearts, and West saw at once that he must make some play which would give him and his partner 4 heart tricks. His impulse was to lead the 3-spot, but he soon noticed that this play would give him 4 heart tricks only if his partner held A Q J 10. There was one other possibility and West took this—he led the 8 of hearts. East won this with the Ace and returned the 4-spot, West's King dropping the Declarer's Queen. Now the 3-spot was led and East held a perfect tenace of the Knave-7 over the Dummy's 10-6. Four tricks were therefore taken in hearts, which, with the Ace of diamonds, defeated the contract one trick.

It is apparent that the lead of the 3-spot would not have succeeded. On the third round West would have led the 8 and the Dummy would have ducked. East would have been forced to play the 7 and the suit would have been blocked. This brilliantly conceived defense deserved its final reward.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If South is playing a contract of three notrump against which West opens a low heart, what tactics are most likely to succeed in fulfilling the contract?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Figures Get Timely Help From Shops

Naughty 'Nineties Feather Boas Also Observed Nowadays.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

If nature was stingy when she planned your figure and didn't give you the hips and bosom so essential to the new fall frocks, you'll do well to drop by a downtown store and see what you can do about it. Lamentations avail but little, but wise shopping can do wonders.

An F street corset shop fits you so that slender hips look hippy just to the right degree. Or if you're naturally preponderantly so, they can be minimized to meet the style specifications.

A large department store has in some new V-ette brassieres which make you look decidedly Mae Westish in a bosomy sort of way. They're made of lace and especially designed to make the slender, boyish type of figure look more feminine.

After you get your Lady Lou figure, you might proceed to buy one of the naughty nineties feather boas. A department store has them in red, white, and green, long trailing, fluffy, vivid things, whose softness serve to flatter the face. If you're naturally pretty, there's no surer means of being prettier than to enshrine your head within a circle of these fine feathers. No matter how dull or inordinately somber your gown, the neckpieces lend a suggestion of gayety and brightness that no other accessory can give.

And then for the jewelry counter where you can choose from a wide variety one of the large elaborate-looking bracelets. One dollar gives you a choice of black, crystal, and several green and blue shades. If you have thin arms and conspicuous elbows, you'll be doing well to steer clear of the two wide bracelets and contenting yourself with some of the equally attractive smaller ones.

The swagger bags on display in an F street store offer a delightful touch of sangfroid to a costume. Just to look at them makes you want to do the most casual thing you can think of, even to blowing smoke rings. They are grain leather or smooth calf, with a pocket on each side and a zipper pocket down the middle which holds a little chain purse.

With your swagger coat by all means consider the swagger bag as a running mate.

To add a new touch to an old dress all you have to do is buy a new collar. And if you plan to do this you'll be wise not to choose before you've seen the striped wool affairs for $1.95 in a downtown store. They're loosely knit and striped to give that essential high light of color we want this fall, and hang smoothly over the shoulders in semicape fashion.

With one of these peeping forth at the neck of your coat you wouldn't need a scarf. You could buy or make a little wooly pompon for your hat, carrying out the same color scheme as your collar, and there you are, chic as chic can be.

Fabric gloves are more important this season than they've been for many a day. You can buy them fancy or plain, black and white, eel gray, beige or brown for $1.50.

An F street store has a special counter of them with novelty knitted cuffs in contrasting colors. For campus, sports or any informal activity you'll enjoy the fabrics and find them a real economy.

If you want to please grandfather either now or at Christmas you'll buy for him a hand-carved wooden tobacco jar made to look like the head of a swarthy old German burgher. Between the tightly compressed lips is the last half inch of a just-about-gone cigar.

Besides giving the old gentleman a chuckle or two it would be extremely attractive as a room ornament.

The new "pick-me-up" beauty kit is exactly what its name implies. It's the kind of a thing you can count on to have any beauty aid you're likely to need, and to be right on hand when you need it. For dashing from party to party, for a permanent fixture in your locker at the golf club, for tucking into the corner of your traveling bag, for the pocket of your car, or to keep in your desk drawer in the office as a sort of perennial fountain of youth, you'll find it ideally suited.

There really are two kits, one for dry sensitive skins, and another for normal or oily skins. They contain: A pasteurized face cream, tissue cream to iron out the wrinkles; skin toning lotion, to firm and brace the skin; beauty grains for removing impurities; hand lotion, peachbloom powder, miniature lipstick, red coral rouge, eyelash grower and darkener and cleansing tissues.

And the whole thing is yours for $3.75! Besides all the thrilling contents you'll be pleased beyond measure with the attractive cases. And the whole thing is yours, contents and all, for $3.75.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of the Woman's Department of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 105, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

Arlington to Have Children's Theater Group, Juniors to Plan Stage Effects, Direct Plays

Lyon Village, Va., youngsters (pictured above) will present a play, "And Cupid Shall Lead Them," in the Cherrydale School auditorium the evening of October 6, as the footlight bow of the tentatively organized Arlington County children's theater movement. Under the tutelage of Florence Kennedy, actress and director, the play was written and rehearsed by the children; stage setting and costumes were devised by them, and they will superintend the actual presentation. Inset shows 4-year-old John Spickard as Cupid.

Miss Florence Kennedy Sponsors Movement; 50 Now Enrolled.

Formal Organization Will Take Place in Lyon Park October 1.

Arlington County is to have a children's theater group, the first of its kind in Virginia and one of the few in the United States.

Children not only will enact roles of suitable plays, but will have a part in planning stage effects, creating costumes and handling production.

The purpose of the movement, as explained by its sponsor, Florence Kennedy, former director of Cleveland's Children's Theater, is to afford the child outlet for originality and creative instinct; teach him proper use of his voice; help him to acquire poise and to develop his critical faculties to the extent he can distinguish meritorious material from trash.

Dramatic Training Needed.

"More than 20,000,000 children in this country are being cheated of their rightful heritage of cultural education through lack of attention to child dramatics," Miss Kennedy set forth. "They need dramatic education from the standpoint of subject matter and presentation."

"I find parents as deeply interested in such education as their children, and anxious to cooperate in every way," she continued.

"They feel the complex demands of modern civilization necessitate sound cultural training for their children if they are to find their place in the world."

Under Miss Kennedy's plan, children are organized into a theater group and subdivided according to ages. Stories are considered until one has been selected which appeals to the majority in a given group. Roles are assigned and the youthful actors turn playwright. Each one must write lines which, in his opinion best depicts the character he is to portray.

Costumes then are studied, after which come stage setting, lighting effects, gestures and, finally, presentation. From beginning to end, it is the work of the child.

Miss Kennedy finds children from 4 to 10 years invariably are intrigued with the Mother Goose tales, and from 10 to 17, such stories as "Little Women," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and "Alice in Wonderland" hold appeal.

Already, 50 children from Arlington County are enrolled in the Children's Theater movement, which is to be formally organized the evening of October 1 at the home of Mrs. Teresa Clark in Lyon Park. Final plans will be completed by October 7.

Production of a play called "And Cupid Shall Lead Them," has begun. It will be on the order of a "Tom Thumb Wedding," using the theme songs from "The Wooden Soldier" and "The China Doll." This will be staged the evening of October 6 in the auditorium of Cherrydale School. Proceeds will be turned over to the scholarship fund of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Arlington County.

Among those who will take part are Fern, Velma June and Paula Whitlock, Peggy and Belle Clark, Doris Jeanne Day, Frances Anderson, Polly Frink, June Divens, Betty Jeanne Dudley, Edith Cohen, John Spickard, Shirley Flaherty, Frances Brennan, Ellen Jane Nyman, Evelyn Balou, Mary Elizabeth Lane, Jeannette Folsom, Adele and Isabelle Porter, Patsy and Peggy Jenkinson, Doris Lee McDaniel, Kathleen and Barbara Clarke, Vance Steenson, Doris and Joyce Dove, Harold Mottern, Dick Ellison, Paul Jenkinson, Jack and Billy Hyett, Marty Divens, Jack Hardy, Paul Harding, Bobby Brennan, Sam Vanderslice, Arthur Vleet and Virginia Clark.

Children's Part Recalled.

The idea of children in the theater is not new. It has been attempted and talked about for years without success. Today it is having a rebirth, and a foundation is being laid for something that one day may have a wide and lasting influence.

Children appeared in the old Greek plays, which were adult dramas. Through the centuries child player and child audience never were first considerations. During Shakespeare's time children seldom appeared on the stage. The only type of dramatic art thought suitable for the child was the pantomime and the Punch and Judy show. Today the latter has almost been abondoned.

Today France has her state theater, where plays are produced by children for children. England is noted for her children's Christmas productions and her provincial sketches. Czechoslovakia has elfin folk plays and operettas. Denmark also has developed something of a children's theater.

The most noteworthy exponent of the movement in the United States is the Children's Theater in New York, in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is much interested, and to which she has lent substantial support.

First Attempt in Virginia.

The undertaking of Miss Kennedy is the first attempt to organize such a theater in Virginia. Miss Kennedy plans to extend her efforts into Washington if her Arlington County endeavor is successful. Though several attempts have been made in Washington, none has survived.

Miss Kennedy is a graduate of the bachelor of arts degree in drama, and has done post graduate work at Columbia University. She was with the Morningside Players in the Ohio Theater, with Jane Cowl in Camille, and with Walter Clyde.

She has directed and played with the Subsidiary Theater in Ohio, and is head of the drama department of the Cleveland Central Y. W. C. A. Adult Education Department. In addition to her theatrical training, she has a life certificate in kindergarten primary work and has specialized in children's literature.

The Family Marketer

The hard, white cabbage, which is shipped here from New York State, looks as though it's waiting to be chopped into slaw. Search far and wide, and you'll find no kind which lends itself to this preparation as well as a good, firm head of the white cabbage. On the other hand, there's none so good for boiling as the more loosely leafed local green variety.

Red cabbage, which a great many people prefer on account of its pungent flavor, is due here any time now.

Chicory for Salad.

If your lettuce salad combinations are beginning to bore you, give chicory a try. The inner light green portions are tender and tasty, and you may use the dark outer leaves in much the same manner as you do spinach. It's a good idea to be very careful with these, however, as they're often a bit bitter.

Corn lovers may be seen heaving a sigh of relief each day when they see corn still on the market. It's hard to tell just how much longer it will be with us, for dealers themselves say they never know from day to day when the last supply is on hand. It's slated to make its exit about any time now. That explains why it has mounted in price to 35 cents a dozen ears. If you don't mind paying the price, you can be fairly sure the corn you buy is tender as it should be. In this way it differs from many outgoing vegetables which come in at the last of their season in the poorest marketable condition.

California Green Peas Cited.

It's a real pleasure to see how well behaved the California green peas are. Sometimes they have a disagreeable habit of being extremely unreasonable as regards price, but today we can't complain of their 15 cents a pint.

Mushrooms are coming more and more into popular favor as their price slowly but surely drops. We should celebrate the new price of 40 cents a pound by serving them with a thick steak this evening. Or we might have broiled chicken and use the remains of it tomorrow with plenty of mushrooms as chicken a la king.

In contrast to the drop of so many of the vegetable and fruit prices this week, we see oranges (from California) persistently going up. If the Florida crop doesn't begin to arrive soon we might for the sake of our budgets do without morning orange juice.

Honeydew Melons Ample.

How can we resist them? They make such a humble appeal, with their paleness, and smallness. And they're priced so well within reach, three pounds for 25 cents. And they're so delicious with any kind of meal, the little pickling onions.

The honeydew melons from California are well representing their State on the market today. You may buy them from 25 cents to 40 cents.

Colorado cantaloupes are among the week's best sellers. They're plentiful, and cheap, for 10 and 15 cents.

There's a large variety of fish to chose from today—bluefish, trout, Norfolk spots, butterfish and flounders—for 15 and 20 cents a pound. Filet of sole always is a pleasing delicacy, as it should be for the 40 cents a pound it is today.

Oysters remain the same, ranging from 50 to 70 cents; crabflakes, 30 to 60 cents.

Melancholy Baby.

By Katherine W. Smith.

I've been reading through my verses—
Sorry children of my pain;
I have tried to find a passage,
I could set to music. Vain
Has been my search; I've hunted
But I can not find a thing,
For my wistful little children

Rites of Bath Restore, Also Refresh, Ego

Modern Luxury, Casually Accepted, Boon to Weary Woman.

Nothing better illustrates the high standard demanded by American women, with regard to equipment for grooming, than the nonchalance almost amounting to indifference, with which they accept the miraculous convenience of the modern bathtub. And the consternation which seizes upon them when they find themselves temporarily divorced from its usage.

The cult of beauty took centuries in its stride in 1842, when, in Boston, hot and cold water out of faucets splashed simultaneously, for the first time, into a single tub.

When a woman is hot and tired; cross or worried; nervous or bored, supreme relaxation is attained through leisurely immersion in a tub of steaming, scented water. If she wants to be really comfortable, there are rubber pillows with suction clamps which fasten securely to the tub surface behind her head. There are racks which fasten over the edge of the tub to hold bath brush, soap, bath salts and cosmetics within easy reach of her hand.

If she is the type who likes to rest in the tub after a hard day's work, before going out for the evening; or just before retiring, there are contraptions on the market today which cater to her whim. She can smoke or read, with ash tray to hand, and waterproof bookrack within reach.

The formula for a luxurious bath goes something like this: Draw a tub three quarters full of tepid water. Toss in a little water softener. Add a few drops of bath oil or a handful of pungent crystals. Then, about soap, there is a flake variety for those who feel too lanquid to exert themselves with the regulation soap bar, and it even comes in cream in tubes.

Step into the tub. Lather prodigally. Relax. When you finally feel you couldn't be fresher, you may up and into a big soft bath towel. When thoroughly dried, envelope yourself in a cloud of dusting powder, as expensive as your purse will command. Spray yourself with your favorite toilet water, preferably of faint and elusive scent. You will feel yourself ready to conquer new worlds, and all and sundry who come your way.

What Today Means

"Libra."

If September 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 2 to 2:30 p. m. and from 6 to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 to 10 a. m., from 3 to 4 p. m. and from 9:45 to 10:25 p. m.

You will probably lean over backward to do someone a good turn on this day, and more than likely you will receive a rebuff for your pains. Take special care not to injure anyone's pride in your offers of assistance; it may lead to lost friendship. Babies will tend to be fretful and difficult to handle.

The child born on this September 29 will probably be a little one of considerable charm, one who will quickly win its way into the affections of all people. Will prove an elevating influence in the lives of its parents; naturally refined and appreciative of the finest and most beautiful things of life.

If September 29 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who leads a free and easy life. You are a very moral person, but, without thinking, you do most indiscreet things, and leave yourself wide open to the criticism of a world that is quick to take advantage of the failings of others. You like people and you like to have a crowd about you. Quite characteristic of most people who are genuinely fond of others and big hearted, you are not at all critical of your friends and on more than one occasion you will find that you have erred in your judgment, but this disclosure will come too late. You are a spender, you give freely and you like to do things in the grand manner. You are fond of travel, most particularly by motor car. You are an adventurous person.

Born on September 29, you are a hard worker, and the chances are that you will get into some business that you can really enthuse over. You like to share your triumphs and successes with others. You are ever ready to meet the emergency by giving of your time and money to the limit. There is something of the promoter in your make-up. You like to start things going, you like to see things take form and get into action, but then you lose interest. You are not the person to carry on in a routine way, after the pioneering has been done. You are changeable in your loves, and your love at the age of 30 may not be your love when you turn 50.

Successful people born on September 29:

Thomas H. Seymour, soldier and politician.
Jesse Hutchinson, singer.
John McA. Schofield, soldier.
Christopher C. Shayne, merchant.
Frederick Schwatka, Arctic explorer.
George Frederick Kunz, mineralogist.

Pickle Makers Find Selves in Predicament

Pickle makers frankly admitted they faced something of a predicament. Members of the industry in convention at Chicago said a short crop and increased appetites of beer drinkers threatened a pickle famine, according to the Associated Press.

This year's harvest was estimated at 3,000,000 bushels, against an average yield of about 6,000,000, by Frank E. Goresline, secretary.

Gain in Weight Shown By "Vest Pocket" Baby

Fergus Falls, Minn. (AP).—Embarking on her fourteenth day of life and representing the latest in vest-pocket babies, the tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kragness boasted a 6-ounce gain in weight and a full name just like other babies have.

It's Miss Donna Lois Kragness now for the little one who weighed only 26 ounces at birth as medical authorities, astounded at first that such a small infant could live more than a few hours, said the child had "a fairly good chance of living."

What's in Fashion?

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where styles of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion . . Department, The Washington Post, on request.

New York.—Color in shirts for men has become pretty much of a world craze. In Europe, it's a political matter—Italy with its black shirts, Germany with its brown, Ireland with blue . . . In America it's just a natural masculine desire for good-looking shirts with color. Interesting color. Wearable color.

Grover Whalen (one of the leading lights in the NRA); Speed-flash Frank Hawks, even sedate administration members like Harold Ickes and Cordell Hull are all adding shirts with color to their collections. And wearing them, and liking them, with their this-fall's suits.

It isn't that white is out of the picture by any means . . . but that more and more of the colorful brethren are getting noticed. And not so much the solid-color shirts as the more truly colorful striped and patterned versions.

When you've got pattern to work with, you achieve color combinations whose richness and wearableness are hard to beat. Especially liked by fashion-knowing men, and by the women who shirt-shop for men.

Gray, Blue, Brown Combinations.

Wine and gray is one of the combinations that's right up front these days. Largely because wine-colored ties sing such close harmony with gray suits. That's also why the shirtmarkers have been smart enough to combine the two in fine striped and checked effects . . . really handsome colorings that give a man the touch of color his chest demands.

They're also combining gray with blue. A hook-up of blue tie, gray suit, and blue-gray shirt is both good to look at and good taste.

Blue's another ultra-good-looking shirt color. Besides the always-popular blue-and-white, there's a wide variety of blue-on-blue, blue-gray, red-and-blue, and blue-tan-and-mulberry you can usually choose from. All of them good companions to a gray or blue suit.

For the thousands of men who are going brown-suit this fall, there are unusually beautiful shirt colorings. Among them, tan and white, tan and brown, tan and maroon, brown-white-and-gray, tan and lavender, brown-tan-green. Smooth harmony makers—every one of them—with a brown suit. And worn, usually, with maroon, green and brown combination ties.

Stripes Popular, Checks Fashionable.

Best liked among fall colored shirts are the striped variety. But you'll notice that neat, fine checks are most worn among the men-who-know group. In some parts of the country, small contrasting figures do the trick of getting more color-contrast into men's shirts.

As you'd expect, ties have gotten themselves right in line and are more colorful this fall. Not loud or eye-blinding. But quiet grounds, with the touch of spicy color that gives life to them, makes them fit in the fall color picture. A good many of them are red—as Boxer Maxie Baer or Ollman Rockefeller, jr., like theirs. And—to fit in with blues—there are the blue-and-red, blue-and-gray, blue-and-black combinations.

In selecting your shirts this fall it would be a good idea if you first sent for our leaflet, "Good Shirt Colors and Patterns for Fall and Winter," illustrated with actual shirting materials. You can secure it by sending a stamped, addressed envelope and 6 cents in loose stamps.

Three Meals Daily Best for Children

Regular Schedule Found to Be Advantageous.

A regular schedule of three meals a day, with the food requirements divided about evenly, seems to work best for most children. If one meal is slightly larger, it usually is best to give it at midday.

Children as a rule sleep more soundly when the evening meal does not include heavier foods. On the other hand, it is a mistake to give young children too light a meal in the evening. There is danger of making the day's food allowance so small that they may awaken after midnight from hunger.

"Piecing" between meals is a bad practice, because it is apt to dull the appetite for regular meals. If extra food is necessary for an active, rapidly growing child, it should be offered at a definite time each day, not too soon before or after the regular meal. It must be of good quality and the amount and kind should be determined by other foods of regular meals.

Such additional meal may consist of orange juice or other fresh fruit, such as apple or peach; small sandwich or cookie; with a glass of milk. Where the appetite for regular meals is at all diminished, extra lunches should be discontinued.

School Heads Worried By "Debutante Slouch"

Public school officials in some of the larger Eastern cities express concern over an epidemic of "debutante slouch," as well as a constantly increasing use of slang, among high school and college-age girls.

Old-fashioned declamation classes are being organized to rout the use of slang, but officials are frankly perplexed with the problem presented by the slouch. About 15 years ago, this same hump-shouldered, hollow-chested posture enjoyed passing vogue, and seems to have something to do with long lines and exaggerated femininity in styles.

Jewelry for Season Barbaric, Primitive

Jewelry for this season may be barbaric, Oriental, primitive or sophisticated to the nth degree. Synthetic and simulated precious stones are definitely in vogue and necklaces will be worn outside of high-backed frocks.

In Paris, a great deal of jewelry is being worn, showing rich, important and colorful jewels of all kinds. Smart women are bedecking themselves with it to a point that formerly would have been considered bad taste—but today it is the fashion.

Soviet Credit Plan Hinges On Grain Pact

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Extension of credits by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to Russia is likely to depend upon participation by the Soviet government in the world wheat control plans, an administration official indicated tonight.

The forecast came as dispatches from London reported Russia had rejected a compromise plan by John V. A. MacMurray, American deledate to the wheat advisory commission.

Officials expressed disappointment at Russia's failure to agree to cooperate in regulating wheat as called for in the agreement.

The difficulty centers on export quotas. Russia wants to export 75,000,000 bushels this year. Other nations want to limit Soviet export to 37,000,000 bushels.

The agreement signed by the four great wheat states—Argentina, Australia, Canada and the United States—carries provisions for a 50,000,000 bushel export overflow.

The administration official, who declined to be quoted by name, said two courses were open if Russia refuses to sign. They are:

Importing nations may combine to refuse purchase of Russian wheat beyond a set quota.

Either of these steps, the official pointed out, would have the effect of forcing Russia to participate indirectly in the wheat control plan.

Recognition of Russia has been under discussion by administration leaders since President Roosevelt took office. It was reported authoritatively a few days ago that the formal act would be announced before November 1.

London Favors Credit Pact.

London, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—An extension of the commercial and financial negotiations between the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington and Soviet Russia will be sought on the return of John McMurray, American delegate at the World Wheat Conference, it was learned tonight.

The R. F. C.-Moscow alliance was suggested as one certain means of bringing the Soviets into line on the wheat plan, designed to give the wheat farmers of the world a higher price for their grain.

Efforts to get the Russians into the pact failed at least temporarily, it was admitted today, prior to McMurray's sailing for the United States aboard the liner Manhattan.

$300 Necklace Stolen, Woman Tells Police

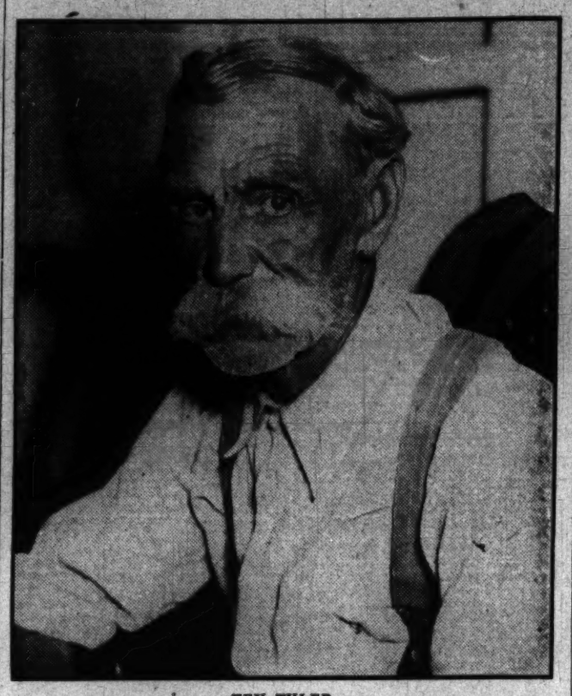
Wild West Veteran Hikes Here



TEX TYLER.

This veteran of the days when the West was young and ferocious is in town. He hitch-hiked all the way from Amarilla, Tex., where he was born in 1835. Those were the days, he told workers at the Salvation Army where he is staying. He claims he rode with Jesse James and took part in stage coach and railway robberies. He says Sam Houston named him. He is going to Chester, Pa., to relatives.

Canada to Slaughter 2,000 Buffalo in Park

Ottawa, Sept. 28 (AP).—The slaughter of 2,000 buffalo in Wainwright National Park Alberta, has been approved by the Government. Tenders are being requested for purchase of the hides during November and December.

The animals to be killed are 500 bulls, 2 years of age; 150 bulls, 3 years old; 200 cows, 3 years old; and 1,150 aged bulls and cows.

Zoo's African Antelope To Get His Second Mate

It will be second wife for the Zoo's eland—big African antelope—whose mate died last winter in giving birth to a calf.

Yesterday Dr. William M. Mann, Zoo director, was promised a female eland by Louis Ruhe, international animal dealer, who visited the Zoo. Mr. Rhue also will send mates for the two female white-tailed gnu. The animals will be loaned and any offspring will be zoo property.

Cuban Official, Here, Hopeful Of Recognition

Dr. Carlos Finlay Tells State Department of Island Conditions.

Dr. Carlos Finlay, minister of sanitation in the new Cuban government, visited informally at the State Department yesterday, paid his compliments to Assistant Secretary of State Jefferson Caffrey, then continued on his way to New York.

State Department attaches placed no official construction on his visit. Dr. Finlay, member of the faculty of Columbia University, New York, said his call was to exchange information on the Cuban situation. He admitted, however, he was anxious for American recognition.

The visiting minister reported Cuban conditions quieter and declared United States recognition would further help the situation.

He said his visit was only an incident in his trip to New York, adding that he wished to give the State Department all information he has on conditions in Havana.

New Disorders in Cuba.

Havana, Sept. 28 (AP).—Renewed disorders flared in Matanzas Province today to plague the Grau San Martin government as striking workers seized Yumuri Match and Cigarette Factory at Matanzas City.

More trouble was reported at San Jose De Los Remos, where armed bandits were reported sacking farmers' homes. The mayor of the town called for troops.

In Colon three Communist leaders were arrested after an attempt to burn a Roman Catholic Church. Authorities said they had seized a quantity of literature at Communist headquarters.

Approximately 200 soldiers equipped with 27 machine guns arrived at Camaguey from Havana, but the government said they were sent there to guard sugar mill properties.

Other reports indicated antigovernment forces were planning a movement against the government. The plans, it was said, were sponsored by a secret society.

Officers at the National Hotel had until midnight to leave for their homes or lose their status in the Army and Navy. They have been in the hotel since September 8.

Retires From Treasury Guard Force

Lieut. W. J. Fischer (left) bids Sergt. George R. Moberly, of the Treasury Department guard force, good-by and good luck after retirement ceremonies at which he was presented with a cane by Chief Clerk F. A. Birgfeld on behalf of members of the guard. He was retired under the age limitation of 70 years. He says he plans to do some fishing and a lot of resting.

Soviet Aviation Wins Praises Of Lindbergh

Tells Russians He Will Return to Watch Experiments.

Moscow, Sept. 28 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, still uncertain about when they will return to the United States from their current tour of Russia, already are laying plans to come back for another visit two years hence.

The colonel made this known at a banquet at which he and his wife were feted last night. Also in attendance were United States Senators W. G. McAdoo, of California, and R. R. Reynolds, of North Carolina.

"We are both anxious," Col. Lindbergh said, "to return in two years to see the results of your present experiments translated into actualities."

There were cheers then and more later for Mrs. Lindbergh when she turned toward four women pilots and said, "I am honored to sit at the same table with Soviet women aviators who are participating in the development of this science on equality with men."

Senator McAdoo and Senator Reynolds spoke briefly, saying they were on an informal visit.

Farm Prices Must Jump, Wallace Told

St. Paul, Sept. 28 (AP).—A. J. Olson, Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation president, told Secretary Henry A. Wallace in a letter today that help to agriculture must be hurried "or the NRA will complete the ruination of the American farmer."

Olson asserted higher farm-product prices were essential and that "the administrators of the agricultural adjustment act are apparently being outgeneraled by the NRA leaders."

Quality

Everyone knows that a long, firm, white ash results from perfect burning of fine tobaccos. Notice the ash on Lucky Strike. See how even, how firm, how white. That long, white ash is the unmistakable sign of Lucky Strike's fine tobacco quality, fully packed—and no loose ends.

Stocks Renew Climb Under Quiet Trading

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Stocks felt better today, notwithstanding a heavy closing for wheat. Final prices for shares showed a goodly assortment of 1 to 2 point net gains, though trading was very quiet throughout the session.

The market's action suggested that it had become a bit oversold yesterday.

There were no striking developments along the inflation front; President Roosevelt did not issue the "sound money" pronouncement which Wall street had anticipated on Wednesday, so the issue remained undecided and traders were disposed to move cautiously.

Mining Shares Popular.

Mining company equities shared with alcohols the most prominent part in the price improvement. U. S. Smelting rose 4, and McIntyre, American Smelting, National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol and Dome 1 to 3 or so.

Alaska Juneau moved up more that a point on news of a 15-cent extra dividend. Celanese was strong. Homestake hopped up 29 points on a couple of late transactions.

For United States Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Can, Chrysler, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors and other favorites the rise was leisurely but well sustained.

Seaboard Oil Gains.

Seaboard Oil again found favor, up about 2. New York City tractions and municipal bonds brightened measurably on the new plan to bolster the city's credit. Stock sales totaled 1,442,770 shares.

The market met its support at what was virtually the low point, as measured by the averages, of the July break. Some brokers would have been better pleased had the recovery been more aggressive, but the list closed at the day's highs.

Undoubtedly, the technical position had been strengthened as a result of recent selling and an augmented short interest covered some contracts when the early trading disclosed an absence of overnight liquidation.

Dollar exchange just topped 66 cents, gold value, at one time, though our currency's range was narrow. The Bank of France lost some gold in the past week, while the British Central Bank's holdings made another record high.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Adjustment to NRA conditions, credit inflation and artificial stimulation of the heavy industries, says Moody's, should soon produce a resumption of the uptrend in business. "Each seasonal influence in 1933," comments the service, "has been late in making itself felt. The beginning of the autumnal upturn may well prove therefore to have been merely delayed, not omitted."

Department stores sales in New York so far this week, according to reports in retail trade quarters, have been up to the volume of last week and about 10 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

Eaton Manufacturing Co. today announced resumption of dividends on the common stock with a declaration of 20 cents a share, payable November 15, to stock of record November 1. The last payment was in May, 1932. J. O. Eaton, chairman, reports a substantial increase in the company's business and earnings since March, in spite of increased costs due to the NRA.

The American Rolling Mill Co.'s plan for exchange of three-year 4½ per cent notes, due November 1, 1933, for new 5 per cent convertibles, due November 1, 1938, has been declared operative by the company's executive committee.

Bookings of steel construction in August by 179 companies amounted to 75,688 tons, against 56,482 tons by 192 companies in July and an average of 63,252 tons per month by 182 companies in the first half of this year, the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc., reports.

The report of the A. P. W. Paper Co., Inc., for the fiscal year ended June 30 shows net income of $4,057, equivalent to 2 cents a share on the capital stock. This compared with a net loss of $39,421 for the previous fiscal year.

Sugar consumption in the United States last month totaled 540,626 long tons, a decrease of 8.2 per cent from a year ago, says B. W. Dyer & Co., sugar brokers. Consumption for the first eight months of 1933 was 1 per cent above the same period of 1932.

Labor Disputes and Trade

Increasing Strikes Endangering Progress of Recovery

By Ralph West Robey.

More and more allowance for labor disputes is becoming necessary in appraising the business outlook. The calling of strikes has become a daily occurrence. Most of them, it is true, are relatively small, but some of them involve many thousands of workers. In the aggregate they have become almost a major factor in the course of business.

Even more serious is the fact that the passage of time is reducing neither the number nor the vigor of these walk-outs. Some of the worst have been settled, but one dispute is no more than patched up until another about as bad takes its place. Further, they break out in industries complying in full with their codes, just as well as in those industries where as yet there has been no agreement on a code.

The United States is, in other words, experiencing a period of labor unrest that has not been equaled in a decade, and probably in a much longer period. The cause of this, of course, is directly traceable to the NRA and the forces it has set in motion. In the final appraisal of the NRA this fact will have to be given an important place.

Assignment of Blame of Secondary Importance.

For the present, however, the significant thing is not to assign blame for such a crystallization of bitterness between labor and capital. That can come later. The important problem now is to make whatever changes are necessary in policies and practices to bring an end to these disputes.

To do this, it seems to me, two things are necessary. The first is to make labor realize the source from which its wages are derived. Its current attitude seems to be that this source is a bottomless pot of money hidden away by employers. For all practical purposes, in fact, it has been told about as much by some of the more enthusiastic, but ill-instructed, officers of the NRA. It needs to be understood that wages come from production, and that without production there will be no wages, all the NRAs, "New Deals," and inflations notwithstanding.

Secondly, is the clarification of just how far labor is to have the official support of the Administration in forcing a socialization of industry in this country. If there is no limit to this support, as sometimes in recent weeks has appeared to be the case, employers will understand their position better and can act accordingly. At present they still are working on the assumption that they can not be forced to run their plants at a loss.

Knowing Administration Position Would Help Labor Plan.

On the other hand, if there is a limit to administration support and this is made known, labor can plan its program with more accuracy. Then, instead of demanding the moon and being willing to walk out of any plant at the drop of a hat, it might curb its demands to something a bit more in harmony with current conditions.

These are not, it should be emphasized, views based upon either sympathy or lack of sympathy with an attempt to improve the welfare of labor. Rather, they are based upon the obvious truth that the only way either labor or the rest of us can get prosperity is to produce goods and have them offered to the public at a price at which they will be purchased.

Statistics are already recording in disturbing fashion the effects of too rapid an increase of prices upon production and consumption in the last few months. Having this happen was a serious error in our drive for prosperity. A continuation of the policies and practices which are leading to labor disputes almost certainly will become an equally great error.

Chain Store Sales Reported Gaining

New York, Sept. 28.—Substantial further progress was reported during August in most sections of chain store trade, notably the apparel, shoe and general merchandise divisions. Instances of outstanding individual gains of a contra seasonal nature were again in plentiful evidence everywhere, but chiefly in the groups above mentioned. Sales of grocery chains, however, despite the continued improvement shown by some units, failed as a whole to maintain the upward trend of recent months.

Therefore, although four of the component series advanced, the weighty influence of the decline in grocery returns caused a drop in the Chain Store Age index of chain store sales for the month to 84.3 of the 1929-1931 average as 100, from 86.2 in July. As compared with August, 1932, however, the index figure for August this year showed a gain of 3.9 points as against an excess of 3.0 points in July this year over the corresponding month of 1932.

Average daily sales in August of 19 leading chain store companies used by Chain Store Age in compiling the monthly index, aggregated $6,662,000 as compared with $6,813,000 in July and $6,352,000 in August, 1932.

Better Prices for Kraut Urged by Farm Group

(Associated Press.)

Better prices for sauerkraut, victual companion piece of beer, is the latest effort of the Farm Adjustment Administration.

Packers of the food in New York, Ohio and Michigan yesterday were told by the administration they should pay at least $5.50 a ton for kraut cabbage. Many packers already have made contracts with the growers for cabbage at around $4 a ton and today farm officials suggested they should pay at least $1.50 more in view of the light crop.

Hagerstown Business Upturn Is Reported

Hagerstown, Md., Sept. 28 (Spl.). An indication that industry during the last six months in Hagerstown has been improving, is the report of R. R. Daniels, superintendent of the municipal electric light plant. He says that consumption for the six months to September 1 was 284,000 kilowatt hours above the figures for the same period in 1932.

Bond Market Drifts Lower On Light Sales

Traders and Investors Deal Cautiously; Turnover, $8,660,000.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—The bond market drifted listlessly to lower levels today as both traders and investors moved cautiously in the face of existing monetary uncertainties.

Sales lagged notably, the volume totalling only $8,660,000, par value, which is considerably below a normal day's business. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues sagged three-tenths of a point.

While a number of secondary railway liens transformed early losses into small net gains, the carriers, as a whole, were somewhat irregular.

List of Gainers.

Gainers of fractions to around a point in this division included some issues of Allegany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Western Indiana, Erie, K. C. Southern, Louisville & Nashville, Nickel Plate and Wabash.

Most of the higher grade utilities and industrials were fairly steady.

Moderate advances in these classes were recorded by some bonds of American I. G. chemical, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Dodge Bros., Hudson Coal, International Telephone, National Dairy, St. Joseph Lead, United Drug, U. S. Rubber and Warner Bros. Loans of Western Union were rather heavy, as were those of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, American & Foreign Power, Lackawanna Steel, Mead Corporation, and Armour & Co.

Some Profit-Taking.

There was some profit-taking in United States Government securities, most of the Treasuries losing 4-32nds to 7-32nds of a point.

French Government obligations were up 2⅜ to 3½ points, and advances of 1 to 2 or more were registered by those of Australia, Austria, Germany, Italy, Norway and Japan.

London—Business today was again restricted and gilteedged securities eased after a strong opening. Argentine rails continued firm, while transatlantic issues were irregular. German bonds again improved. South African gold mines were quiet, with an easier undertone. The closing was quiet.

Paris—The strength in rentes and most international issues overbalanced the weakness in Wall street and induced a general improvement, especially in rubber shares. Shell Union and the Young loans. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Selling was overshadowed by the more favorable business reports. The boerse opened unsettled with fractional losses, but the closing was weaker.

Curb Recovers Lost Ground As Sales Drop

Utilities Lead Market in Upturn; Trading Cut to 214,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—The curb market today recovered some of the ground lost in yesterday's setback. The advance, however, was not uniform, oils and a number of specialties encountering moderate offerings. Utilities were a bright spot, a number of the inactives scoring wide gains. Alcohols were firm.

Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore rose 4 or more points each. Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric gained about a point apiece. Metals were steady to firm, excepting New Jersey Zinc, which gave up 1⅛ points. Newmont advanced a similar amount.

Hiram Walker gained a point, while in the petroleum division Gulf rose 2¾ and Humble sagged 3¼. Celluloid Co. issues were in quiet demand. Sherwin Williams gained 1½ points while reactionary tendencies appeared in Parker Rust Proof and Seeman Brothers, the latter losing 4½ points.

Bank Meeting In Alexandria Selects Board

Stockholders of the Bank of Commerce & Savings met at Alexandria, Va., yesterday for their annual meeting and re-elected all directors of that institution. Directors are Maurice D. Rosenberg, Joseph Sanders, Irving Owings, John M. Riordon, Thomas J. Groom, Joseph H. Milans, Dr. Clarence A. Weaver, William L. Bush, James E. Colliflower, E. Taylor Chewning, Thomas N. Beavers, Richard L. Elliott, Albert S. Gatley, Martin A. Leese, Harry E. Mayer, John F. Maury, Vernon G. Owen, Frank Owings. The board's meeting of organization will be held next week.

President Rosenberg reported the bank in excellent condition. The institution is now in its twenty-sixth successful year. It opened for business December 2, 1907, in an unpretentious room at the corner of Eighth and G streets northwest.

Shortly afterwards, it selected a permanent site at the northeast corner of Seventh and E streets northwest. During the 26 years, this handsome building twice has been enlarged and remodeled to care for the bank's growing business.

Old Officers Remain.

A number of officers and directors of the bank who began serving it at its inception are still active in its affairs. These are Joseph Sanders, a vice president; John M. Riordon, original cashier, now executive vice president; Dr. Clarence A. Weaver, auditor; Alber tS. Gatley, of the executive board, and Mr. Rosenberg, president since the beginning of the bank.

Prominent citizens who had served on its directorate and have since ended their useful careers were Ashley M. Gould, District Supreme Court Justice; Richard J. Earnshaw, president, Boston Baking Co.; Elie Sheetz, proprietor Martha Washington Candy Organization; William A. Bennett, vice president, Equitable Life Insurance Co., and Alexander Wolf, an outstanding member of the local bar.

Bertram Chesterman, president of the Morris Plan Bank of Washington, announces that Representative Henry B. Steagall, one of the authors of the Glass-Steagall banking act, would address the Morris Plan Bankers Association at the coming annual convention of the association to be held at Louisville, Ky., October 2, 3 and 4. Representative Steagall will address the convention at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, October 3, and his subject will be the new banking bill passed at the last session of Congress.

To Attend Convention.

Mr. Chesterman will attend the Louisville convention as a delegate from the Morris Plan Bank of Washington. He also states that other speakers of the convention will be Robert O. Bonnell, president of the Morris Plan Bank of Baltimore, Ralph A. Riddleberger, vice president and solicitor of the New York Morris Plan Bank, Ralph H. Pitman, president of the Philadelphia Morris Plan Bank, and Arthur J. Morris, founder of the Morris Plan system of banking.

There are more than 100 Morris Plan banks throughout the country, all independently administered, and they do an approximate annual business of $150,000,000.

Thursday's session of Washington Stock Exchange was marked by increased improvement in volume of business. There were two transactions of 10 shares each in Norfolk & Washington Steamboat, before and after call. Both traded at 84, point decline. Five shares of Potomac Electric 6 per cent preferred moved at 110, 2 point recession. Two of Potomac Electric 5½ preferred sold at 106¼, fractional loss.

Day's Largest Sales.

The largest transaction was in Washington Railway & Electric preferred, 25 shares changing hands in blocks of 10, 10, and 5 at 87, half-point advance. Three shares of Capital Traction moved at 13¼, fractional gain.

Business in the bond division was confined to a single transaction, $500 Washington Gas 6s Series B selling at 102¾, last sale price.

Net income for Potomac Electric Power Co., for the first eight months of 1933, was $2,951,113.98, as compared with $2,950,962.20 for the corresponding period last year, a gain of $151.78. This was revealed yesterday by the company's August statement of operations filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

The statement of Washington Railway & Electric Co. for the eight months revealed net income of $1,256,548.14, as cotrasted with $1,320,237.44, a decline of $63,689.30.

304,202 Cars Need Repairs On Railroads

Class 1 railroads on September 1 had 304,202 freight cars in need of repair, or 14.9 per cent of the number on line, according to the car service division of the American Railway Association.

This was a decrease of 12,235 cars below the number in need of repair on August 1, at which time there were 316,437, or 15.4 per cent.

Freight cars in need of heavy repairs on September 1 totaled 229,344, or 11.2 per cent, a decrease of 2,424 cars, compared with the number in need of such repairs on August 1, while freight cars in need of light repairs totaled 74,858, or 3.7 per cent, a decrease of 9,811, compared with August 1.

Locomotives in need of classified repairs on September 1 totaled 11,100, or 21.9 per cent of the number on line. This was a decrease of 9, compared with the number in need of such repairs on August 1, at which time there were 11,109, or 22.1 per cent.

North American Cement Corporation has added to its board of directors Leo M. Blancke, of New York, chairman of the debenture bondholders protective committee; Ridley Watts, of New York, chairman of the stockholders protective committee; W. L. Peltz, of Albany, and J. B. Ferguson, of Hagerstown, Md.

Texas Company Drives Price For Crude Oils Over $1 Hurdle

Houston, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP).—The Texas Co. took the price of Mid-Continent Crude Oil over the hurdle of $1 a barrel with the announcement late today of an advance of 8 to 11 cents, effective tomorrow.

Top grade Oklahoma Oil was posted at $1.08 a barrel, with the schedule ranging down to 84 cents for other grades of crude in that State.

East Texas crude was advanced to 10 cents to $1 flat.

The new price range for north Texas, north central Texas and north Louisiana is from 79 cents to $1.03, a boost of 11 cents.

Prices from 80 cents to a top of $1.12 were posted for Gulf Coast crude and Smackover, Ark., was increased 10 cents a barrel to 70 cents.

In making the advances the Texas Co. made the following announcement:

"The Secretary of the Interior, with the support of the State commissions, has succeeded in effecting a substantial reduction in the output of crude oil, and has thereby rendered a distinct service to the industry. Still further reductions, however, are necessary in order to bring production into balance with consumption, and we believe that the industry will be able to cooperate in effecting this balance. It will be easier to procure 100 per cent cooperation from the producers if they feel that an increased price will accompany a reduced output."

Bonds in New York City Gain Under New Plan

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—New York City bonds advanced briskly today coincident with the new plan for restoring the city's credit. Gains of 4 to 5 points, or $40 to $50 per $1,000 obligation, appeared, chiefly in the long term 4¼ and 4½ per cent loans.

Colombia Starting New Exchange Plan

A partially free exchange system was established in Colombia on September 25, according to cabled advices to the Commerce Department from Bogota.

Under the new regulations it will still be necessary for purchasers of foreign currencies to obtain permits from the Exchange Control Commission, it is pointed out. Holders of foreign drafts, however, may henceforth sell freely 85 per cent of the value of such drafts at a rate to be agreed upon betwen buyer and seller.

The remaining 15 per cent must be sold to the bank of the republic for the needs of the Government at the rate of 1.13 pesos to the dollar.

Exports of cotton from Egypt during the cotton year 1932-33 amounted to 862,000 Egyptian bales of about 750 pounds compared with 982,000 bales during the preceding year, according to Alexandria trade reports received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The decline was general with the exception of France, Germany and Poland, which countries took more Egyptian cotton this season than last.

Exports to Great Britain amounted to 306,000 bales against 363,000 bales last season; India, 18,000 bales against 50,000 bales; Italy, 65,000 bales against 83,000 bales; Japan, 52,000 bales against 59,000 bales; Spain, 38,000 bales against 45,000 bales; Switzerland, 30,000 bales against 32,000 bales, and the United States, 41,000 bales against 48,000 bales.

Exports to France amounted to 131,000 bales, against 100,000 bales last season; Germany, 109,000 bales, against 106,000 bales, and Poland, 13,000 bales, against 11,000 bales.

Exports to Hungary decreased to 2,117 bales from 15,656 bales last season, but the large exports last season were brought about mainly by credits granted by the Egyptian government to Hungarian spinners.

No exports were registered to Russia, against 13,378 bales exported in the 1931-32 season.

Control of Utilities In Hawaii Is Sold

Sale of Collateral Includes Also Group of Phone Companies in U. S.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 28 (AP).—Securities carrying control of two Hawaiian utilities, and a group of independent telephone companies in Ohio and Michigan today passed from the Chase National Bank of New York to the Bader Securities Co., a Delaware investment corporation.

The stocks were sold for Bader Co.'s lump bid of $880,000. They were held by the Chase Bank as collateral for a loan made in 1928 by the Seaboard Bank, since absorbed by the Chase, to the Utilities Service Co., an Ohio corporation.

The holdings involved in the sale represented the total issues outstanding or large majority interests. They included 28,084 shares of the capital stock of Hilo Electric Light Co., Ltd., of Honolulu and smaller amounts of preferred of that company and of the Hilo Gas Co. The telephone holdings included 20,000 common shares of the Van Wert Home Telephone Co., an Ohio corporation. The deal transferred a score of other independent telephone units to the Bader interests.

Workers Train for New Plant.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 28 (Spl.). Lynchburg Hosiery Mill has 40 new operatives in training for a $35,000 addition to be built at once to its plant here.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Industrial alcohol—It is reported in dealer quarters that some fair-sized shipments are moving to the antifreeze trade, and that consumers show a general willingness to cover on a portion of their future requirements.

Copper—The American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports that deliveries into consumption outside of North and South America for the three months ended with July, but with some figures covering August, and others covering the three months ended with June, amounted to 68,533 short tons. This compares with an average of 68,833 tons for the last three months reported a month, ago and 68,804 tons reported two months ago.

Wool—Goods markets have been slow during the past week, according to the New York Wool Top Exchange. Mills show a reluctance to accept further options on spring goods, and demand for women's wear cloakings and dress goods has slowed down, it is stated, as garment makers await the anticipated upturn in retail sales.

Electric refrigerators — August sales totaled 95,413 units in the United States, compared with 25,583 in August, 1932, the Edison Electric Institute reports. This marked the fourth successive month of new high records in sales of household refrigerators.

Building materials — Producers will benefit substantially from the Public Works program and from the somewhat higher prices effective in the last month, according to trade authorities.

Wheat Losses Trimmed by Closing Rallies

Better Buying Halts Fall in Prices; Corn and Oats Decline.

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP).—Stop loss selling led to a maximum setback of 2½ cents a bushel in wheat today, but better buying support then appeared, and moderate rallies ensued.

Reports were current after the close that the United States Government would announce within 48 hours a plan to help wheat similar to the cotton plan through which loans are being made against cotton at 10 cents a pound.

Today's downturns of wheat prices followed news that conferences at London to fix a quota for Russian wheat exports had proved unsuccessful, and pit observers said also that the wheat market had been weakened by the fact that opposite to what was generally expected no developments overnight were announced regarding the Washington administration's monetary program.

Wheat Closes Nervous.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to 1½ cents under yesterday's finish; corn, 1 to 1⅞ down; oats, ½ to ¾ off, and provisions varying from 17 cents decline to 20 cents advance.

Notwithstanding that lowest prices for wheat came in the last hour, and that temporarily numerous owners were liquidating their lines, a rather pronounced tendency was shown in some quarters to pay more attention to supply and demand factors.

Belief prevailed that inflation talk was losing influence as a market factor. A sharp reduction in the movement of domestic wheat in the Northwest attracted particular notice.

Wheat Receipts Down.

Primary receipts of wheat in the United States were down to 665,000 bushels today, the smallest total since the 1933 crop started to move.

Messages from the Northwest said it would take a 10-cent advance to start farmers in that section to selling grain. Talk was heard that smallness of wheat primary receipts would force mills to draw on reserve supplies shortly, and that this circumstance would be reflected in lifting of hedges through purchase of wheat futures.

Corn and oats prices today were responsive to wheat weakness and to enlarged rural offerings of corn.

Pecan Growers to Ship 800,000 Pounds Nuts

Brady, Tex., Sept. 28 (U.P.).—This section verily is nuttier than a fruit cake. The Bend Pecan Pool, largest cooperative pecan marketing agency in Texas, has estimated it will ship approximately 800,000 pounds of its celebrated product this year.

Most of the crop will be sold in San Antonio, which in recent years has outstripped St. Louis as a pecan marketing center.

Daily Reserve Credit Rises $28,000,000

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended September 27, as reported by the Federal Reserve Banks, was $2,392,000,000, an increase of $28,000,000, compared with the preceding week and of $141,000,000, compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

On September 27 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,421,000,000, an increase of $33,000,000 for the week.

This increase corresponds with an increase of $53,000,000 in member banks' reserve balances and a decrease of $3,000,000 in monetary gold stock offset in part by decreases of $10,000,000 in money in circulation and $9,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c., and an increase of $2,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted.

Bill Discounts Increase.

Bills discounted increased $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and a like amount at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market showed practically no change for the week. Holdings of Treasury certificates and bills increased $33,000,000, of Treasury notes $2,000,000 and of United States bonds $1,000,000.

Changes in the amount of Reserve Bank credit outstanding and in related items during the week and the year ended September 27, 1933, were as follows (in millions of dollars):

New York Produce.

New York, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—EGGS—Receipts, 13,219; irregular. Mixed colors, special packs or selection from fresh receipts under continued liberal offerings. Demand was light and limited to nearby requirements. The only sales confirmed were 17,500 bags of Cuban from store to a local refiner at 3.57 and 25,000 bags prompt shipment at 3.55.

Futures made new low levels for the movement and closed 2 to 3 points down. Sales were 18,650 tons.

The market opened at declines of 1 to 2 points and continued to sag until at one time prices were 4 to 5 points below the previous close under tired long liquidation through commission house and selling on stop orders. Buying was held in check by uncertainty over the Cuban situation and the disappointing action of the spot market.

In refined there was only a moderate withdrawal demand, while new business was light and of routine character. Prices were unchanged at 4.60 for fine granulated.

COFFEE—Futures today reacted under scattered liquidation and trade selling in a small market influenced by further declines in Brazilian quotations.

Santos opened unchanged to 7 lower and closed 3 to 7 lower. Sales, 3,000 bags. Rio No. 7 opened 6 to 7 lower and closed 6 to 11 lower. Sales, 3,000. Closing quotations, Santos, December, 8.30; March, 8.43; May, 8.51; July, 8.59. No. 7, December, 5.82; March, 5.95; May, 6.03; July, 6.10.

Spot coffee dull: Santos 4s, 9@9¼; Rio 7s, 7½. Bourbon 3s and 5s at 8.45@8.90.

Richmond Markets.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Receipts moderate to liberal and market steady and about unchanged.

BUTTER—Receipts moderate and market unchanged.

EGGS—Receipts rather light on high-grade stock. Poorer quality moderate with average run fairly good size of mixed colors at 23; few large, 23; henery whites at 23; few large, 23; nearby whites practically no receipts and quotable 26@28 as to weight; small ears 3 to 4 less.

POULTRY—Receipts moderate and market steady and quotable unchanged.

CATTLE—Receipts moderate and market slow; quoting extreme veal top at 7.00; 1.00@2.00 as to grade and quality. Bulls, average run, 2.25@2.75; few best, 3.00; heifers, better grades, 4.00@4.50; steers, bulk of sales, 3.00@3.25; top on good offerings.

SHEEP—Receipts light. Market steady; few quotable, 1.00@2.50; lambs, 3.00@7.00 as to grade.

Transactions on N. Y. Curb Market

Universal to Make New Screen Version of "Show Boat"—Rialto Opens Tonight

Frank Borzage To Repicturize Ziegfeld's Hit

Was Made as Silent Film; First Opera Sunday; Theater Chat.

What is looked upon by many as one of the greatest musical romances in the annals of the American stage is not to be permitted to fade from public consciousness.

Arrangements were consummated this week between Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, and Frank Borzage, the noted director, under the terms of which Borzage will make a new screen version of the late Flo Ziegfeld's supreme stage triumph, "Show Boat" for Universal release. The spectacular extravaganza will be personally directed by Borzage and will go before the cameras at Universal City some time around October 15.

Adapted from Edna Ferber's novel of the most picturesque days on the Mississippi River, with music by Jerome Kern and book and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, "Show Boat" ran on Broadway for two solid years and ran another two on the road. Last season it was revived both in New York, and on the road with many of the original cast in the roles they created and scored an even more emphatic popular hit than upon the occasion of its first presentation.

Was Silent Film.

It was "Show Boat" that added new luster to the already distinguished names of Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe, Charles Winninger, Aunt Jemima (Tess Gardell) and Norma Terris. Jerome Kern's melodies for such imperishable songs as "Show Boat," "Ol' Man River," "Lonesome Road," "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," and Helen Morgan's ever-popular, "Bill," it seems fair to assume, will live as long as opera.

"Show Boat," it will be recalled, was filmed as a silent picture by Universal in 1929, with Laura La Plante as Magnolia and Joseph Schildkraut as Gaylord Ravenal, an inspired name, incidentally, for a Mississippi River gambler.

Now it will be brought to the screen again, from a treatment prepared by William Anthony McGuire, famous stage and screen playwright, now under contract to Universal and formerly a writer for Ziegfeld.

Jeanie MacPherson, author of the film play of "The Ten Commandments" and at one time one of the highest paid scenario writers in Hollywood, yesterday entered a schedule of assets and liabilities in a voluntary bankruptcy proceedings on the West Coast, showing debts of $32,537, no funds and only a wardrobe on which she placed a value of $343, according to press report. Her largest indebtedness she disclosed, is an item of $7,215.58, owed for income taxes on her screen earnings for the years 1928 to 1931. Hollywood's golden rewards seem to be as ephemeral as any others.

To Hear Opera.

Maria Verdi, most recent of Washington's feminine impresarios, through the recreation department of the American Red Cross, yesterday extended an invitation to disabled service men at Walter Reed, Naval and Mount Alto Hospitals to be her guests at the performance of Verdi's opera of "La Forza del Destino," to be sung in the Washington Auditorium on Sunday evening, October 1.

Miss Verdi has been fortunate in securing the services of Sig. Armando Januzzi as artistic director of her first production. Sig. Januzzi, a noted operatic artist in his own right, came to the Capital four years ago with an international reputation as a voice specialist and is well known locally in musical circles. Maestro Januzzi knows voice, knows opera and knows what the Washington public wants.

Interest in Sabbath evening's forthcoming opera has spread into the neighboring States of Maryland and Virginia, many seat reservations having been received from remote points in both Commonwealths.

Because the impressive functionary who opens your car door when you arrive at the Russian Troika is a Cossack bearing the name of Ivan Ivanovitch, he is fast becoming known as "Double John" to his Russian friends. Which, of course, is only incidental to the fact that Swoboda and Yurieva, Mischa Markoff, Georgian master of ceremonies, Elena Slavnaia and Alexander Chirinsky's Gypsy Orchestra have been putting on a swell show at the Troika all this week.

A Pretentious Program.

The Columbia Players have announced, and with considerable pride, that subscribers' tickets for their expanded and expensive season of five full-length plays have been racked on a most reasonable scale.

For single subscription membership, entitling the holder to a reserved seat at each of the five plays to be given, only $3 is assessed. For double subscription membership—two reserved seats for each play—$5.

The first offering of the Columbia Players' regular season will be Siegfried Geyer's delicious comedy, "By Candlelight." It will be given early in November, according to present plans.

Capital Playwright.

The other plays of the season, with tentative dates, are Owen Davis' Pulitzer Prize play, "Icebound," for early December; "Second Act Curtain," a new play with a Washington newspaper background, by Dorothea Lewis, vice president of the Players and a member of the reviewing staff of The Post, scheduled for mid-April, and the justly famous St. John Ervine comedy, "The First Mrs. Fraser," in late May.

Between the December and April plays, the Players will give an invitation performance for subscribers of a play yet to be definitely decided upon—possibly Milne's "Ivory Door," or Benn Levy's "The Devil Passes." The subscription books, it seems needless to add, are now open.

An unusual radio-screen affiliation is presaged by the announcement that Al Jolson is anxious to have Paul Whiteman's band included in the Warner Brothers' picturization of his stage success, "Wonder Bar." The idea back of the suggestion seems to be to hook up the Jolson radio period with his motion picture commitments. The present hitch seems to be irreconcilable contractual obligations by which Whiteman is bound. However, stranger things have happened —especially after Mervyn LeRoy, the director, has been at work on them as he has on this idea.

Watch Your Schedules.

Anticipating crowded houses as a result of the exceptional quality of a bill that combines Barbara Stanwyck, present in person on the stage, and a thrilling feature, "The Secret of the Blue Room," on the screen, the Warner Brothers Earle Theater announces special schedules for Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday doors will open at 10:15 a. m., with the first presentation of the feature picture at 10:30 and five de luxe stage shows, beginning at 11:40 a. m., 2, 4:20, 6:50 and 9:15 p. m.

On Sunday four de luxe performances will be given, with the vaudeville starting at 2, 4:15, 6:45 and 9:15 p. m., and the doors opening at 1:30.

Similarly at the Metropolitan, where "Too Much Harmony," with Bing Crosby, Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green and Judith Allen, is expected to attract overflow crowds, opening hours and schedules of performances have been moved up. On Saturday doors will open at 10 a. m., with the first performance at 10:30. The feature will go on at 11 a. m., 12:45, 2:30, 4:20, 6:05, 7:55 and 9:40 p. m.

Children's Theater.

Word comes from the studios of the Children's Theater at Chappaqua, N. Y., that the three companies which make up that organization will soon be ready to start on the new season's tours, which will bring the first play, "The Five Little Peppers," to Washington on Saturday morning, October 21.

During the summer, Clare Tree Major, director of the company, has written the special dramatizations of the six juvenile story books chosen for this season's program. The cast of each play—all adult professionals—has been chosen and rehearsals have been in progress for some weeks. Each of the three companies is trained to present two plays; during the season the companies follow each other around a circle that extends from Boston through Washington and as far west as Cleveland.

This will be the second complete season of the Children's Theater in the National Capital under the sponsorship of the Women's International League. The plays are all given in the National Theater on Saturday mornings.

Things to Remember.

That the Rialto reopens tonight with a reserved seat performance of "S O S Iceberg," at 8:30 o'clock . . . That on Monday night Lenore Ulric will inaugurate the new season of road attractions at the National in "Her Man of Wax" . . . That following the Ulric performance Pete Macias is entertaining the cognoscenti at a preview soiree at his swagger new Heigh-Ho Club . . . Cheerio . . . That Jimmie Lake is taking cognizance of the World Series by presenting "The Pennant Winners" burlesquers, with Jerri McCauley the guest star, at the Gayety, beginning Sunday afternoon . . . That Maria Verdi's initial gesture as a grand opera impresario will be made in the Washington Auditorium Sunday night, as hereinbefore indicated . . . That you needn't be a former service man to get in . . . That Marguerite and LeRoy are dancing again at the Club Michel, Marguerite's injured ankle having healed since the "bad break" she got on the occasion of the club's gala reopening for the fall and winter . . . That if you haven't got your World Series tickets, you haven't got your World Series tickets and that's probably that!

What Makes Horse Racing.

And that popular song, "Two Tickets for Georgia," was not written by Mae Murray and Mary McCormic, the gals who married the Mdivani princes from there!

Thomas to Seek Curb On Market Tipsters

Legislation to curtail operations of market tipster services is considered by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, according to the Associated Press.

The Oklahoman began an inquiry into tipsters after a market advisory service counseled clients to sell cotton short in August. Thomas has conferred with Attorney General Cummings and the Agriculture Department, but was advised there was no Federal law involved.

Will Switch on Lights at the Rialto Tonight

A new feminine player, Leni Riefenstahl, and an old favorite star, Rod La Rocque, as they appear in the pivotal roles of Universal's bleak tragedy of the Arctic, "S O S Iceberg," with which Carl Laemmle and Universal Pictures will reopen the Rialto Theater tonight at 8:30 with a distinguished "reserved seat" audience in attendance. "S O S Iceberg" was over a year in the making on the northern ice packs.

Jones, Frizzell Get New Home Loan Positions

Seay Appointed Assistant Manager in Transfers Made by Board.

Transfer of Charles A. Jones, manager of the Washington office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation to headquarters of the corporation and the Home Loan Bank Board was announced yesterday.

Paul J. Frizzell, assistant to Mr. Jones since the office has been opened, was given his post, and William M. Seay, vice president and general manager of the Federal-American Company, has been appointed assistant manager.

The changes were ordered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, members of which also are directors of the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Officer of Realty Firm.

Mr. Frizzell was vice president and general manager of the real estate firm of Shannon & Luchs, with which Mr. Jones once was associated. He is chairman of the zoning committee of the Washington Real Estate Board and serves on a special committee of the mortgage and finance divisions. He is a native of Washington and served in the Naval Air Service during the World War.

The new assistant manager, Mr. Seay, was born in Knoxville, Tenn. He is 44 years old, studied at the Georgetown school of law, was a teller at the Federal National Bank from 1913 to 1922, and assistant cashier from 1922 until 1926. He joined the Federal American company when it was organized in 1926. He was made vice president and general manager three years ago.

Two Other Appointments.

Two other appointments were revealed yesterday by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. O. P. Swift, identified with banking and financial institutions in New York several years, was named assistant general manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation. George Dock, jr., of New York and St. Louis, an expert in the investment banking field, has been named assistant to James Bruce, financial adviser to the board.

The appointment of Mr. Bruce, with that of George M. Lindsay, of New York, fiscal agent of the corporation, was announced several days ago. Mr. Swift will work with Mr. Lindsay and Mr. Bruce on the issue of $2,000,000,000, 18-year 4 per cent bonds to be placed on the market in October.

Mr. Dock will be associated with Mr. Lindsay and Mr. Bruce in the work of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which directs the activities of the system of 12 regional banks created by the Federal Home Loan Bank act.

362 Middies Back From Cruise For Annapolis Opening Today

Half of First and Third Classmen Return From Visit to Madeira; Others Report From Vacations; Roster 100 Below Last Year.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 28 (Spl.).—The battleship Wyoming, commanded by Capt. Vaughn K. Coman, today anchored in Chesapeake Bay, several miles off Annapolis, ending the second summer practice cruise of midshipmen to the Madeira Islands.

The midshipmen disembarked in the bay. Meanwhile, busy scenes were enacted at the Naval Academy as preparations were made for starting the eighty-ninth academic year at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Other members of the first and third classes who made the first cruise, together with the second class, which passed most of the summer here taking special instructions in aviation and engineering, returned from vacations.

Official routine will not begin until study hours Sunday evening. First recitations will start Monday.

There are 1,680 midshipmen on the roster this term, more than 100 fewer than last year. By classes the distribution is: First, or seniors, 409; second, 474; third, 297, and fourth, 440.

Alleged Slayer to Return.

St. Paul, Sept. 28 (AP).—Augustus Dwight Beard told the police today he would return without contest to North Carolina, where he is wanted in connection with the slaying of Gus Bounous, Aldese grocer.

First Lady Got $1,000 on O.K.

Payment by Furniture Firm in 1930 Bared in Receivers Suit.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP). Testimony that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1930 accepted $1,000 from an advertising agency to indorse furniture manufactured by Berkey & Gay Co., of Grand Rapids, was introduced today in the Federal Court suit of receivers for the company against the Simmons Co., of New York.

Invoices of the advertising agency, which contained the reference to Mrs. Roosevelt, also listed other prominent women as having accepted money for indorsements.

Among them were Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, of New York, as having received $2,000; Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle, Philadelphia, $750, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, New York, $1,000.

The plaintiffs contend that the Simmons Co., after purchasing control of Berkey & Gay adopted policies toward the subsidiary which damaged the latter's business. They are asking an accounting.

Giant Players Scout Nats as They Drop 11-9 Slugfest to Yankees

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

I SEE by the papers that they have barred Ted Husing from having to do with the broadcasting of the 1933 world series games over a national radio hookup—the meanies.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner, handed down the pronouncement anent Husing yesterday, and thus set a new free-style record for thin-skinned discrimination.

Husing "umpired" the games from the microphone, was the charge against the radio announcer. It is to laugh. Husing broadcast what he saw, and because he broadcast what he saw, he is penalized. He was no puppet up there in the press box to be maneuvered by the whims of base ball officials who can't stand criticism.

Ability was Husing's offense. This department happens to know it, and happens to know the origin of the complaint against Husing. It had its inception in the opening game of the season in Washington in 1932, when Husing reported over the radio what he saw on the diamond. What he saw, and what every other occupant of the press box saw.

Umpire Moriarty was officiating at second base. A Washington runner slid into the bag. Moriarty signalled the decision with the time-honored downward sweep of the arms, denoting a runner is safe. "He's safe," Husing told the radio audience.

And then Moriarty flung his arms upward with thumbs pointing to the sky in a quick reversal of his decision, to call the runner out. The ball had been dropped, Moriarty had changed his mind, or something. Anyway, Husing, on the job, flashed the news. "No, he's out; the umpire had reversed his decision." How true it was!

The next day Moriarty squawked to Judge Landis. Husing was umpiring the games from the microphone, was the complaint. He was second-guessing the umpires, making the look bad. Landis should take steps.

And Landis took steps, in the form of a reprimand to Husing. The announcer was already on the spot for the "putrid" incident of the Harvard ball game the preceding fall. Moriarty knew it. He picked on a man who was down.

And now Husing is out of the series. Verily, it looks as if the baseball powers that be, can't take it.

"Errors" Net Boys Run Off Johnson

Dover, Ohio, Sept. 28 (AP).—Cy Young, famous big league hurler of other days, came back to the mound today in his old Boston uniform to face a group of baseball's youths, and the boys appreciated it so much that three Cleveland Indians struck out in the inning Young pitched.

The all-stars scored one run off Johnson, when the Indians purposely committed errors so the counter could come in.

Racers Await President's Cup Test

Field of Six to Compete Today in First Heat on Potomac.

SLEEKED, oiled and polished after fast workouts, six gold cup speedboats rested last night in their pits, ready today to battle the 2½-mile Potomac River course, which intrepid pilots have pronounced awesomely difficult, in an effort to gain temporary possession of the coveted President's Cup. A seventh potential competitor in the President's race, Horace Dodge's new Delphine IX, has not yet arrived, but may be an entry.

Perhaps never before in the history of the President's Cup Regatta has so much human interest and drama been packed into one event. John Shibe's Liptonish efforts to win the prized honor will undoubtedly cause the hearts of many of the spectators to ride in his Ethyl-Ruth III, the reconditioned mankiller Miss Philadelphia, which cost the life of one pilot and endangered the lives of many others.

Has Powerful Motors.

The hybrid Ethyl-Ruth III will carry the powerful motors of the ill-fated Miss Philadelphia in the more sturdy hull of the Delphine VI, borrowed from Horace Dodge. So powerful are the motors in the Ethyl-Ruth that Armand Pugh, who will pilot the entry, has expressed

Cronin Leads All-Star Poll For 1933

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP).—The outstanding three major league ball players of the year, on the basis of final returns in the Associated Press all-star poll, are Manager Joe Cronin, of the Senators; Southpaw Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, and slugging Chuck Klein, of the Phillies.

They dominate the balloting by sports editors and writers. In the total of 89 votes cast, Cronin is named by a majority of 88 for the all-star shortstop role, Hubbell by a majority of 84 for the No. 1 pitching position, and Klein by 81 for the post of duty in right field, where no longer is Babe Ruth even a challenger of the Phillie flogger.

Only Three Votes for "Babe."

The passing of Ruth from the all-star picture, with only three votes on his behalf for old time's sake, is one of the year's outstanding developments, along with the fact that only one Yankee catcher, Bill Dickey, wins a place in the "All-America" line-up.

Seven American Leaguers and five National League stars make up the first team in the Associated Press concensus. The pennant-winning Giants and Senators each place two men.

Hubbell's battery-mate, Gus Mancuso, chiefly on the strength of his ability to handle pitchers so skillfully, squeezes into the second backstopping job by a narrow voting margin over Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, and Virgil Davis, of the Phillies. This was the closest contest in the entire balloting. Cronin and Al Crowder, hard-working right-handed pitcher, represent the American League champions on the honor roll.

Foxx Tops Gehrig.

At first base, the great Jimmie Foxx, powerhouse of the Athletics, holds a decisive victory over his Yankee rival, Lou Gehrig, with Manager Bill Terry, of the Giants, third in a three-cornered contest. Foxx compiled a 3-to-1 margin over Gehrig.

One vote for Dick Bartell, of the Phillies, was the only thing that prevented it from being unanimous for Cronin at shortstop.

Gunboat Smith Tames Mat Rivals

GUNBOAT SMITH, former heavyweight boxing contender, stole the show at last night's matfest at the Uline Arena. He refereed the George Zaharias-Jim McMillan bout, one of the co-features on a good card, which attracted nearly 5,000 fans.

"I'll take nothing off you two guys. You start punching and I'll punch," was part of his instructions to the rivals. The boys thought the Gunboat was only fooling, but they stayed to see the referee give the matmen the same punishment they dealt out, much to the glee of the customers.

Zaharias was warned not to use his knees, both were warned not to use such gentle weapons as Thorhammers, kicks, hair-pulls, finger-splits and the like, and every time one disobeyed, a straight-arm punch from the veteran fighter reminded them not to do it again. All told, the Gunboat hit Zaharias 10 times and McMillan 6 times, while each received several kicks in exchange for knee infractions committed.

He-Man Is Referee.

As a result, the bout was fairly clean, so much so, in fact, that it smacked of wrestling. The novelty of seeing the referee doling out punishment, however, seemed to appeal

Dean Stops Buffalo; Columbus Wins, 8-5

Red Birds Stadium, Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 28 (AP).—Paul Dean, young right-hander, pitched the Columbus Red Birds to an 8-to-5 victory in the third game of the little world series here tonight. The victory gave Columbus a lead of two to one in the series.

Manush Superior at Bat But Giants Rival Has Edge in Fielding.

(Herewith is the seventh of a series of articles comparing the rival positions in the coming 1933 world series.)

WHEN the subject of left field is injected into the preworld series discussion, one instantly thinks of Heinie Manush, of the Washington Club, and then thinks twice to recall the name of Joe Moore, who occupies the same respective position with the Giants.

For Moore is a rookie of the 1933 vintage, setting no worlds on fire in first season in the majors. He is asked to rival the talents of one of the brightest stars of the Washington club in Manush, a veteran of 10 years in the big leagues, perennial threat at the bat, and once king of all American League sluggers.

Moore's Arm a Joy.

Moore can hardly hope to parallel the batting feats of Manush, but in the field he is fleeter, possessor of a better arm and just as sure a catch.

The comparative .292 batting average of Moore, however, elevates him high among the weak-hitting Giants. The rookie from Gauze, Tex., need apologize to none, when throwing arms are concerned. From deep left field, Moore can heave perfect strikes across the plate. In that item, he is far superior to the weak-armed Manush.

Manush Brainy.

But if any of the Washington hitters are to solve the baffling shoots of Carl Hubbell, Manush appears to have the call. The big Dutchman's slugging skill is a byword among American League pitchers, and in his 10 years in the majors he has earned the reputation of being one of the brainiest batters in baseball.

Manush can take the pitches or leave 'em, and at the psychological moment he is very apt to slam 'em on the nose.

Series Lacking Ball Game Wreckers

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP).—There aren't many convictions about this coming world series battle between the Nationals and the Giants that Managers Bill Terry and Joe Cronin hold in common; but on one point they agree.

The total absence of a genuine ball-game-busting walloper of the Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx breed in either outfield levels the two teams off to such an extent that six games and possibly the full seven will be needed to decide this championship.

"For the first time in many years," says Terry, "we don't have to worry about guys like Ruth and Gehrig, who win series all alone. All we've got to beat is a good ball team, not a couple of supermen. I expect it will take seven of the most exciting games in the history of the series."

Regretfully, though with full confidence in the pounding power of Heinie Manush, Fred Schulte, Leon (Goose) Goslin, and Sheriff Harris, Cronin agrees that there will be no need for dwellers in the streets beyond Coogan's Bluff to nail on the storm windows to save the property when the firing starts Tuesday in the Polo Grounds.

Cronin Uses Game for Practice

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (Spl.).—Joe Cronin's champions came clattering from behind after the Yankees had made seven runs in the first inning here today, but the Yankees squeezed through to a victory against the Nats' junior varsity, 11 to 9.

Manager Bill Terry and his New York Giants, who will meet the Nats in the world series next week, had no game scheduled and so took advantage of the opportunity to scout the Washington team. Practically every one of them was in the stands today.

With more idea of working his players than winning the game, Manager Cronin let Walter Stewart linger within range of the Yankee firing squad for four full innings, and then stuck to Gen. Alvin Crowder over the rest of the route, yet in spite of Cronin's determination to stick to his original plans and not shift pitchers when shifting was necessary, the Nats hammered away at Van Atta and Moore until they were actually a run in front in the fourth.

Ruth's Homer Ties Count.

Then Babe Ruth hit his thirty-second home run of the season, tying the score at 8-to-8, and Cronin brought in his reserves by columns of squads. Everybody but Johnny Kerr and the rest of the pitching staff saw action and there was plenty of it to go around.

The Nats whipped out 15 hits and had to run down 12 hammered hither and yon by the Yankees. The New Yorkers made a total of 14, but two of them never had to be chased by the Washington fielders, as they went among the spectators, Byrd hitting a homer in addition to the one Ruth belted high into the bleachers.

Byrd set the tempo of the turbulent contest when he started off with his circuit smash. A single by Ruth, passes to Gehrig, Chapman and Crosetti, a two-base error by Goslin and doubles by Van Atta and Byrd checked seven runs across the plate for the Yankees.

After that it was anything but a pitchers' battle, but Stewart stayed out his term. Van Atta departed at the end of the second inning, after the Nats had made four runs, and old Cy Moore was in mortal danger through the rest of the game, as the Nats made his fast ball faster going back than it was coming up.

Cronin Sees Victory; Terry Remains Silent

Speaking on a Nation-wide hookup over the radio last night from New York, Manager Joe Cronin of the Washington ball club flatly predicted a victory for his team in the world series with the Giants.

In noticeable contrast, Manager Bill Terry of the Giants, who preceded Cronin to the microphone, refrained from any predictions as to the outcome of the series.

Watch Him, at Odds-On, Accounts for Feature Race on Havre de Grace Card

Stretch Rush By Halcyon Nets 2d

Snapback Wilts Near End, but Manages to Take Show.

By Staff Correspondent.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 28.—Watch Him, carrying the bright yellow silks of Mrs. John D. Hertz's Stable, scored an easy victory in the Penn Athletic Club Trophy race, the feature of a day that saw some 9,000 out for the program.

The race was a mere formality. The crowd played Watch Him until the mutuel plant ran out of regular tickets and went through a stack of added pasteboards before the field of four reached the starting gate. After Snap Back found he could not break up the gate, Starter Milton sent them away. As often happens, the bad actor got the best of the break. Watch Him was right with Snap Back, however, as they turned for the backstretch. Watch Him then took the lead and the race was over for win purposes. Halcyon finished fast to win the place battle from Snap Back.

Le Miserable Scores.

Le Miserable, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. P. Kelly, won the opening sprint for 2-year-olds, having a length and a half margin over Decorate which, in turn, defeated Miss Mascara for the show. All the heavily played horses were out of the money. Plight.

Don Meade sent his backers to the mutuel plant for $15.20 for each $2 bet in the second race. He gave Pretentious, a half-brother of Jamestown, a million dollar ride to down Collateral and Holystone. Prince Pompey set the early pace and Meade's mount took the lead with the stretch turn reached. He had to punish the horse severely to win, however.

Chase Me's odds opened at 30 to 1, dropped to 3 to 1 and should have been 1 to 1,000 in the all-ages claiming race, the third event. This first-time starter, a son of Purchase, won by a sixteenth of a mile from a lot of chasers. Sun Envoy, the favorite, was closest in the second division with Granite Prince third. Granite Prince gave Chase Me a mild battle for the lead until the backstretch was reached. From there on it was a case of chase me but not catch me. The chart-makers called the winning margin 15 lengths. Bellizzi, the rider, was laughing himself sick at the finish. The mutuel was $10.20.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Albert E. Herpin, of Trenton, N. J., gets tired, but in his 82 years he has never been sleepy—not only that, he claims to be the most wide-awake man on earth, never having closed his eyes in natural sleep. He rests from his day's work by sitting and reading. When he closes his eyes the result is nervousness, not relaxation.

For more than half a century he has been under observation of physicians from time to time, but science can not agree on the strange case of the sleepless man. Mr. Herpin has an imposing list of physicians who have studied his strange case, and many are the stories of physicians who have fallen asleep while waiting for their patient to sleep.

Cases are known where a person sleeps without knowing it, and awakens in the firm belief that he has not slept, but merely sat with his eyes closed. This possibility has been ruled out in the case of Mr. Herpin, who does not even close his eyes while resting. He reads continually—an average of seven newspapers every night—and smokes his pipe. By day he works as a gardener.

Jimmy Foxx, whose ability to hit home runs has made him a first class attraction in the big leagues, gave no such promise when he first started his major league career. He went two years, his first two, without once knocking out a home run.

Dear Al: Havre de Grace Race Track.

Mike and I went into conference after yesterday's card to find out why we have been getting jinxed. Mike swears he hasn't let a black cat cross his path; hasn't tossed his hat on a bed, or broken a mirror. I haven't walked under a ladder since early one morning at Lincoln Fields, and I had five winners that day. Mike decided that what I need is a ladder in our room so I can walk under it just before I pull out the speed books and go to work. His theory is that I'm so poisonous now that the ladder superstition will work in reverse. So Mike produced a ladder, and I pulled my ears in and walked under it. BILL.

First race—Let's try Adamite in the opener. This is the youngster that ran a bang-up second to Dreel at Pimlico last spring. Has been brought along by easy stages. Looks like the spot to bear down. Red Badge barely lost that one. Sun Monk is better than races show. Before we get off this race I'm passing the word along that Cantersine is a good worker. May be the sleeper.

Second race—Bally Bay did well behind Cutie Face here the other day. Shows she's in shape. The probable choice, but the most likely to win. Salisbury has a lot of speed and is dangerous. Wickliffe for the show.

Third race—Considerate has been running good races here and appears to have the edge on this field. That last was the one that sways me to him. Irish Maiden drops weight. Last Gift for the show.

Fourth race—Charlie K. came within a head of scoring on his first outing of the year, and that race repeated would take care of these. Helen's Alibi turned in a good effort last out and may take it all. Hacky H. for the show.

Fifth race—Speedboat had a conditioner here behind Sation. Just out for an airing. Watch this son of Man o' War toss up the dust today. Cutie Face is as game as those last two. Cathop disappointed recently.

Sixth race—Hernando gets the Bennings call in this. Expect him to better that last. One Chance tacks on weight, but is the one to beat. Cantoria may be the wake-up horse.

Seventh race—Looks like the spot for Come On and Tipton. Pelham and Captain Danger for the other awards.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LE MISERABLE, $22.00, $12.80, $7.00; DECORATE, $9.00, $7.60; MISS MASCARA, $4.80.

LE MISERABLE, luckily securing racing room on the inside during the opening furlong, assumed a brief lead, stalled off determined opposition from PLIGHT and had enough left to withstand DECORATE. Latter, prominent from the beginning, came willingly under punishment during the stretch drive. MISS MASCARA responded strongly and closed stoutly in the final drive. PLIGHT was hard ridden the entire journey. OWEN MARTINEZ could not better his position during the final issue. MURMURING broke flat-footed and was unable to enter a forward position at any stage. SHELL HOLE was held safe.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. The Frederick. Purse, $800; allowance. For 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good (from gate). Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:53. Winner, G. D. District College Football Coaches Pessimistic as Season's Opening Games Near

Capital Fans Offered Five Contests

G. U. Believed to Face Hard Test Against Mt. St. Mary's.

A FAINT rumble of student rallies echoed around the District yesterday, presaging the opening of the local 1933 football season. Optimism fairly radiated from school supporters, despite the warnings of coaches that inaugural games may be disastrous.

Tomorrow's program includes Catholic University vs. La Salle, at Brookland; George Washington vs. Catawba, at Central High School; Georgetown vs. Mount St. Mary's, at Western High School, and Maryland vs. St. Mary's, at College Park.

Inwardly, all of the coaches were satisfied with the physical and mental condition of their charges, but a thick veneer of pessimism hid their satisfaction. Not a single coach would vouchsafe the prediction that his team would win. All thought they should.

G. U. Faces Hard Task.

Georgetown admittedly has the most difficult assignment in Mount St. Mary's. The Mountaineers are returning with 10 of the men who played last season. No amount of figuring can establish Georgetown a heavy favorite. The Hilltoppers look like the winner, but they will have to fight their way past a doughty little band thirsting for victory.

Water Speeders All Set to Start

With an intrinsic concern in the Ethyl-Ruth III, Commodore Horace Dodge will have an interest in at least three entries. His Delphine VII and Delphine IV, defending champion, are here in the water, waiting for the starting signal. His newest acquisition, the Delphine IX has not yet arrived, but may be entered. Commodore Dodge will pilot the Delphine VII.

George E. Reis' El Logarto, winner of the President's Cup in 1931 and the Gold Cup at Detroit this year, will be piloted by its owner. After a tune-up on the Potomac, Reis pronounced the Potomac course one of the most difficult he had ever encountered, and intimated that an average of over 60 miles an hour would be potential suicide.

Braves Win and Tie In Pair With Robins

Brooklyn, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Dodgers made a snappy tenth-inning comeback, scoring two runs on Chick Outen's homer and Danny Taylor's triple to tie the Boston Braves at 2-2 in the second game of today's double-header, after Boston had won the opener, 5 to 4. The second game was halted by darkness after the tenth, which brought all the scoring.

Red Sox Bunch Hits To Nose Out A's, 4-3

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox bunched hits in two big innings today to defeat the Athletics 4 to 3 in the first game of a three-contest series.

A threatened Athletic uprising in the eighth was downed after one run was pushed across. Jimmy Foxx brought his season's total of base hits to 200 by cracking a pair of doubles in four trips to the plate.

Deadline Nears in Post's World Series Test; Hurry Up and Send Your Entry; It May Win

Only One Thing Is Sure: Free Tickets Waiting for Winners.

A LAST-MINUTE influx of entries threatens to swell the list of competitors in the popular Post World Series Contest to around 10,000 before the deadline calls a halt at midnight tomorrow. Each trip of the mail man brings in a larger stack of mail addressed to the Contest Editor, from all points of the compass.

It would be almost as difficult to estimate the general trend of selections at this time as it would be to predict to an iota the outcome of the initial series game on which the contest is predicted. Some pick the Giants to win; others the Nats. Some think Hubbell and Crowder will start on the mound, and others pick the darkest horses imaginable.

One thing is certain. Whatever happens in the first game, some contestant will have come pretty close to predicting the outcome fairly accurately.

All you have to do to try your luck at outfiguring the Nats' and Giants' managers is to fill in the form shown, giving your guess as to the score by innings, total runs, hits and errors, and the batteries for the first series game.

To the third-place contestant The Post will award two box seats to all games played in Washington.

In the event of a tie, the awards will be based on priority of receipt.

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (Spl.).—The Battle of the Hollow Shells in Philadelphia was an amusing spectacle for the small and rather lonesome gathering. But there also was a note, glint or flavor (vote for one) of sadness in the occasion.

Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey, elderly and pretty thoroughly punched-up pugilists, fought 15 rounds. Loughran put in most of the time advancing boldly to the rear with his left thumb pointing around in Sharkey's right eye-socket. Sharkey ran himself leg-weary chasing him and once, in round 10, chinned himself on his once famous right hand.

It was sad, in a sentimental sort of way, to peer up through the ropes and compare the Loughran and the Sharkey of that moment with the boys as we knew them when.

Pretty Once; Not Now.

Loughran used to be called the pretty one. He started fighting at the age of 15, which was 16 years ago, an uncommonly handsome, upstanding kid with the poise of a statue and nice teeth, and a hard, flat stomach with the muscles laid over one another like the sections of an armadillo's shell.

Now there were not many teeth left. His lips had been punched wide There was an old scar, almost as bold as a knife-wound, on his left cheek-bone. And over his eyes an accumulation of scar tissue where his brows had been opened and stitched and healed repeatedly projected like eaves. His stomach still was rather flat, but it flapped and fluttered like a loose drumhead and there was a band of slack meat over the top of his trunks.

Both Brows Split Again.

A little former fighter sitting beside me in the working press made an odd sound with his lips as Sharkey opened a notch over Tommy's right eye in the first round and again when he split the left eyelid later on.

"That is bad," the little former fighter said. "He can't see too good right now, from all that punching and sewing around the eyes. He ought to hang them up before he gets belted blind."

"But isn't he broke?" I asked.

"I don't know," said the little man. "I hear he is and I hear he ain't. But if he ain't, he'd better quit while he can still see to count his money.

Sharkey was not outwardly damaged. He never was easy to slice. But his body was fat and between rounds it swelled and trembled. He was slow and laborious.

Obscurity.

"When I was young," said Hiram Hame, "I longed to have a world-wide fame, to see my name, in lurid tints, displayed in all the public prints, to be as famous in my time as Mrs. Pinkham in her prime. For years I tried with all my might to reach fame's shining, dazzling height, but vain, all vain my desires. I somehow always crossed my wires. I've seen fame come to other guys, and jealously I watched them rise, and green with envy I beheld their progress while admirers yelled. But when I'd watched them for a while I learned to view them with a smile, and thanked the gods who made it sure that I'd remain unknown, obscure. I am a humble, modest jay; I am not known three blocks away, and no one deigns to interfere with me in this my lowly sphere. No interviewers swarm around to hear my comments, deep, profound, concerning all the vital things which stir up presidents and kings. Photographers don't start a scrap for pictures of my homely map, and tourists do not seek my lair to get some ringlets of my hair. The privacy that I enjoy is something fame would soon destroy; it seems to me of greater worth than all the ballyhoo on earth."

Marconi Sees Bright Future For Television

Wireless Wizard Getting Good Results With Micro-Waves.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Guglielmo Marconi disclosed today that he has a hobby. It is electro-chemistry.

Marconi, whose first wireless patent was obtained in 1896, arrived with his wife on his first visit to the United States since 1927. The Chicago World's Fair will celebrate "Marconi Day" Monday, and the famed inventor will participate.

Although saying he is making electro-chemical experiments—which he considers a sideline to his continued endeavors to make wireless more and more practical—Marconi declined to discuss them.

Refusing to venture a prophecy on the future of wireless, Marconi said he believes television is definitely emerging from the research stage and will find an excellent medium for its transmission in the micro-waves he has been investigating from a practical standpoint during the last three years.

His present work has been conducted along a channel of 60 centimeters with 25 watts power. Back in 1895, he succeeded in sending a 30-centimeter signal two miles. He thinks range can be raised by more power.

Marconi has demonstrated micro-waves can be sent beyond the range of vision and that they are unlimited. He has been able to get 100 miles when the vision range was only 20 miles and has obtained good readable signals up to 170 miles.

Micro-waves, he said, are free of interference and allow perfect air channels. In micro-waves, Marconi visions a satisfactory outlet for television. They might, too, he said, make practical the wireless telephone, even to the point of individual airphones.

Waynesboro Man Shot By Boarder in Home

Waynesboro, Pa., Sept. 28 (Spl.).—C. C. Carbaugh, 42, was critically wounded last night when shot by Abram Fritz, 42, a boarder, during an altercation at his home here.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Ku Klux Reborn.

There are three governments in Europe that are doing their best to copy the methods of the first Ku Klux Klan. These are the present governments of Russia, Italy and Germany. Probably the government of Turkey should be added to the list.

The original Ku Klux went under a fabricated name. The Nazi government is doing the same thing, whereas that of Russia out-Ku Kluxed the original.

The Ku Klux wore white shirts. Their Italian copyists are the black shirts, and the Germans are the brown shirts. The Irish are just now trying to make good a claim of the exclusive use of blue shirts, the pick of the lot, just as the white shirt of the Ku Klux was the poorest of the lot.

The first Russian program proposed to wipe out the periodic major epidemics, such as plague, typhus and cholera. Although this program did not work perfectly, the evidence indicates that Russia has progressed in its control of major epidemics more satisfactorily than ever before in its history.

The Italian program called for control of malaria in the vicinity of Rome. That work appears to be coming along well. Some eugenics provisions were included by the Italians.

The Nazi program, as recently announced, goes much farther in eugenics than does any one of the others. One reason officially given for driving out the Jews is the desire to restore the purity of the Nordic blood as well as superiority of the Nordics in various fields.

The counsel relates to how the "badly polluted Germanic race is to be restored to its pristine Nordic purity." Every unmarried male Aryan is advised to mate with a "blonde woman with blue eyes, long oval face, pink and white skin, narrow nose and small mouth." Blond, blue-eyed men are advised not to marry "brunette women of the Mediterranean type, with short legs, hooked nose, black hair, full lips, a large mouth and an inclination to plumpness." Men are advised not to marry women of the Negroid type, with Negroid heads and bodies.

There is some advice to marry moral women with domestic tendencies and possessed of homely virtues. The rules for the men apply also to women.

May Be Mild Scurvy.

O. J. whites: What causes a 5-year-old boy to sweat profusely when he sleeps? He often has a head cold and he sometimes has a cough.

Reply.

The probability is that he has a mild scurvy. The foods that cure mild scurvy are raw tomatoes and cabbage, tomato juice and all kinds of fresh fruits and fruit juices.

Gravel.

E. W. J. writes: I am troubled with gravel in my kidneys. Would you kindly give me a remedy? I am on a careful diet, but think I should take some kind of medicine.

Reply.

Probably you should depend on the diet alone. Have you had this gravel analyzed? Is your diet based on what this analysis showed?

By virtue of certain deeds of trust dated February 11, 1929, being instruments Nos. 144, 145 and 146, recorded February 20, 1929, among the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell, at public auction, in front of the premises, starting with No. 3806 Northampton street northwest, on MONDAY, THE NINTH DAY OF OCTOBER, A. D. 1933, at FIVE O'CLOCK P. M., and immediately thereafter Nos. 3810 and 3812 Northampton street northwest, the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and designated as and being part of lot 19 in square 1860, in the combination made by the Chevy Chase Land Co. of Montgomery County, Maryland, of lots in said square and other property, as per plat recorded in liber 34 folio 195, of the records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia, on February 5, 1929, in three parcels to be more fully described at time of sale.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase-money bid for each property to be paid in cash, balance in two equal installments, payable in one and two years, with interest at six per centum per annum, payable semiannually, from day of sale, secured by deed of trust upon the property sold, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. A deposit of $500.00 will be required at time of sale. All conveyancing, recordings, revenue stamps, &c., at cost of purchaser. Terms of sale to be complied with within thirty days from day of sale, otherwise the trustees reserve the right to resell the property at the risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C.

Youth, Sought In Hagerstown Murder, Taken

Wanted in connection with the murder of an auctioneer and gasoline station attendant at Hagerstown, Md., Elvin E. Fair, 22, of Gettysburg, Pa., was arrested here yesterday when he hailed a motorcycle policeman to report the theft of his automobile.

He was implicated in the crime by a companion, Emanuel Bingaman, 19, also of Gettysburg. Bingaman was apprehended earlier in the day near Emmitsburg, Md. He told police that Fair fired the shot which killed Reuben N. Sollenberger in an attempted holdup Wednesday.

Policeman R. W. Davis, of the Traffic Bureau, hailed at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, talked for several minutes to a blond, blue-eyed youth, who stood with permit in hand and reported his machine stolen.

Gun Found on Him.

The youth readily admitted his name was Fair. He denied any part in the crime, however, and said he had been in Washington since Tuesday.

Sollenberger was shot from behind and fatally wounded as he sat in his second-hand shop counting receipts from a sale.

Neighbors See Escape.

Nearby residents said they saw two young men run from the shop. They were followed by Sollenberger. He fired several shots from his own revolver, then collapsed.

Bingaman was arrested at the home of a girl friend. He offered no resistence, telling police: "I know what you came for, but I didn't do the shooting."

He later confessed participation in the killing, claiming Fair engineered the robbery plot and fired the shot.

Maryland Seeks Him.

Fair said "he was in for it now and might as well join up with a gangster band and kill a few more before he was captured," Bingaman said.

Fair is believed to have a friend in Washington and to have come here to seek safety. He was unsuspecting until confronted by members of the fugitives squad.

Fair was returned to Hagerstown last night by Capt. Clarence Emmert and Detective William Patton, of the Hagerstown police.

Three Plane-Crash Victims Improving

U. S. Officials Thought Out of Danger.

The three Department of Commerce officials injured Tuesday night in an airplane accident at College Park, Md., were improved yesterday, according to Dr. Guy Leadbetter, surgeon in charge.

Rex Martin, assistant director of aeronautics, about whom concern was felt yesterday, when he failed to regain consciousness, showed the most improvement yesterday. His brain injury is "clearing up," Dr. Leadbetter said.

William T. Miller, airways superintendent who was at the controls when the ship crashed, is not in a critical condition, it was said. Chester H. McCall, assistant to Secretary of Commerce Roper, will be able to handle some of his work soon from his hospital bed, it was learned.

Philatelists View Air Mail Stamps

A collection of air mail stamps, the oldest dated 1908, was exhibited to the Washington Society of Philatelic Americans, meeting Tuesday night at 1900 R street northwest. They belonged to Maurice Petty, Washington collector.

The society discussed possible protest against the proposed charge of 50 cents apiece for new stamps which will commemorate the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

F. R. Rice, Ballston, Va., is president of the society.

Jury Disagrees in Trial Of Prohibition Agent

After the jury had been out two hours, Judge Ralph Given ordered it discharged, and another jury drawn today. The dry agent is charged with assaulting the policeman when the latter arrested him for a traffic violation at Twelfth and F streets northwest. The traffic charged was dismissed in Police Court.

Dahlia Group's Display Draws Large Crowds

Fort Monmouth Flower, Foot in Diameter, Among 2,000 Exhibited.

Hundreds of Washington's dahlia growers thronged the annual dahlia show of the National Capital Dahlia and Iris Society at the Carlton Hotel yesterday.

About 2,000 dahlias were on display. Most of them were products of amateur gardeners in suburban gardens. E. W. Sheets, president of the society, and E. G. Lund, vice president, were in charge.

The largest dahlia on display was the Fort Monmouth, red flower, a foot in diameter. It was grown by Mrs. M. B. Payne, of Barcroft, Va. The smallest dahlia was also a deep, rich red, scarcely an inch across.

The show will continue until 10 o'clock tonight, opening at 10 this morning.

L. W. Holland, Cherrydale, Va., won the bronze medal for the greatest number of ribbons; E. G. Lund, Dunloring, Va., won the special prize, and the Chevy Chase Garden Club won the basket prize.

Early Bank Closing Protested in Suburb

Decision on a request of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association that Woodridge-Langdon branch of Hamilton National Bank remain open until 5 p. m. will be made shortly, Hamilton officials said yesterday. Hamilton Bank, with others in the Washington Clearing House Association, closes at 3 p. m., except on Federal pay days.

The citizens association reminded Hamilton officials the former Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank before its affiliation with the Hamilton, remained open until 5 p. m., and that most employed residents in its locality could not visit the branch during the hours it is now open.

Red Cross Roll Call Headquarters Opened

Roll call headquarters of the Red Cross was opened yesterday at 1419 G street northwest. Mrs. John A. Johnston, director of roll call and public information, is in charge.

Information and supplies will be furnished volunteer workers on application to the headquarters.

Overseas President to Speak.

Miss Faustine Dennis, national president of the Woman's Overseas Service League, left Washington yesterday for a speaking tour of Middle Western States.

Here's Work!

Civil Service Jobs Require Lifting 125-Pound Sack.

All work and no play, at least during working hours, is presaged for the successful applicants of Civil Service positions announced yesterday.

Applications for positions as common laborers at 43 to 53 cents an hour, will be distributed at the office of the Labor Board at the Navy Yard beginning 9 a. m. Wednesday. Only 500 applications will be issued and the duties, which will be at the Navy Yard, are heavy manual labor requiring no special training.

A physical examination, which will include the shouldering of a sack weighing 125 pounds, will be given all applicants. Deductions for the 15 per cent economy provisions and retirement annuity will be made from salaries.

Seal to Get Full Support In Milk Probe

King Tells Bride He Will Give Him Another Assistant.

There will be no limitation on the work of Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate milk investigating committee, Senator William H. King announced last night.

"Mr. Seal will remain in charge of the investigation. If the work of the corporation counsel's office requires more help, I will ask the District Commissioners to appoint another aid."

Mr. Bride is willing that Mr. Seal continue the investigation; but believes the office work should not be permitted to accumulate. The investigation, Seal says, requires all his time.

The antitrust division of the Department of Justice will continue to assist Mr. Seal in compiling data.

Reception Honors Means.

Former Senator Rice W. Means, of Colorado, commander of the District of Columbia department of the American Legion, will be guest of honor at a reception and dance given by Tank Corps Post, No. 19, at the Mayflower Hotel, 8 o'clock tonight.

MediationBody For Treasury Up to Woodin

Conciliation Board Plan of Employes Awaits Chief's Approval.

Plans for a Treasury Department conciliation board, modeled after Civil Service recommendations for mediation of employe complaints, last night awaited only approval of Secretary Woodin.

At the same time, plans for similar set-ups in other Federal agencies were considered by officials in five departments — Commerce, Labor, Agriculture, State and Interior.

Provisions Revealed.

The plan mapped by the Treasury Department committee, headed by F. A. Birgfeld, chief clerk, provides first, for a conciliation board with authority to hear complaints. Appeal from a decision would be to the Treasury Secretary.

The plan, originally worked out and put in operation by the Civil Service Commission, provided appeals be taken first to the commission's board of appeals, and then to the commission itself. The Treasury committee thought appeals instead should go to the Secretary, feeling he would be aware of special conditions that might affect the case.

The commission's Conciliation Board came into being last Tuesday, and is waiting for somebody to file a complaint.

Aid Seen to Bill.

The Treasury already has a body somewhat similar to the Conciliation Board. It is called the "personnel committee," headed by Mr. Birgfeld. For 10 years it has handled complaints by and against employes, and endeavored to settle them amicably.

Officials of the Civil Service Commission pointed out yesterday that voluntary establishment of conciliation boards in the departments would aid passage of a bill making them compulsory in all Government offices. Such a bill was introduced last session, but died after being passed by the House.

Member Drive Planned.

An intensive city-wide campaign for membership increases and to stimulate interest in all branches of the organization's work will be undertaken immediately by the District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes Union as result of a meeting last night of officers of the various Washington locals, held at headquarters of the National Federation of Federal Employes in the Labor Building.

In an address expressing approval of the campaign, Luther C. Steward, president of the national federation, discussed the Civil Service Commission's plans for conciliation groups. President Steward pointed out that from inception of those plans by President Harry Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission, national officers of the national federation have been in close consultation with him and they have hearty approval of the national federation as a constructive step in direction of the ultimate goal—a civil service court of appeals.

Bicyclist, 18, Dies Of Crash Injuries

Russell Nichols, 18, Beltsville, Md., died at Sibley Hospital last night of a fractured skull, suffered when his bicycle collided with an automobile near his home Wednesday.

John R. Bullis, driver of the car, was held by police and later released. He will appear at an inquest conducted by Acting Coroner George S. Phillips Monday night.

Heating Plant Strike Is Ended

More Men Will Be Hired to Complete Work by Jan 1, as Scheduled.

Forty men returned to work yesterday at the Central Heating Plant as boilermakers ended their strike, which began September 11. Contracting officials said 350 men will be on the job within 10 days as the result of the truce.

Meanwhile, no developments were reported in the shutdown at the Interstate Commerce-Labor Buildings, caused by a jurisdictional dispute between carpenters and ironworkers. A similar disagreement caused the heating plant walkout.

Completion of the heating plant by January 1, as scheduled, will necessitate hiring a large force and almost 200 steamfitters, bricklayers, asbestos workers and other craftsmen will be added immediately, it was said. Erection of six smokestacks, which caused the split between boilermakers and ironworkers, has been completed.

Eyes Blind!

You Really See With Your Mind, Says Scientist.

And now let's get technical.

You do not see it with your eye—it is only part of the visual apparatus. What you see with is really your conscious mind.

This was explained to the Cosmopolitan Club yesterday by Dr. A. M. Skeffington, of St. Louis, who is conducting a graduate clinic for the District Optometrical Society. He subject was "Visual Effectiveness in the Modern Industrial Era."

Coasting!

Parked Auto Runs Down Boy Sitting on Curb.

To Roscoe Ditoto, 10, 728 Sixth street northeast, came the strange experience of being run over by a parked automobile.

Boat Parade Tonight Caps Cup Regatta

Flood lights will bathe the Potomac tonight as 60 brilliantly illuminated yachts and smaller craft skim the river in a gay pageant climaxing the President's Cup Regatta.

Gracing the lead boat and bowing to crowds on shore will be the pageant queen, Miss Annie Gertrude Arrington, George Washington University student and niece of Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Forming in line at the railroad bridge, the boats will float downstream to Hains Point, then up Washington Channel, back down the channel around Army War College and up Eastern Branch to the Corinthian Yacht Club.

The water parade will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Review by Officials.

Searchlights of the Coast Guard cutter Apache and powerful lights of the District National Guard, the Wilson Line and Army War College will play on the fleet.

The Bureau of Navigation will enter the largest vessel participating, the Aela, sister ship of the Presidential boat Sequoia. Another outstanding craft will be the Mendota, carrying Secretary of Commerce Roper and a party of friends.

High-ranking Government officials will view the fleet from grand stands erected near Hains Point. Extra police details will direct traffic in the area.

Ickes Honor Guest.

Commander G. Bache Gill, Corinthian Yacht Club, heads the committee in charge.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rutherford, Port Washington, Long Island, will be among honor guests at open-house ceremonies in the Corinthian Clubhouse after the pageant. Artists from local theaters will entertain.

Governor of Wyoming Here for Conferences

Gov. L. A. Miller, of Wyoming, arrived at the Washington Hotel yesterday to confer with appointed representatives of Nebraska and Colorado on the division of the waters of the Platte River.

He will leave the Capital for Cheyenne Monday.

Home Gone, But Dog Stays

Mongrel Gyp Refuses to Leave Site Razed for Heating Plant.

Her master's house at Twelfth and C streets southwest was condemned and razed to make way for the Central Heating Plant, but Gyp refused to move with him. When the bonus marchers bivouacked there last year she was their mascot and today she serves in the same capacity at the heating unit.

Convinced she would not leave, a watchman fixed up a bed for Gyp. Food is plentiful with the profusion of lunch boxes and generosity of those who run the field restaurant.

They say she was the only one not affected by the boilermakers' strike, which ended yesterday. But she did a walkout of her own when a photographer appeared. Abashed at her suddn importance, she hid beneath a truck and it took an overstuffed wiener and a dish of milk to bring her before the lens.

Bride to Confer On Liquor Bill

District Control Move to Be Discussed With Senator King.

Preparatory to drafting a liquor control law for the District, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride will confer today with Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee. He will also discuss the matter with Representative Norton, chairman of the House District Committee.

Bride has gathered data on all the principal control systems of the world, and also on laws adopted by States in preparation for liquor traffic following repeal. He will go over the merits on the various systems with the heads of the two District committees.

Expressing a belief that a definite public sentiment exists against the return of the saloon in the District, Bride predicted that a modification of the Bratt system of control, which Sweden has made famous, would be adopted.

U. S. to Probe District Relief Board's Costs

Hopkins Expected to Ban Pay Raises if Federal Funds Are Used.

Investigation into the set-up and administrative costs of the District Emergency Relief Division will be launched early next week by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, it was learned yesterday.

Federal officials disclosed Alan Johnstone, field representative in charge of Government relief work here and in several Southern States, will come to Washington from Atlanta to direct the inquiry.

Johnstone, it was reported, will study work relief pay rolls to learn whether there are wide discrepancies in wages paid to the needy. Hearings will be conducted if necessary. Johnstone will submit recommendations to Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator. Federal grants for District relief so far this year totaled $314,120.

Salary List Submitted.

George S. Wilson, Board of Public Welfare director, with authority over the District Emergency Relief Division, yesterday submitted to C. M. Bookman, assistant Federal relief administrator, a list of salaries paid to officials and clerks of the relief organization.

That information was requested by Hopkins recently, after 97 employes of the local relief organization were voted pay increases. Hopkins indicated he would block the raises if any of the funds came from Federal sources.

Twenty-seven others suffered pay cuts, it was said, without approval by Hopkins, as required by law. Three of these men resigned in protest.

Donovan Probes Situation.

Meanwhile, it was learned a study of the local relief division, with a view to possible economies, was begun about 10 days ago by A. R. Pilkerton, assistant to Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor.

"We are studying every phase of the operation of the relief division," Maj. Donovan revealed, "in the hope that we can economize. They are handling thousands of cases and probably have made some mistakes. That is to be expected because they are only human."

Leroy H. Halbert, chief of the relief division, said he welcomed suggestions for administration improvements.

Begging Drop Seen.

A sharp drop if not an end to street begging is predicted by District welfare officials when the transient relief division is organized.

Welfare Director Wilson said yesterday this problem will be one of the first to be considered by the organization to be headed by Arthur S. Rosichan, executive director of the Jewish Relief Federation. Rosichan's appointment was approved yesterday by Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins.

"The great problem heretofore has been how to take care of the deserving transients, who are forced to beg on the streets," Wilson said. "After the transient relief division is set up, an announcement will be made as to where destitute persons may be directed by those they accost."

Georgetown U. Fetes to Honor St. Mary's City

Dr. Nevils, as Term Opens, Outlines Programs for Tercentenary.

Georgetown University's part in the tercentenary celebration of the founding of St. Mary's City, Md., was outlined yesterday by Dr. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president, at convocation marking opening of the new academic term.

The university, he said, will hold programs beginning in November and concluding in the spring with a pageant. As the first Catholic institution of higher learning in the United States, he said Georgetown traces its history to the mission school established in 1634 by the Jesuit Fathers Andrew White and Ferdinand Poulton, missionaries to the Lord Baltimore Colony.

The Rev. George F. Strohaver, S. J., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, presented medals to nine undergraduates on the basis of competitions last year. Three were from Washington.

William A. Pindar, jr., of North Bergen, N. J., was awarded the O'Brien Medal for the best examination in junior philosophy and the Kidwell Medal for the highest average in physics.

Other awards were: Dixon Elocution Medal to George D. Crowley, jr., of Chicago; Garvan Oratorical Medal to Philip A. Hart, jr., of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Quicksall Shakespearean Medal to Paul T. O'Donoghue, of 2303 California street; Horace Medal to William J. Shaughnessy, of 1015 Otis street northwest; Edward Douglas White Debating Medal to George H. Guilfoyle, of New York City; the Dahlgren Medal for Integral and Differential Calculus to Thomas A. McCarthy, of 715 Allison street.
